Value of Planning Is Vital for Esopus Town

Professor George M. Raymond, partner in the planning and urban renewal consultant firm which currently is serving as consultant to the City of Kingston, suggested Thursday that the Town of Esopus consider a "well thought out planning program," which he said was "absolutely essential to the welfare of the town, of its business men and of all its people."

Professor Raymond, who is chairman of the Planning Department of Pratt Institute as well as partner in Raymond and May Associates, was guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Port Ewen Businessmen's Association in the Villa Capri, Port Ewen. Some 120 association members and guests turned out to hear his talk on "Planning for the Town of Esopus."

Raymond said that while he was not suggesting that Port Ewen can do the same things on the same scale as Kingston in long-range planning and development, a 40 per cent growth in both Port Ewen and Town of Esopus from 1950 to 1960 indicated "healthy development" in those areas. "Since Kingston's population remanined almost stationary during that period," he said, "it is obvious that the city's growth is taking place in the surrounding towns. In the near future," he said, "this rate of population growth is likely to pick up speed, and the necessary preparation to receive the new people and provide for them must be made, if the town's development is to proceed along healthy lines."

Problems Can be Solved

Raymond said that housing deterioration, a need for rehabilitation or modernization and an eight per cent cut into the unemployed in the town's labor force were among local problems confronting the town, but that "none of these are problems which cannot be solved. As a matter of fact," he said, "some of them have already been solved. The important thing for this town is to make sure it is ready to move in step with the times."

He said, "The trend, whether we like it or not, is for ever increasing federal and state assistance towards the development and strengthening of local economies. Much of this assistance is predicated upon the existence of a comprehensive plan and of a continuing planning process in the town."

Statistics-wise, the speaker said, we are in the midst of a "population revolution" and that within the next 40 years, with the country fully settled, our population is expected to increase by between 125 and 175 million people, or at the rate of between three and four million per year. By the year 2000, he said, it was expected that between 90-95 per cent of the country's entire population will probably live in cities and metropolitan areas, rather than on the farm.

However, he said, "evidence already in hand indicates that we are on the threshold of a new pattern of settlement, which has already been variously called 'spread-city' or 'Megapolis'" whereby we will witness the growth and urbanization of the still rural and open communities lying between and beyond existing suburban concentrations.

Anticipate Area Growth

This means, Raymond said, that communities like Kingston and its surroundings should expect to experience considerable growth and development.

He called on village and town leaders to learn the need for a "sense or urgency about making sure that the decisions being made today are the right ones in

MacArthur Still Critical, Kidney Action Improves

WASHINGTON (AP) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur's condition remains critical, but the emergency treatment started Thursday to try to meet the problem of diminished kidney action is "functioning quite satisfactorily," his doctors reported today.

A medical bulletin from Walter Reed Army Hospital at 9:30 a.m. also said there has been no bleeding from the general's esophagus for the past 20 hours. Therefore a tube that has been inserted through his throat and esophagus, into his stomach is being removed this morning.

Has Fair Night

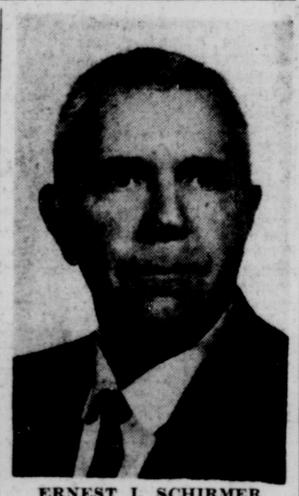

"However," the bulletin added, "his condition remains critical."

The bulletin reported that the five-star general "passed a fair night," and that his blood pressure remained at 110-60—presumably at about the same point as late Thursday afternoon—and that his pulse was at 96, still somewhat elevated, and his temperature at 99.2, just slightly above normal.

The doctors were fighting to give their patient sorely needed time to recover vital processes.

Will Work Closely on 2 Problems

Not Usual Coup, Is View on Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the United States is ready "to work very closely" with the new government of Brazil in tackling Brazil's difficult problems of economic and social development.

President Johnson had sent a message to new Brazilian Thursday night, congratulating him on Brazil's having solved its government change within that nation's constitutional framework.

Establishes Recognition

This established U.S. recognition of the new regime following the ouster of President Joao Goulart.

Rusk told a news conference that Goulart had been overthrown by a combination of forces representing fears in the Brazilian Congress, armed forces, and among state governors that constitutional government in the country was in danger.

"They moved to insure the constitutional process," Rusk said. Goulart's enemies had accused him of leading the country down the road to communism and U.S. officials had become alarmed about Communists moving into positions of power in Brazil.

Undersecretary of State George Ball today described the political upheaval in Brazil as "a rather remarkable event and not at all the usual coup" which frequently occurs in Latin America.

Notes Pressing Problems

Ball asserted that "all elements of the country, the military, state governors, Congress" had combined to force Goulart out of office.

Actually, he said, they were acting "to preserve constitutional government by stopping efforts to undermine the constitution."

Speaking on the NBC television program "Today," Ball said the Brazilians now face "very difficult problems" particularly those arising out of inflation. He said it will "take enormous efforts" for the Brazilians to get their economic house in order.

Carroll in Hospital

Alderman-at-Large Joseph F. Carroll Jr., who entered Kingston Hospital Thursday afternoon for treatment of possible slipped disc, was reported in satisfactory condition today. He is expected to remain in the hospital for about a week. The Common Council will be required to elect a temporary presiding officer at its regular April meeting Tuesday.

Vote in Favor Of Phone Strike In Empire State

Telephone plant workers, members of Local 1120, Communications Workers of America, in this district on Thursday night gave overwhelming support to the bargaining committee of the CWA to call a statewide strike of New York Telephone workers.

Harold Van Etten, of Veteran, president of Local 1120, reported the vote in this area as follows: Kingston, 67 to 3 for a strike; Poughkeepsie, 97-5; Monticello, 90-2; Newburgh, 68-4, and Catskill, 34-3. Each district supported the strike proposal by a tremendous plurality.

Van Etten said that the bargaining committee of the CWA had rejected the last offer of the telephone company. He explained the strike vote was taken to give the bargaining committee, which is continuing negotiations with the telephone company for a better wage contract, authority to call or not to call a strike.

Has 10 Days to Act

Van Etten also stated that International President Joseph Beirne has 10 days after the strike vote to call a strike. He explained that the date of the strike would be decided after the final results of the vote of 24,000 union members are forwarded by the locals to CWA headquarters.

Van Etten stated that for the first time in years, the telephone company has requested most of its workers to work overtime tomorrow. He contended that move has some significance as to what the telephone company plans to do.

Seven upstate locals and five from downstate conducted strike votes last night. This district comprises about 500 workers, who are members of Local 1120.

Schenectady Waits

Edward McCann, staff representative of the International union said Schenectady's local conducted no vote last night, preferring to wait to see what the trend is before deciding to ballot on the strike proposal.

The vote of Albany Local 1121 was 186-14 in favor of a strike.

Kremlin Unloads on Peiping

Asks Showdown Parley, Calls Mao Main Danger

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union finally lashed back at Red China today, calling for a showdown meeting of the world's Communist parties to thrash out communism's big feud.

Breaking a six-month silence, the Kremlin accused the Chinese of trying to run the Red bloc, to stir political unrest in the Soviet Union, to sabotage Premier Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence and to obtain nuclear weapons at any cost.

Was Final Straw

The Soviet reply occupied nearly an entire edition of the Communist party newspaper Pravda. In a front-page editorial, Pravda called Mao Tzetung's regime "the main danger to the unity of the world Communist movement."

Pravda said the final straw was Tuesday when Peking called Khrushchev "the greatest capitulationist in history" and demanded that Communists in and out of the Soviet Union repudiate his policies.

The party organ called the attack a "terrible insult to our party and the entire Soviet people."

"It showed conclusively that the leaders of the Communist party of China have passed all limits in their political struggle against the world Communist movement," the editorial continued, "and have chosen the Communist party of the Soviet Union and the Soviet Union as the main target for their attacks."

Hits Egotistical Interests

The remainder of the paper contained an anti-Chinese speech by Mikhail A. Suslov, the Soviet party's chief theoretician. The speech had been kept secret since Suslov delivered it to a meeting of the Soviet Communist party's central committee Feb. 14.

Accusing Red China of "nationalist arrogance" and "great power, egotistical interests," Suslov said: "There is no longer any doubt that Peking is steering a course toward a split among the Communist parties, toward the setting up of factions and groups hostile to Marxism-Leninism."

Suslov accused the Chinese of seeking to usurp the Kremlin's leadership of the world Communist movement and to bring political chaos within the Soviet Union as well.

Although Suslov's speech was laced with harsh language, he did not propose reading Peking out of the Communist move-

Saranac Pelted By 8-Inch Snow, More of Same Due

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Fresh snow, measuring up to eight inches, plastered portions of New York State and slushed highways on this 15th day of spring. Rain, with a hint of snow, splashed other areas.

Further wintry weather was on the Upstate horizon.

The snow struck hardest in the extreme north but also took travelers by surprise in Rochester and west to Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

State Police reported blowing snow and sleet on Interstate 490 from Rochester west, and fog and slippery snow on the northern section of the Northway. Visibility was poor in both areas.

The Weather Bureau said 8 inches or more of snow had fallen in the Saranac Lake area of the Adirondacks, about 2 inches from the Massena area eastward through Plattsburgh, and about 2 in the Buffalo area.

Overnight temperatures ranged from the upper 20s in the north to around 40 in the southeast. Tonight and tomorrow will be colder, the Weather Bureau said.

The bureau forecast scattered snow or flurries Upstate tonight and more flurries tomorrow in the western half and east of Lake Ontario. Scattered showers were predicted for New York City and Long Island.

Argentine Crossing Is Denied

Ex-Chief Vanishes After Plane Trip

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Victorious army leaders of Brazil's anti-Communist revolution said deposed President Joao Goulart fled into Argentina today, but Argentine border officials said they had not seen the ousted leftist.

An army spokesman said early today Goulart had left his ranch at Sao Borja, on the Argentine border, bound by car for Buenos Aires and "already is in Argentine territory." Goulart was reported accompanied by his family and Gen. Assis Brasil, chief of his personal military staff.

Patrols Alerted

Authorities in Argentine border provinces said, however, Goulart had not entered the country and that border patrols were alerted for any clandestine crossing. Airport control towers in Paraguay and Uruguay also were watching for him.

The military leaders of the swift, almost bloodless revolution, who charged that Goulart's leftist policies were leading Brazil into communism, sent six army officers to Sao Borja to arrest him if he remained at his ranch.

Goulart, abandoning his vow to fight to the death, vanished Thursday after flying out of Porto Alegre, his last redoubt in Brazil's deep south. Informants said he gave up to prevent the bloodshed of a futile resistance.

The deposed president had fled to the southern seaport, capital of his home state of Rio Grande do Sul, earlier in the day from Rio de Janeiro. Army troops were converging on Rio then in the last stages of the two-day revolution in which only two deaths were reported.

In Brasilia, the inland capital, new President Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli, president of the Chamber of Deputies, was sworn in as Goulart's constitutional successor by Congress Thursday after Senate President Auro Andrade declared the presidency vacant.

Eyes Vital Problems

Mazzilli, 54, a conservative politician, immediately set about forming a government to try to cope with Brazil's staggering budget deficit, rampant inflation, labor unrest and the need for profound social reform, especially land redistribution.

President Johnson sent Mazzilli his "warmest good wishes" and expressed admiration for the way Brazilians settled their difficulties "within the framework of constitutional democracy and without civil strife."

The world Communist press denounced Goulart's overthrow as a plot hatched in the United States.

The downfall of Goulart's Communist - influenced government sent more than a million persons pouring into Rio de Janeiro's main streets Thursday night for a tumultuous celebration.

Army leaders who launched the revolt north of Rio Tuesday night said the situation throughout the country was calm.

Democrats Call for Action on Other Things Besides Liquor-Reform April 15

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature's Democratic minority leaders want Gov. Rockefeller to authorize action on subjects besides liquor-reform at the April 15 special session.

Rockefeller, meanwhile, is blaming Democrats for the overwhelming defeat of his liquor proposals.

Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia and Sen. Joseph Zaretzki said Thursday the special session should go into such matters as aid for education, medical care for the aged and minimum wages.

"What the people cry out for is more schools, not liquor," they said. "If the governor thinks he can float into the White House on a sea of liquor, he is off his Rocky (cq—cap R)."

Rockefeller has recalled the Legislature to reconsider the liquor bills that were killed on the final day of the regular session. He has declined to say whether he will add other items to the agenda.

Special sessions may take up only those matters specified by the governor.

Rockefeller's bills would end price-fixing on liquor, abolish distance requirements between package stores and repeal the law that requires taverns to serve meals. He says these steps would promote a freer market in liquor and remove opportunities for corruption in liquor-licensing.

Rockefeller was asked at a news conference Thursday in Los Angeles, where he is campaigning for votes in the California presidential primary, whether the GOP majority in the Legislature was "kicking up its heels and giving you some opposition" on the liquor issue.

"No," Rockefeller replied. "It is true that the Democratic minority, having taken a strong stand against this, was supported by enough Republicans so that the revisions did not go through."

He noted the Legislature acted in the final hours of the session when, he said, "sometimes actions are taken, or not taken, which, with the opportunity for more careful consideration, might be reversed."

The liquor bills were killed in the Assembly, where Republicans have an 85-65 edge. The bills did not come to a vote in the Senate where the party breakdown is 33-25 in the Republicans' favor.

The Assembly vote on the key bill, to end price-fixing was 39 in favor, 100 against.

CC Asks Full Membership Say on Buses to Ulster

Opinion of its members on proposed extension of bus service by the Urban Transit Corp. to the Town of Ulster, is sought by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce prior to a public hearing by the Public Service Commission Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Municipal Auditorium.

The application, filed recently with the Common Council, seeks to establish bus service between central Broadway and Boice's Lane and Albany Avenue Extension, a shopping area.

Chamber members are asked to telephone opinions between 9 a. m. and noon Saturday, and on Monday before 3 p. m. The telephone number is FE 8-5100.

Application for the new service is under study by the chamber's Traffic and Transportation Committee, headed by Chris J. Larios. This committee's report will be considered by the chamber's Executive Committee, because the hearing takes place before the meeting of the full Board of Directors, which is to be held April 14.

Chamber President John F. Schuehler, in making the announcement today, said the organization is anxious to express the opinion of the majority of its members on all questions of importance. Some in the past, he noted, have complained of lack of opportunity to express opinions.

Time does not permit the calling of a special meeting on the proposal, he said. The chamber will be represented for testimony at the hearing.

A copy of th Urban Transit Corp., application, with all details, may be inspected at the chamber's office during regular office hours.

Urban Transit took over the local bus service last November when the Kingston City Transportation Corp., quit operating with permission of the PSC.

Asks Showdown Parley, Calls Mao Main Danger

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union finally lashed back at Red China today, calling for a showdown meeting of the world's Communist parties to thrash out communism's big feud.

Breaking a six-month silence, the Kremlin accused the Chinese of trying to run the Red bloc, to stir political unrest in the Soviet Union, to sabotage Premier Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence and to obtain nuclear weapons at any cost.

Was Final Straw

The Soviet reply occupied nearly an entire edition of the Communist party newspaper Pravda. In a front-page editorial, Pravda called Mao Tzetung's regime "the main danger to the unity of the world Communist movement."

Pravda said the final straw was Tuesday when Peking called Khrushchev "the greatest capitulationist in history" and demanded that Communists in and out of the Soviet Union repudiate his policies.

The party organ called the attack a "terrible insult to our party and the entire Soviet people."

"It showed conclusively that the leaders of the Communist party of China have passed all limits in their political struggle against the world Communist movement," the editorial continued, "and have chosen the Communist party of the Soviet Union and the Soviet Union as the main target for their attacks."

Hits Egotistical Interests

The remainder of the paper contained an anti - Chinese speech by Mikhail A. Suslov, the Soviet party's chief theoretician. The speech had been kept secret since Suslov delivered it to a meeting of the Soviet Communist party's central committee Feb. 14.

Accusing Red China of "nationalist arrogance" and "great power, egotistical interests," Suslov said: "There is no longer any doubt that Peking is steering a course toward a split among the Communist parties, toward the setting up of factions and groups hostile to Marxism-Leninism."

Suslov accused the Chinese of seeking to usurp the Kremlin's leadership of the world Communist movement and to bring political chaos within the Soviet Union as well.

Although Suslov's speech was laced with harsh language, he did not propose reading Peking out of the Communist move-

Saranac Pelted By 8-Inch Snow, More of Same Due

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Fresh snow, measuring up to eight inches, plastered portions of New York State and slushed highways on this 15th day of spring. Rain, with a hint of snow, splashed other areas.

Further wintry weather was on the Upstate horizon.

The snow struck hardest in the extreme north but also took travelers by surprise in Rochester and west to Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

State Police reported blowing snow and sleet on Interstate 490 from Rochester west, and fog and slippery snow on the northern section of the Northway. Visibility was poor in both areas.

The Weather Bureau said 8 inches or more of snow had fallen in the Saranac Lake area of the Adirondacks, about 2 inches from the Massena area eastward through Plattsburgh, and about 2 in the Buffalo area.

Overnight temperatures ranged from the upper 20s in the north to around 40 in the southeast. Tonight and tomorrow will be colder, the Weather Bureau said.

The bureau forecast scattered snow or flurries Upstate tonight and more flurries tomorrow in the western half and east of Lake Ontario. Scattered showers were predicted for New York City and Long Island.

Democrats Call for Action on Other Things Besides Liquor-Reform April 15

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature's Democratic minority leaders want Gov. Rockefeller to authorize action on subjects besides liquor-reform at the April 15 special session.

Rockefeller, meanwhile, is blaming Democrats for the overwhelming defeat of his liquor proposals.

Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia and Sen. Joseph Zaretzki said Thursday the special session should go into such matters as aid for education, medical care for the aged and minimum wages.

"What the people cry out for is more schools, not liquor," they said. "If the governor thinks he can float into the White House on a sea of liquor, he is off his Rocky (eq—cap R)."

Rockefeller has recalled the Legislature to reconsider the liquor bills that were killed on the final day of the regular session. He has declined to say whether he will add other items to the agenda.

Special sessions may take up only those matters specified by the governor.

Rockefeller's bills would end price-fixing on liquor, abolish distance requirements between package stores and repeal the law that requires taverns to serve meals. He says these steps would promote a freer market in liquor and remove opportunities for corruption in liquor-licensing.

Rockefeller was asked at a news conference Thursday in Los Angeles, where he is campaigning for votes in the California presidential primary, whether the GOP majority in the Legislature was "kicking up its heels and giving you some opposition" on the liquor issue.

"No," Rockefeller replied. "It is true that the Democratic minority, having taken a strong stand against this, was supported by enough Republicans so that the revisions did not go through."

He noted the Legislature acted in the final hours of the session when, he said, "sometimes actions are taken, or not taken, which, with the opportunity for more careful consideration, might be reversed."

The liquor bills were killed in the Assembly, where Republicans have an 85-65 edge. The bills did not come to a vote in the Senate where the party breakdown is 33-25 in the Republicans' favor.

The Assembly vote on the key bill, to end price-fixing was 39 in favor, 100 against.

CC Asks Full Membership Say on Buses to Ulster

Opinion of its members on proposed extension of bus service by the Urban Transit Corp. to the Town of Ulster, is sought by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce prior to a public hearing by the Public Service Commission Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Municipal Auditorium.

The application, filed recently with the Common Council, seeks to establish bus service between central Broadway and Boice's Lane and Albany Avenue Extension, a shopping area.

Chamber members are asked to telephone opinions between 9 a. m. and noon Saturday, and on Monday before 3 p. m. The telephone number is FE 8-5100.

Application for the new service is under study by the chamber's Traffic and Transportation Committee, headed by Chris J. Larios This committee's report will be considered by the chamber's Executive Committee, because the hearing takes place before the meeting of the full Board of Directors, which is to be held April 14.

Chamber President John F. Schuehler, in making the announcement today, said the organization is anxious to express the opinion of the majority of its members on all questions of importance. Some in the past, he noted, have complained of lack of opportunity to express opinions.

Time does not permit the calling of a special meeting on the proposal, he said. The chamber will be represented for testimony at the hearing.

A copy of th Urban Transit Corp., application, with all details, may be inspected at the chamber's office during regular office hours.

Urban Transit took over the local bus service last November when the Kingston City Transportation Corp., quit operating with permission of the PSC.

'Mysterious Note' Brings Smiles to India's Capital

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's capital, often beset by worries over famine and rioting, was able to smile this week at "the case of the mysterious letter."

This thriller has ingredients to make an imaginative mystery writer envious: British intelligence, unknown hands secretly searching the dusty national archives, a revolutionary flying home from Moscow in the night.

Still-Awaited Ending

To top it off, the still-awaited ending to the thriller is almost certain to reduce either Soviet or Communist Chinese influence in Communist party doings in India.

The hero or heel, depending on your politics, was Shripad Amrit Dange, the pro-Soviet Communist party boss in India, vice-chairman of the Moscow-controlled World Federation of Trade Unions, and general secretary of the All-India Trades Union Congress.

He was in the spotlight because someone somehow searched through hundreds of thousands of letters and documents in the National Archives and found a letter supposedly written 40 years ago.

It was said to have been penned in a prison cell by a young Communist revolutionary jailed by India's then British rulers, on a charge of antistate activity.

The young man, frantic at the thought of four more years behind bars, pleaded with the British sahibs to release him. In return he said he would work for British intelligence as a secret agent inside the Indian revolutionary movement.

None Other Than Dange

That young man, it was said this week, was none other than Shripad Amrit Dange.

Clearly, the pro-Chinese wing of Dange's own party was trying to do him in, trying to oust his pro-Moscow faction and take the party into Peking's fold.

His high-ranking comrades, known for their Chinese leanings were making speeches all over India about the letter, saying it was in Dange's handwriting and had been cross-indexed scores of times in the 40-year-old government records and obviously was not a forgery.

Prime Minister Nehru's government opened the archives long enough for interested parties to see the letter — one Communist official said he looked at it for three days — and then closed the file.

No one in fact was insisting very loudly that the letter was a forgery.

But who, originally found it? Who had access to these forgotten government files in order to give Dange's enemies their ammunition?

The right-wing Bombay newspaper, Current, was one of the first to publish the letter. Where did Current get it?

Speculation Aplenty

Nobody was answering any of these questions but there was speculation aplenty.

Dange was in Moscow when the storm broke. He flew home and declared he was enjoying the whole affair because it gave him a good chance to challenge party dissidents.

His mood changed the next day when he received telegrams from party cells throughout India and his own Trades Union Congress. All demanded that he resign.

The party secretariat talked with Dange for two hours behind closed doors and reportedly told him he should lie low until April 9 when the party's national council and national executive will meet to investigate the charge.

There, for the moment, "The Case of the Mysterious Letter" was suspended.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It was a spring, much like this one, four years ago when an almost unknown young actor named Vincent Edwards landed the title role of a new television series called "Ben Casey." Six months later he was a real star.

Seven years ago, the same experience befell a tall, husky fellow who, because of a slight resemblance to John Wayne, was cast as Marshal Matt Dillon of a new show called "Gunsmoke."

Right now, with most of next season's television programs and their casts chosen, there are many actors who are yet-to-be-born stars. One is David Hedison who has been picked as the romantic co - star with Richard Basehart in an action series on ABC called "Voyage to The Bottom of The Sea."

Tall, dark Hedison, 35, was picked three or four seasons back to play Cary Grantish master spy in an NBC series called "Five Fingers."

The series was deposited neatly into a time spot where it conflicted with what were then two of the most popular shows on the air, CBS' "Have "Gun, Will Travel" and "Gunsmoke." Poor old "Five Fingers" never had a chance. It was canceled by the sponsor after the fourth show and was removed after 14. NBC quietly substituted a public affairs show for the rest of the season.

Today, Hedison does not think the association with a failure hurt him as a potential star.

"But I sure want this one to be a success," he confessed. "I have a lot of enthusiasm for it—the scripts look pretty good and there will be a lot of variety in the story lines."

Recommended for Sunday: "Made in America," CBS, 9-9:30 Eastern Standard Time new game show with millionaire contestants; "Celebrity Game," CBS, 9:30-10—new panel show with Carl Reiner as host and nine celebrities on a rotating panel; "Jeremy Rabbit, The Secret Avenger," NBC, 10-11—comedy-drama with Jim Backus, Franchot Tone, Brian Donlevy and Frank Gorshin.

Holds Out Hope For Full Cancer Control by 1989

NEW YORK—The possibility of "full cancer control within 25 years" was held out today by the president of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Wendell Scott, who is also a professor of medicine at Washington University in St. Louis and a rear admiral in the U. S. Navy Medical Corps Reserve, referred to this possibility in a discussion with an 18-year-old Philadelphia girl who is doing advanced cancer research while attending Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Scott and the co-ed, Doris Reitinger, met in an ABC-TV studio in New York during rehearsals for their appearance April 5 on the Honeywell program, "Science All Stars."

Notes Tremendous Strides

Dr. Scott emphasized the "tremendous" strides made in recent years in cancer research and control. For example, he said, the drug methotrexate provides a definite cure for chorio-carcinoma, cancer of the uterus.

There is every reason to believe, he added, that discoveries of other drugs will lead to cancer control of other types.

Commenting on the recent government report on smoking, he said "the main conclusion is inescapable." Stripped of medical terminology, he said, the report means simply that there is absolutely no question of the casual relationship between lung cancer and cigarette smoking.

Dr. Scott said he used to smoke, but now consumes less than a pack of cigarettes a year. "I don't find it too hard to do," he said, 'since I want to minimize my chances of dying of cancer."

Praises Student

Dr. Scott praised Miss Doris Reitinger, "Science All Stars" participant honored for her work with the drug colchricine as used in preliminary cancer research. Doris has worked at the Institute for Cancer Research and received a National Science Foundation Fellowship which enabled her to continue her studies at Penn State University.

"Science All Stars" is sponsored by the world's largest manufacturer of automatic controls, and is designed to encourage talanted teen-agers to follow careers in science and engineering.

Dear Abby . . .

Tread Lightly, Mom!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is a very outspoken person. When she invites my husband and me to her home for dinner she asks us to leave the children home. She says too much "commotion" makes her nervous. Ours are 5, 7, 8 and 10, and they aren't any worse than anybody else's. She lets us bring them every Sunday for supper when she has all her other grandchildren there. There are eleven in all, and I wonder why the "commotion" doesn't make her nervous then. I am ready to tell my husband if his mother doesn't want my children during the week, she doesn't have to put up with them on Sundays, either. Am I wrong?

MENDELL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes, you are wrong. Take the children to their grandmother's on Sundays and keep quiet.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a small town and would like to know how one goes about making a donation to the HEART FUND or the CANCER SOCIETY at the time of death when the family requests a donation instead of flowers. How is the family made aware of the donation? I am sure there are others who would like to know, too. Thank you.

UNCERTAIN IN TANKTOWN

DEAR UNCERTAIN: Consult your telephone directory for the local headquarters. If there is none, write to national headquarters: American Cancer Society, Inc., 219 East 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017, and American Heart Association, 44 East 23rd Street, New York, New York 10010. They will let the bereaved family know of the donation and who sent, but will not reveal the amount.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 16-year-old daughter. She is kind, thoughtful and helpful around the house. She wears the key to her diary on a chain around her neck. The other day she forgot it. I don't know what made me do it, Abby, because I have always trusted her but I did an unforgivable thing. I opened her diary and read it. What a shock I got! I was sick inside. You would never believe the things she does outside the house! My problem is, how do I let her know that I know these things about her without telling her that I read her diary? Should I tell her dad about her goings on? It would break his heart as she is our only child.

WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: You already know that reading your daughter's diary was "unforgivable." I don't recommend that you tell your daughter. It's apparent that she needs the friendship of a mature, understanding person in whom she can confide. Perhaps it's not too late to build that kind of relationship with her. Try, and try hard; and, if you succeed, she will tell you all about her "goings on" herself. If she doesn't, keep an eye on her. There will be other clues.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SANDRA: When a man tells you that he is poor marriage material —believe him. He knows himself better than you know him.

Driver and His Dog Both Spending Time

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When Daniel M. Jacobs went to court on a charge of speeding 90 miles an hour, he took along his only defense witness — his dog. Both are now in the doghouse.

The judge refused to allow Otto Von Bismarck I, a Doberman pinscher, to enter the courtroom. Jacobs, 25, promptly hung a portrait of the 9-month-old pet on a hatrack and then stated his case to the jury.

"I wouldn't drive that fast because I wouldn't endanger my dog's life, and he was in the car with me," he said. "He's too valuable to risk driving at such a speed."

Jacobs, conducting his own case, then claimed the prosecutor disliked dogs.

The jury convicted Jacobs. He got five days for speeding and five days for contempt, arising from his remarks concerning the dog's treatment.

PO Lost Own Checks

LOUISVILLE (AP) — It was an embarrassing, and upsetting, incident for the Post Office staff here.

Approximately 100 paychecks for government workers in the federal building were mailed from Chicago to Louisville. One week later, they still hadn't arrived.

John Larey, an official of the General Services Administration, flew in from Chicago in an effort to track down the checks.

He found them. They had been delivered to Internal Revenue Service, two floors above in the same building.

Some good cooks like to use baked rather than boiled potatoes when making potato soup. They say the baked potatoes have extra good flavor and texture.

MACHINERY FOR PEACE

The official start of the United Nations peace-keeping mission on Cyprus provides a good occasion for considering what ought to be done in future situations of this kind. There is a clear need for more orderly and effective U.N. machinery to nip small conflicts in the bud to prevent their escalating into big wars.

The United States has consistently pressed for the development of such machinery. Our United Nations ambassador, Adlai E. Stevenson, noted our position again in his recent Dag Hammarskjold memorial lecture at Princeton. "Time and again," he said, "we of the United States have urged the creation of a United Nations international police force, trained specifically for the keeping of the peace."

The Cyprus time bomb nearly exploded because no such force was in readiness. Though the Security Council's cease-fire resolution saved the day, war almost engulfed the island while military forces to man the peace-keeping operation were, as Stevenson put it, "being assembled on a hit-or-miss basis."

It is this that must be changed if the United Nations is to exercise its peace-keeping function to best advantage. An established international police force may not be feasible at this stage. The matter cannot be tackled with any hope of success, for one thing, until a settlement has been worked out for the problem posed by the refusal of Russia and several other nations to pay peace-keeping assessments.

But nothing would be gained by setting aside the whole business of a U.N. police force until conditions are judged favorable. Stveneson's proposals for an inventory of what member nations would provide in the way of men and equipment, and for more careful U.N. headquarters planning, make excellent sense. It is to be hoped that others will join the United States in this suggested effort to streamline the peace-keeping machine without delay.

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK

Andrew Carnegie was one of the great pioneers in building the steel industry. He had the vision and the courage to take long risks and did much to lay the foundation on which this nation's industrial might was built.

Yet it is likely that Mr. Carnegie is best remembered for a very different kind of achievement — the Carnegie libraries. They were built in community after community across the country. He wanted a better-educated nation and his contribution to that end hardly can be exaggerated.

This is worth noting now that National Library Week will be observed from April 12 to 18. The American library system has grown to a point of size and excellence far beyond anything that Mr. Carnegie or anyone else could have envisaged. Even the smaller communities have their free libraries, and good ones. The books are there and waiting. It is up to the people to take advantage of them.

What should our resolve be during the week's observance? Just this: That year in and year out we will read more books and better books. The strength of this nation depends on the knowledge and understanding of its citizens.

A BALANCE ON DRUGS

In any field where some measure of government restrictions seems advisable, there are two potential dangers. One is that inadequate control may work against the public interest. The other is that excessive control may curb initiative or in other ways unduly hamper private enterprise. This dilemma is being illustrated again as the controversy over regulation of the drug industry continues.

Investigation by committees in both the Senate and House has shown a need for scrupulous testing of new drugs for both safety and effectiveness. It has also demonstrated that we need better means of assuring that doctors not only have access to the results of testing but make full use of this knowledge.

Some testimony has made it clear, however, that simply tightening controls is not the whole answer. A spokesman for the American Medical Association has noted, for example, that keeping a valuable drug off the market pending extensive clinical tests to determine all its side effects may cause needless suffering and death. This was stated in even stronger terms by a spokesman for the American Pharmaceutical Association, who warned against "hysteria about drug safety."

The important thing is to arrive at balance. Research on new drugs should be encouraged, yet they should not be put on the market until a reasonable assessment of their effects has been made. There ought to be full and open cooperation between drug manufacturers and the Food and Drug Administration in drug-testing programs.

It is not right that the FDA and the drug industry should be at odds, with the medical profession caught somewhere in between. All three should join in the task of weighing drug values against risks. Only through such a sharing of responsibility can the public interest be safeguarded without unfair curbs on private interest.

A DEMOCRATIC SENATOR CHALLENGES FULBRIGHT

The answer of Senator Tom Dodd, Democrat of Connecticut, to Senator Fulbright's assertion that Fidel Castro should be accepted as a disagreeable but bearable nuisance has been to send a copy of a newly issued pamphlet titled "Terror and Resistance in Communist Cuba" to every one of his senatorial colleagues.

The pamphlet, the first in a series projected by the extremely knowledgeable Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, is the product of Paul Bethel, who was press attache at the U. S. Embassy in Havana from 1958 to 1961. It is in every respect a shocker. It has convinced Senator Dodd that there is going to be an uprising against the Castro regime sooner rather than later, and that when the explosion does come, the attitude of the U. S. may be the make-or-break factor.

The Bethel material, drawn from new refugee sources and a careful monitoring of internal Castroite radio communications inside Cuba, makes it plain that virtually nothing is done today in Fidel's Red paradise without the use of extreme compulsion. Resistance calls forth terror, but the terror only compounds the resistance. Peasants — the guajiros — are commanded to cut the sugar cane, but the Fidelista command corps has not been able to keep the guajiro from sabotaging the cutting. The fields burn, the grinding equipment in the mills breaks down. And, as a last resort, the Castroites have to turn to a universal military draft to get the crops in.

In putting a copy of "Terror and Resistance in Communist Cuba" on every senator's desk, Tom Dodd is serving notice that Fulbright does not speak for the Democratic Party in the Senate. The Bethel pamphlet, in Dodd's opinion, effectively combats the fallacy that the Castro regime can be made stable. The truth is that its seeming solidity is based on Russian support — but such support is extremely vulnerable when it must operate over thousands of miles of ocean. Uprisings, according to the Bethel thesis, are possible against a Communist terror regime, as has been proved in Hungary, Poland, East Germany, and Tibet. Whether they can succeed or not is a function of distance. The Hungarians anti-Communist revolution, for one, would have succeeded if Khrushchev had not moved in the Red army with 5,000 tanks. It would be impossible to move such a force into Red Cuba in the event of an uprising.

The irony, according to Senator Dodd and Paul Bethel, is that the resistance inside Cuba is increasing to the point of imminent explosion at a time when the U. S. State Department believes that living conditions in Cuba have improved. In Miami, the Cuban refugees have given up hope that this country intends to do anything to help them return to their homeland.

Of course, Fidel Castro is "bearable" for the time being. So is cancer in its early stages. It is only when metastasis occurs, with the disease jumping to distant parts of the anatomy, that cancer becomes something more than a nuisance. Castroism is "bearable" only so long as it can be prevented from leaping to Chile or Brazil.

The Dodd retort to the Fulbright attitude would shape itself into a five-point program reminiscent of U. S. behavior back in the eighteen nineties, when our policy was to encourage the Jose Marti Cuban rebellion against Spain. One, Washington would withdraw its restrictions on Cuban anti-Communist Freedom Fighters. Two, we would commit ourselves publicly to a declaration that Cuba must be freed. Three, we would let the anti-Castro exiles in Central America purchase arms. Four, we would reaffirm the Monroe Doctrine. And five, we would encourage the creation of a Legion of Exiles from all Communist countries to take the part of the anti-Castroites.

Will we do any of this in time? Or will the explosion predicted by Paul Bethel for Cuba be permitted to waste itself?

Food, Emotional Upsets Are Causes of Distress

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—We live at an altitude of 4,600 feet. Every weekend we spend a day at a lake that is at 6,200 feet. While at the lake, we feel fine but on the way home we suffer from stomach gas. Does the altitude cause this or is it the sugar in the coffee and the cookies we eat?

A—There is always some gas in the stomach because of swallowed air. Some people swallow great quantities of air in their attempts to belch. This is the commonest cause of gas in the stomach. Since gases tend to expand when air pressure decreases, you would have more trouble with internal gas pressures when going up to the lake than on the return.

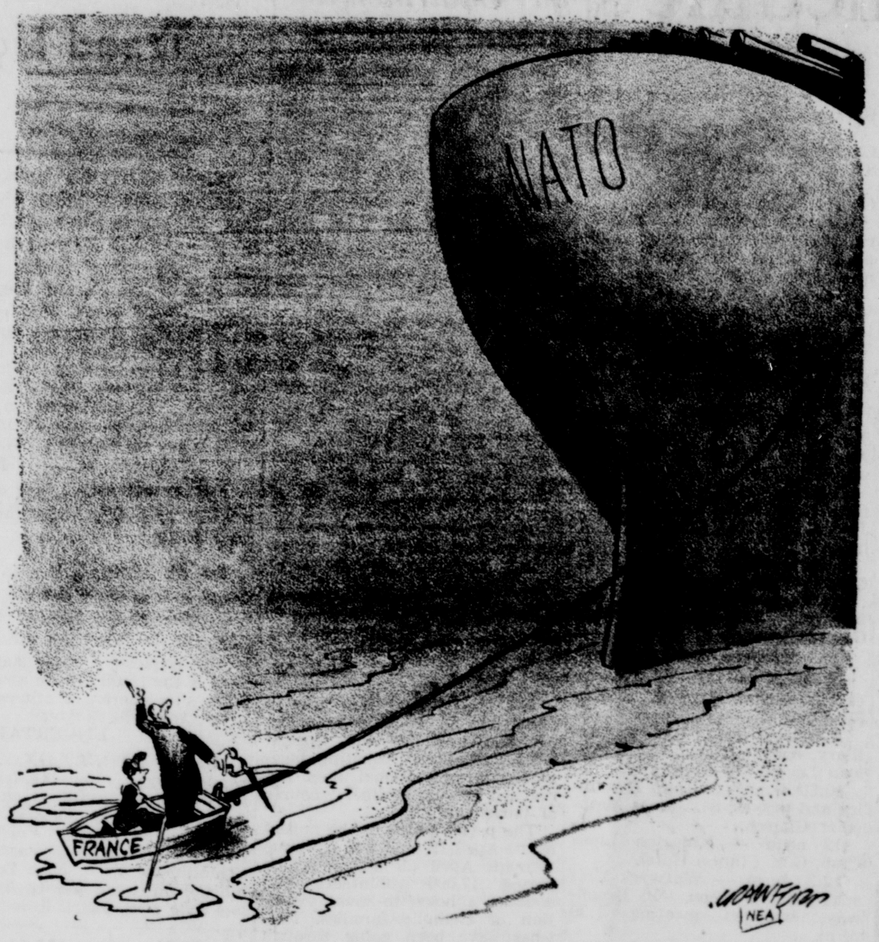

Fermentation of sugars and starches in the intestines is a source of abdominal discomfort and bloating. The gas in the intestines causes pressure on the stomach and in that way may increase belching. Since this fermentation usually occurs in the lower rather than the upper part of the intestinal tract, it usually involves foods eaten one or two days before the discomfort is felt. That would rule out any cookies eaten on the day of returning home. Look for the cause in foods eaten earlier or in emotional upsets associated with returning to the old grind.

Q—My doctor says I have chronic nasopharyngitis. What is the cause and can it be cured?

A—Nasopharyngitis is an inflammation of the area where your nasal passages join your throat. It may be caused by allergy (hay fever), a head cold or chronic exposure to smog. The treatment would depend on the cause but, like all chronic conditions, this one is hard to shake.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — At the very time the Alaska earthquake struck, there was a confidential proposal in government hands for a co-ordinated attack aimed at producing some of the basic facts necessary to build an earthquake warning network.

It has not yet been approved.

Recent break-throughs in instruments and methods have opened the door to a whole new world of earthquake research possibilities which scientists say could end the frustrations of the past 30 years.

Geophysicists interviewed here say we now have the tools to do the research needed to develop a crude earthquake prediction system for major communities — probably within 10 years, certainly within 20.

It would, of course, only predict quakes likely to cause important damage to people and property. The system would likely skip predictions of quakes occurring in the wilderness and in deserts unless they'd produce nasty effects at a distance.

SUCH WARNINGS would not be correct every time any more than weather predictions are. Scientists would be happier if their first system was right one time out of three. The predictors would probably err on the side of caution, predict more quakes than would actually occur. They'd hope not to miss any important earthquakes near population centers.

One reason for this scientific optimism: There's been greater-than-expected success in predicting the eruption of volcanoes in a pilot project. Working in the Hawaiian Islands, scientists in this experimental project are able to fortell volcanic eruptions with an accuracy of 50 per cent. That is, half the eruptions they predict actually occur. The other potential eruptions are underground lava flows pushing upward which die away without surfacing.

THE U. S. GEOLOGICAL SURVEY is continuing to improve its techniques.

One of the most promising leads for the prediction of earthquakes is by measuring the strain rocks are undergoing in the major fault line areas. This can be done in part with strain gauges, which measure the actual change in shape or length of rock formations. The other technique is to measure the speed at which sound waves move through the rocks. (The speed varies according to the strain which the rock is undergoing).

If the earthquake specialists can determine how much strain different types of rock formation and fault lines endure before slipping, what strains cause what size slips and something about how long it takes for a particular overstrain to result in a slip then they'll be on the way toward making crude predictions.

AS A PRELIMINARY, this involves a major co-ordinated study of an important earthquake fault. One proposal favors the great San Andreas fault in California. By seismic, geodetic, magnetic, gravimetric and geologic measurements they'd attempt to determine the elastic properties of the rock formation in the area, the vertical extent of the fault line, how much strain has so far been accumulated over the region of the fault line and carefully map the lines of stress through the region.

All this earthquake work will have a major by-product. The more U. S. scientists find out about earthquakes, the better they will be able to detect and pinpoint Russian underground nuclear explosions. The big problem now is that it's impossible to distinguish between some earthquakes and some types of camouflaged underground nuclear explosions.

Kennedy Campaign Talks Are Recalled on U.S. Prestige

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe an ex-President has some advantages in political debate — for, as the years go on and he surveys the passing scene, he can always say from personal experience: "I told you so."

Thus, former President Eisenhower, while attending a few days ago a forum in Los Angeles, was reminded of the late President Kennedy's charge in the 1960 campaign that United States "prestige" was low. Mr. Eisenhower was asked how he would appraise our "prestige" now. The former President answered:

"I am not going to detail what has happened in the past three years, but the prestige of the United States today is far less than it was in 1960."

The dictionary gives "influence" as a synonym for "prestige." Mr. Kennedy, in a campaign speech in Kansas City on Oct. 22, 1960, amplified what is meant by "influence." He said.

"I define prestige as influence, as an ability to persuade people to accept your point of view. That probably cost us more in the '50s than any other failure or any other decision or any other action."

Speaking a few days later in New York City, Mr. Kennedy declared:

"One of the great problems which now affects the United States, affects our security, affects our leadership, affects our chances of peace, is that the United States in recent years, rather than giving an image of strength and purpose and vitality, has given an image of reaching middle age and beginning to fade as an inspiration and hope to the people all around the globe."

But Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said only a few days ago virtually the same thing about the present Administration's foreign policy.

Mr. Kennedy made several speeches in the campaign on the meaning of "prestige." In Philadelphia on Oct. 29, 1960, he said:

"By prestige I do not mean popularity. . . .prestige is important, but if these people upon whom we depend for our security, our support, and ultimately the peace, ever begin to get the idea that we are tired, uncertain, not sure where we are going, without purpose, how can we lead a free alliance?"

But as Americans look around the world today, they wonder who is leading the "free alliance," and whether the difficulty is in the United States or abroad. France has just recognized Red China, and the countries of Western Europe continue to ignore American appeals that they curtail their trade with Communist Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign, in expressing his belief that American "prestige" had fallen to a very low point, said at Albuquerque, N. M., on Nov. 3:

"You cannot be a citizen of this country, concerned about its future, and not be aware of the decline in influence and prestige of our country, aware of the fact that in ten countries polled a majority of the people thought by 1970 the Soviet Union would be first in science and in military power."

But it turns out that all the talk in 1960 about the "missile gap," for instance, was not true. Indeed, American military superiority today, which is conceded with respect to many categories, could not possibly have been built up in just three years. It is the result of the careful planning of non-political military men ever since the Korean War aroused the American people to the dangers of Communist imperialism.

Maybe Sen. Fulbright, who now calls Castro a "distasteful nuisance" but not a danger, had not read the speech by Sen. John F. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign at Portland, Ore., on September 7, in which he said:

"They (the American people) wonder why America is regarded with so much contempt on the once-friendly island of Cuba, only 90 miles away, that its erratic leader feels free to denounce us with words and threaten us with missiles."

But it so happens that nearly four years have passed since that 1960 campaign, and the Castro government still regards the United States with contempt and there are well-authenticated reports that a military base in Cuba, manned by Soviet "technicians," is still potentially menacing to the American people. Mr. Kennedy added in that same speech:

"What has happened to our prestige? It is not enough to blame it all on Communist propaganda. Nor is it enough merely to call for more American propaganda or spending. The roots of our trouble go deeper. We are losing the respect of the peoples of the world primarily because we are in danger of losing those qualities they have always respected."

Yet in the last few days, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, a prominent Democrat, has called upon his countrymen to "come to terms, at last, with the realities." He gives up on the economic blockade of Cuba. He says it is futile. He insists that the United States cannot persuade its allies to maintain such a blockade.

But nobody has come forth with the basic reason as to why the Western European countries —our own allies—feel they can ignore our pleas and earnestly written diplomatic communications asking them to assists us in an economic boycott of Cuba, from which island a constant campaign of Communist subversion and infiltration is being carried on against the rest of Latin America. It is not American "prestige" that has fallen, but actually the prestige of nations which prefer the materialistic gains of "trade" to the ideals for which free nations have made such supreme sacrifices in the past.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

When my father is in the mood, he's a good talker. Talk or fight—it makes no difference to him. He is groping toward his 81st birthday and he has a good head of white hair. His hackles go up quickly, and come down with a crash.

He moved into my house in Hallandale, Florida, recently and he sits for hours in a wing chair looking out through a glass panel at the swimming pool and the cabin cruiser at the dock. "Beautiful," he murmurs. "Just beautiful. There must be a hell of a lot more to writing than I figured."

John M. Bishop is, a retired police lieutenant (1909-1933), and he tells some pretty good yarns about cops. Once he worked for an Irish chief who had a brogue that never got out of the peat bog."He was something," Big John says. "Stood in front of City Hall one day and had his picture taken. Then he sent copies to his poor relatives in Ireland with the notation: 'Here I am in front of my new home. I want you to know that I'm doing well in America."

Another time the mayor had all the ward leaders show up in swallow tails and high hats for a political funeral. It was a cold winter day. One of the pallbearers contracted pneumonia and died. So they had a funeral for him, and another pallbearer became ill and died. At the third funeral, one of the bosses held his hat over his heart and shivered. "Boss," he whispered to the mayor, "two more funerals like this and we got no organization."

We were at the Dania Jai-Ali Palace one night watching the Spanish kids whack a hard ball at high speed. My father sipped a frosty beer and his head swung back and forth, like a slow lighthouse. "Want to place a bet?" I said. He thought about it. "No," he said solemnly, "I don't think so. " I mentioned that the last time we were at Gulfstream Park he hadn't placed a bet.

"That's right," he said, "and I'll tell you why." When my father uses those last five words, he's usually good for a fifteen minute dissertation. "I'm a poor sport, that's why." I insisted that he was anything but a poor sport.

"You're wrong," he said quietly. "I'm a lousy loser." There was a moment of silence, as we both watched the great Egerbi make a winning point. "Come to think of it," he said, "I'm not even a good winner."

I was surprised. I thought I knew both of my parents pretty well. My mother wouldn't take a dollar to a nickel that the sun would come up in the morning, but I fancied my father in a stiff-brim straw hat, white flannels, and blue jacket, with binoculars hanging on his chest. He also knew how to jolly the ladies, but that's another story.

"We had an inspector once who used to play the horses. God, it was terrible. He never won and he never stopped. He took tips from shoe shine boys. He was a good policeman, but he was so broke that the shoes were falling off his feet." I smiled.

"Oh," my father said, "you think it's funny Well, it taught me a good lesson. He was a fine policeman and he ran a good district, but his family never had a meal from one Christmas to the next. Matters went from bad to worse.

"I was on a night tour in headquarters one time when the inspector came down the hall. One shoe kept slapping because the bottom had become loosened from the top. When he got in the office, somebody said: ' Good God, inspector. Look at that shoe. It's coming apart.'

"Know what he did? He called a patrolman, one of the reserves, and he handed him a couple of dollars and said: 'Johnny, do me a favor. Go down to the nearest shoe store and see if you can get me a left-footed shoe size nine and a half.' The cop was kind of slow, and he said: 'Sure inspector. Any particular color?'

"The inspector blew up and told him to try to match the black one he had on his right foot. Do you know something? That cop went out and found a left-footed shoe and the inspector put it on. It didn't match the other one, but he kept saying: 'Nobody ever looks at my feet anyway. It'll last a couple of months."

I shook my head. "But that wasn't the worse," my father said reassuringly. "Oh no. We had a lieutenant once who also played the ponies. Or maybe it was the other way around. He was on plain clothes duty one time and he came in to the precint in such shabby chothes that nobody could bear to look at him.

"Would you believe it—a politician walked in and shook hands with the lieutenant and the sleeve of his jacket fell off. I'm not kidding. It was pitiful. Someone slapped him on the back and his pants split.

"A frightful situation. I was on the desk that night and I felt so sorry that I called the patrol wagon and had him taken home so that he wouldn't be arrested for indecent exposure. Him a good family man, too.

"No thanks. I don't think I'll bet on anything tonight."

It has convinced Senator Dodd that there is going to be an uprising against the Castro regime sooner rather than later, and that when the explosion does come, the attitude of the U. S. may be the make-or-break factor.

The Bethel material, drawn from new refugee sources and a careful monitoring of internal Castroite radio communications inside Cuba, makes it plain that virtually nothing is done today in Fidel's Red paradise without the use of extreme compulsion. Resistance calls forth terror, but the terror only compounds the resistance. Peasants — the guajiros — are commanded to cut the sugar cane, but the Fidelista command corps has not been able to keep the guajiro from sabotaging the cutting. The fields burn, the grinding equipment in the mills breaks down. And, as a last resort, the Castroites have to turn to a universal military draft to get the crops in.

In putting a copy of "Terror and Resistance in Communist Cuba" on every senator's desk, Tom Dodd is serving notice that Fulbright does not speak for the Democratic Party in the Senate. The Bethel pamphlet, in Dodd's opinion, effectively combats the fallacy that the Castro regime can be made stable. The truth is that its seeming solidity is based on Russian support — but such support is extremely vulnerable when it must operate over thousands of miles of ocean. Uprisings, according to the Bethel thesis, are possible against a Communist terror regime, as has been proved in Hungary, Poland, East Germany, and Tibet. Whether they can succeed or not is a function of distance. The Hungarians anti-Communist revolution, for one, would have succeeded if Khrushchev had not moved in the Red army with 5,000 tanks. It would be impossible to move such a force into Red Cuba in the event of an uprising.

The irony, according to Senator Dodd and Paul Bethel, is that the resistance inside Cuba is increasing to the point of imminent explosion at a time when the U. S. State Department believes that living conditions in Cuba have improved. In Miami, the Cuban refugees have given up hope that this country intends to do anything to help them return to their homeland.

Of course, Fidel Castro is "bearable" for the time being. So is cancer in its early stages. It is only when metastasis occurs, with the disease jumping to distant parts of the anatomy, that cancer becomes something more than a nuisance. Castroism is "bearable" only so long as it can be prevented from leaping to Chile or Brazil.

The Dodd retort to the Fulbright attitude would shape itself into a five-point program reminiscent of U. S. behavior back in the eighteen nineties, when our policy was to encourage the Jose Marti Cuban rebellion against Spain. One, Washington would withdraw its restrictions on Cuban anti-Communist Freedom Fighters. Two, we would commit ourselves publicly to a declaration that Cuba must be freed. Three, we would let the anti-Castro exiles in Central America purchase arms. Four, we would reaffirm the Monroe Doctrine. And five, we would encourage the creation of a Legion of Exiles from all Communist countries to take the part of the anti-Castroites.

Will we do any of this in time? Or will the explosion predicted by Paul Bethel for Cuba be permitted to waste itself?

Food, Emotional Upsets Are Causes of Distress

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—We live at an altitude of 4,600 feet. Every weekend we spend a day at a lake that is at 6,200 feet. While at the lake, we feel fine but on the way home we suffer from stomach gas. Does the altitude cause this or is it the sugar in the coffee and the cookies we eat?

A—There is always some gas in the stomach because of swallowed air. Some people swallow great quantities of air in their attempts to belch. This is the commonest cause of gas in the stomach. Since gases tend to expand when air pressure decreases, you would have more trouble with internal gas pressures when going up to the lake than on the return.

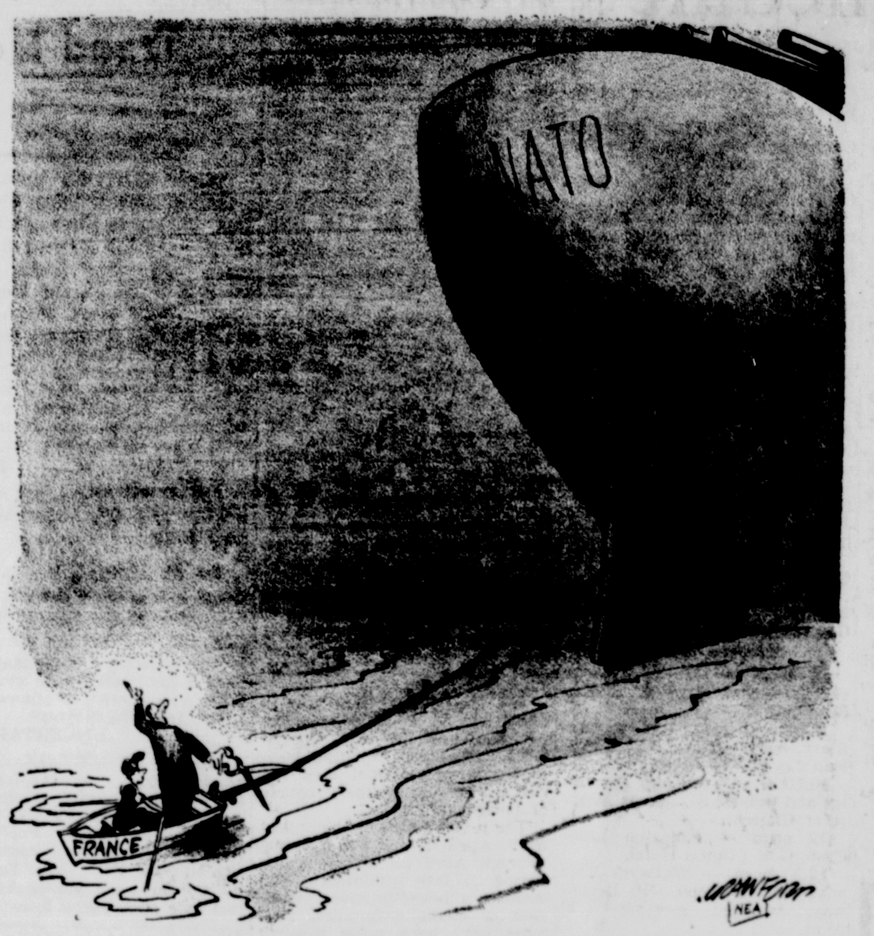

Fermentation of sugars and starches in the intestines is a source of abdominal discomfort and bloating. The gas in the intestines causes pressure on the stomach and in that way may increase belching. Since this fermentation usually occurs in the lower rather than the upper part of the intestinal tract, it usually involves foods eaten one or two days before the discomfort is felt. That would rule out any cookies eaten on the day of returning home. Look for the cause in foods eaten earlier or in emotional upsets associated with returning to the old grind.

Q—My doctor says I have chronic nasopharyngitis. What is the cause and can it be cured?

A—Nasopharyngitis is an inflammation of the area where your nasal passages join your throat. It may be caused by allergy (hay fever), a head cold or chronic exposure to smog. The treatment would depend on the cause but, like all chronic conditions, this one is hard to shake.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — At the very time the Alaska earthquake struck, there was a confidential proposal in government hands for a co-ordinated attack aimed at producing some of the basic facts necessary to build an earthquake warning network.

It has not yet been approved.

Recent break-throughs in instruments and methods have opened the door to a whole new world of earthquake research possibilities which scientists say could end the frustrations of the past 30 years.

Geophysicists interviewed here say we now have the tools to do the research needed to develop a crude earthquake prediction system for major communities — probably within 10 years, certainly within 20.

It would, of course, only predict quakes likely to cause important damage to people and property. The system would likely skip predictions of quakes occurring in the wilderness and in deserts unless they'd produce nasty effects at a distance.

SUCH WARNINGS would not be correct every time any more than weather predictions are. Scientists would be happier if their first system was right one time out of three. The predictors would probably err on the side of caution, predict more quakes than would actually occur. They'd hope not to miss any important earthquakes near population centers.

One reason for this scientific optimism: There's been greater-than-expected success in predicting the eruption of volcanoes in a pilot project. Working in the Hawaiian Islands, scientists in this experimental project are able to fortell volcanic eruptions with an accuracy of 50 per cent. That is, half the eruptions they predict actually occur. The other potential eruptions are underground lava flows pushing upward which die away without surfacing.

THE U. S. GEOLOGICAL SURVEY is continuing to improve its techniques.

One of the most promising leads for the prediction of earthquakes is by measuring the strain rocks are undergoing in the major fault line areas. This can be done in part with strain gauges, which measure the actual change in shape or length of rock formations. The other technique is to measure the speed at which sound waves move through the rocks. (The speed varies according to the strain which the rock is undergoing).

If the earthquake specialists can determine how much strain different types of rock formation and fault lines endure before slipping, what strains cause what size slips and something about how long it takes for a particular overstrain to result in a slip then they'll be on the way toward making crude predictions.

AS A PRELIMINARY, this involves a major co-ordinated study of an important earthquake fault. One proposal favors the great San Andreas fault in California. By seismic, geodetic, magnetic, gravimetric and geologic measurements they'd attempt to determine the elastic properties of the rock formation in the area, the vertical extent of the fault line, how much strain has so far been accumulated over the region of the fault line and carefully map the lines of stress through the region.

All this earthquake work will have a major by-product. The more U. S. scientists find out about earthquakes, the better they will be able to detect and pinpoint Russian underground nuclear explosions. The big problem now is that it's impossible to distinguish between some earthquakes and some types of camouflaged underground nuclear explosions.

Kennedy Campaign Talks Are Recalled on U.S. Prestige

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe an ex-President has some advantages in political debate — for, as the years go on and he surveys the passing scene, he can always say from personal experience: "I told you so."

Thus, former President Eisenhower, while attending a few days ago a forum in Los Angeles, was reminded of the late President Kennedy's charge in the 1960 campaign that United States "prestige" was low. Mr. Eisenhower was asked how he would appraise our "prestige" now. The former President answered:

"I am not going to detail what has happened in the past three years, but the prestige of the United States today is far less than it was in 1960."

The dictionary gives "influence" as a synonym for "prestige." Mr. Kennedy, in a campaign speech in Kansas City on Oct. 22, 1960, amplified what is meant by "influence." He said.

"I define prestige as influence, as an ability to persuade people to accept your point of view. That probably cost us more in the '50s than any other failure or any other decision or any other action."

Speaking a few days later in New York City, Mr. Kennedy declared:

"One of the great problems which now affects the United States, affects our security, affects our leadership, affects our chances of peace, is that the United States in recent years, rather than giving an image of strength and purpose and vitality, has given an image of reaching middle age and beginning to fade as an inspiration and hope to the people all around the globe."

But Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said only a few days ago virtually the same thing about the present Administration's foreign policy.

Mr. Kennedy made several speeches in the campaign on the meaning of "prestige." In Philadelphia on Oct. 29, 1960, he said:

"By prestige I do not mean popularity. . . .prestige is important, but if these people upon whom we depend for our security, our support, and ultimately the peace, ever begin to get the idea that we are tired, uncertain, not sure where we are going, without purpose, how can we lead a free alliance?"

But as Americans look around the world today, they wonder who is leading the "free alliance," and whether the difficulty is in the United States or abroad. France has just recognized Red China, and the countries of Western Europe continue to ignore American appeals that they curtail their trade with Communist Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign, in expressing his belief that American "prestige" had fallen to a very low point, said at Albuquerque, N. M., on Nov. 3:

"You cannot be a citizen of this country, concerned about its future, and not be aware of the decline in influence and prestige of our country, aware of the fact that in ten countries polled a majority of the people thought by 1970 the Soviet Union would be first in science and in military power."

But it turns out that all the talk in 1960 about the "missile gap," for instance, was not true. Indeed, American military superiority today, which is conceded with respect to many categories, could not possibly have been built up in just three years. It is the result of the careful planning of non-political military men ever since the Korean War aroused the American people to the dangers of Communist imperialism.

Maybe Sen. Fulbright, who now calls Castro a "distasteful nuisance" but not a danger, had not read the speech by Sen. John F. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign at Portland, Ore., on September 7, in which he said:

"They (the American people) wonder why America is regarded with so much contempt on the once-friendly island of Cuba, only 90 miles away, that its erratic leader feels free to denounce us with words and threaten us with missiles."

But it so happens that nearly four years have passed since that 1960 campaign, and the Castro government still regards the United States with contempt and there are well-authenticated reports that a military base in Cuba, manned by Soviet "technicians," is still potentially menacing to the American people. Mr. Kennedy added in that same speech:

"What has happened to our prestige? It is not enough to blame it all on Communist propaganda. Nor is it enough merely to call for more American propaganda or spending. The roots of our trouble go deeper. We are losing the respect of the peoples of the world primarily because we are in danger of losing those qualities they have always respected."

Yet in the last few days, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, a prominent Democrat, has called upon his countrymen to "come to terms, at last, with the realities." He gives up on the economic blockade of Cuba. He says it is futile. He insists that the United States cannot persuade its allies to maintain such a blockade.

But nobody has come forth with the basic reason as to why the Western European countries —our own allies—feel they can ignore our pleas and earnestly written diplomatic communications asking them to assists us in an economic boycott of Cuba, from which island a constant campaign of Communist subversion and infiltration is being carried on against the rest of Latin America. It is not American "prestige" that has fallen, but actually the prestige of nations which prefer the materialistic gains of "trade" to the ideals for which free nations have made such supreme sacrifices in the past.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

When my father is in the mood, he's a good talker. Talk or fight—it makes no difference to him. He is groping toward his 81st birthday and he has a good head of white hair. His hackles go up quickly, and come down with a crash.

He moved into my house in Hallandale, Florida, recently and he sits for hours in a wing chair looking out through a glass panel at the swimming pool and the cabin cruiser at the dock. "Beautiful," he murmurs. "Just beautiful. There must be a hell of a lot more to writing than I figured."

John M. Bishop is, a retired police lieutenant (1909-1933), and he tells some pretty good yarns about cops. Once he worked for an Irish chief who had a brogue that never got out of the peat bog. "He was something," Big John says. "Stood in front of City Hall one day and had his picture taken. Then he sent copies to his poor relatives in Ireland with the notation: 'Here I am in front of my new home. I want you to know that I'm doing well in America."

Another time the mayor had all the ward leaders show up in swallow tails and high hats for a political funeral. It was a cold winter day. One of the pallbearers contracted pneumonia and died. So they had a funeral for him, and another pallbearer became ill and died. At the third funeral, one of the bosses held his hat over his heart and shivered. "Boss," he whispered to the mayor, "two more funerals like this and we got no organization."

We were at the Dania Jai-Ali Palace one night watching the Spanish kids whack a hard ball at high speed. My father sipped a frosty beer and his head swung back and forth, like a slow lighthouse. "Want to place a bet?" I said. He thought about it. "No," he said solemnly, "I don't think so. " I mentioned that the last time we were at Gulfstream Park he hadn't placed a bet.

"That's right," he said, "and I'll tell you why." When my father uses those last five words, he's usually good for a fifteen minute dissertation. "I'm a poor sport, that's why." I insisted that he was anything but a poor sport.

"You're wrong," he said quietly. "I'm a lousy loser." There was a moment of silence, as we both watched the great Egerbi make a winning point. "Come to think of it," he said, "I'm not even a good winner."

I was surprised. I thought I knew both of my parents pretty well. My mother wouldn't take a dollar to a nickel that the sun would come up in the morning, but I fancied my father in a stiff-brim straw hat, white flannels, and blue jacket, with binoculars hanging on his chest. He also knew how to jolly the ladies, but that's another story.

"We had an inspector once who used to play the horses. God, it was terrible. He never won and he never stopped. He took tips from shoe shine boys. He was a good policeman, but he was so broke that the shoes were falling off his feet." I smiled.

"Oh," my father said, "you think it's funny. Well, it taught me a good lesson. He was a fine policeman and he ran a good district, but his family never had a meal from one Christmas to the next. Matters went from bad to worse.

"I was on a night tour in headquarters one time when the inspector came down the hall. One shoe kept slapping because the bottom had become loosened from the top. When he got in the office, somebody said: 'Good God, inspector. Look at that shoe. It's coming apart.'

"Know what he did? He called a patrolman, one of the reserves, and he handed him a couple of dollars and said: 'Johnny, do me a favor. Go down to the nearest shoe store and see if you can get me a left-footed shoe size nine and a half.' The cop was kind of slow, and he said: 'Sure inspector. Any particular color?'

"The inspector blew up and told him to try to match the black one he had on his right foot. Do you know something? That cop went out and found a left-footed shoe and the inspector put it on. It didn't match the other one, but he kept saying: 'Nobody ever looks at my feet anyway. It'll last a couple of months.'"

I shook my head. "But that wasn't the worse," my father said reassuringly. "Oh no. We had a lieutenant once who also played the ponies. Or maybe it was the other way around. He was on plain clothes duty one time and he came in to the precint in such shabby chothes that nobody could bear to look at him.

"Would you believe it—a politician walked in and shook hands with the lieutenant and the sleeve of his jacket fell off. I'm not kidding. It was pitiful. Someone slapped him on the back and his pants split.

"A frightful situation. I was on the desk that night and I felt so sorry that I called the patrol wagon and had him taken home so that he wouldn't be arrested for indecent exposure. Him a good family man, too.

"No thanks. I don't think I'll bet on anything tonight."

Feud Is Blamed For Attack on Auburn Inmate

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP)—A long-standing feud between two convicts of Auburn State Prison is blamed for a hammer attack that led to critical injuries for one of the inmates.

Prison officials said Thursday that Robert Barnes, 53, was injured critically when Clarence Sims, 58, of New York City, attacked him with a hammer.

Barnes, who was serving a life sentence for a strangling in Niagara Falls, was in Syracuse Memorial Hospital. The attack occurred Monday in the prison recreation yard.

Sims was convicted in 1953 of first-degree manslaughter and first-degree robbery and was sentenced to serve 35-40 years in prison.

Barnes was convicted in 1944 of first-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Miriam Kennedy, 25, in her Niagara Falls home.

Open Navigation Season

QUEBEC (AP)—Quebec harbor and Port Arthur, Ont., at the western end of the St. Lawrence Seaway, have begun their 1964 navigation season.

Both ports were opened to their first ships of the year Thursday.

The Polish liner Batory was the first passenger ship to anchor in Quebec harbor this year. The ship's officers reported no difficulty in the ice fields of the St. Lawrence gulf or river.

In Port Arthur, on Lake Superior, the season opened when the Great Lakes freighter Black Bay led a small fleet into the harbor. It was one of the earliest harbor openings there on record.

Closing Phase of West Coast Swing

Rocky Labels LBJ Inept To Stop Red Aggression

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Johnson's key weakness is a failure to "stop the onrush of communist aggression," Gov. Rockefeller maintains.

Rockefeller, a candidate for the Republican nomination for president, hit hard at the Democratic president in the closing phase of a West Coast political swing.

Blames Trend for Brazil

Rockefeller said the Democratic national administration had encouraged and cooperated with the Goulart regime in Brazil at the same itme it was moving to the left.

"The administration has been encouraging governments to open their doors not only to Socialists but to extreme left-wingers," Rockefeller said in an interview Thursday.

"This trend is responsible for what has happened in Brazil."

The governor asserted the Johnson administration had encouraged the Goulart regime "despite the fact it was including an increasing number of Communists in the government itself."

Rockefeller who has dealt with Latin-American affairs as a federal official and as a private business executive, said the Brazilian revolution was "a great thing" insofar as it represented a desire by the people of that country that they "do not want to see Brazil go the same course as Cuba."

Rockefeller concluded Thursday a four-day political tour that took him to Oregon and California in search of votes in the primaries of those states on May 15 and June 2, respectively.

7,000 Greet Governor

His final activity last night was a three-hour reception at the International Hotel. Officials of the hotel estimated that more than 7,000 persons greeted Rockefeller.

He left for New York shortly after the reception. His plans include preparation for a special legislative session he has called in his home state for April 15.

As the governor wound up his California visit, newspapers here were publishing a statewide poll indicating he was running behind Sen. Barry Goldwater in the battle for California primary votes. Rockefeller and Goldwater are the major candidates in that contest.

Counting all Republican candidates, including those not entered in the California primary, the poll indicated Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was leading.

Rocky Not Dismayed

Rockefeller said he was not dismayed by those results. "When things are going against you," he said, "you don't run for cover, you just fight harder."

Earlier in the day, Rockefeller defended Lodge against charges by the Conservative Society on America that the ambassador was "soft on communism." Rockefeller said Lodge was "a dedicated public servant who has always fought communism."

Jilted Suitor Is Given 20 Years in Four Fire Deaths

NEW YORK (AP) — A jilted suitor, who set fire to the apartment where he thought his ex-girl friend was staying, has been sentenced to 20 years in prison for causing the deaths of four children.

Convicted Feb. 25 of second-degree murder was 18-year-old Julio Figueroa. Trial testimony showed that Ramona Hernandez, 20, with whom Figueroa had been living, left him the night before the blaze in The Bronx last April 24.

Figueroa, believing the girl was staying with friends in the five-story building, set it ablaze. The flames trapped four children on the fourth floor.

The victims were Norma Soto, 10, her sister, Rosita, 7, and their brothers, Hector, 6, and Freddie, 4.

Figueroa was sentenced Thursday in Bronx Supreme Court by Justice Abraham J. Gellinoff.

Dems Reshuffle Upstate Parleys, Follow Session

NEW YORK (AP) — Democrats have reshuffled the dates of three Upstate regional meetings until after the April 15 special session of the Legislature.

The new dates—April 18 in Albany, April 25 in Buffalo, and April 26 in Syracuse—were announced Thursday.

The original dates, announced Wednesday, had been April 4 in Buffalo, April 5 in Syracuse and April 28 in Albany.

A chief aim of the meetings will be to develop campaign strategy and techniques to win control of the Legislature from the Republicans.

Rights Agency Can Take Action at Public Colleges

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Commission for Human Rights has the power to take action against discrimination in public schools and colleges in the state, the State Court of Appeals has ruled.

The state's highest court split, 4-3, in deciding Thursday that the commission could investigate complaints of such discrimination and could enforce orders against it.

The decision was based, in part, on what the majority opinion called "a consistent purpose of the people of New York, growing in its firm insistence, to end discrimination based on race and creed."

The minority commented that the commission had "no power whatsoever to act administratively in the field of education and we regret that the court is about to give it such power under the guise of judicial interpretation."

The case stemmed from alleged discrimination against Roman Catholics in hiring and promoting faculty members at Queens College in New York City.

Dems Reshuffle Upstate Parleys, Follow Session

NEW YORK (AP) — Democrats have reshuffled the dates of three Upstate regional meetings until after the April 15 special session of the Legislature.

The new dates—April 18 in Albany, April 25 in Buffalo, and April 26 in Syracuse—were announced Thursday.

The original dates, announced Wednesday, had been April 4 in Buffalo, April 5 in Syracuse and April 28 in Albany.

A chief aim of the meetings will be to develop campaign strategy and techniques to win control of the Legislature from the Republicans.

RightsAgencyCan Take Action at Public Colleges

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Commission for Human Rights has the power to take action against discrimination in public schools and colleges in the state, the State Court of Appeals has ruled.

The state's highest court split, 4-3, in deciding Thursday that the commission could investigate complaints of such discrimination and could enforce orders against it.

The decision was based, in part, on what the majority opinion called "a consistent purpose of the people of New York, growing in its firm insistence, to end discrimination based on race and creed."

The minority commented that the commission had "no power whatsoever to act administratively in the field of education and we regret that the court is about to give it such power under the guise of judicial interpretation."

The case stemmed from alleged discrimination against Roman Catholics in hiring and promoting faculty members at Queens College in New York City.

Crusaders Start 3rd Canvass Day For Cancer Drive

Volunteer workers in each community in the county today started the third day of Ulster County's phase of the American Cancer Society's 1964 fund-raising crusade, and committee leaders renewed their appeal for public support.

Kingston Town Workers

Canvassers assisting Mrs. Ellen Beecher, chairman of the Town of Kingston unit, are, Mrs. Ann Cummings, Mrs. Shirley Quick, Mrs. Jean Whispell, Mrs. O'Keefe, Mrs. Inga Holsair, Mrs. Sally Seaver, Mrs. Jean Dolan, Mrs. Margaret Ferguson and Mrs. Jeannie Malone.

It was inadvertently reported Thursday that this group comprised the Town of Ulster unit of cancer drive workers. Thaddeus Musialkiewicz is chairman of the Town of Ulster committee, which will be announced.

Other town chairmen are expected to submit their list of volunteer workers soon to Mrs. Paul J. Wendrow, executive secretary of the Ulster County Cancer Society.

Lawrence A. Quilty, chairman of the Ulster County Crusade committee, in an appeal to the public for contributions said, "Each of us must do his share to combat the disease of cancer which will eventually strike 48,000,000 Americans now living—unless the trend is reversed."

Not Only Fund Appeal

The chairman said that Crusade volunteers will not only ring doorbells to collect funds, but will leave at each home a life-saving leaflet which tells how to protect your family from cancer. "This free educational material," Quilty said, "stresses the value of annual checkups and the importance of knowing cancer's seven danger signals."

"Our volunteers will urge every adult in every household in Ulster County to get a health checkup yearly, and they will also ask for a contribution to help the American Cancer Society continue its program of research, education and service to cancer patients."

MacArthur Still

his constitution and his will to live."

His chances are not considered good, but the decline in kidney and heart function reported Thursday morning stabilized by afternoon.

Retains Consciousness

The 84-year-old general has survived three major operations two of them emergencies, in 32 days at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

His blood pressure and pulse, previously reported as indicating a loss of heart efficiency, were last reported within normal limits "considering his age and sedation."

During his waking hours, the general retains consciousness although he is under sedation.

Doctors Thursday pressed into operation a technique which could temporarily take over part of the kidney functions.

The technique, called peritoneal dialysis, is aimed at drawing off the poisonous waste products building up in the general's blood that ordinarily would be filtered out by the kidneys.

The hope is that the kidneys will begin functioning again, for the flushing action of the artificial technique is efficient only as a temporary aid. There is always the danger after perhaps two days of use that infection might enter into the peritoneum.

To help stem possible infection that could spread rapidly in the blood-rich abdominal area, doctors used antibiotics along with the fluid chemicals of the artificial kidney process.

In the Senate Thursday, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., interrupted the civil rights debate with an appeal for consideration of a resolution by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., to confer six-star rank on the general.

Symington's resolution, introduced last December, has the support of 27 other senators. Still, it appears blocked in the Armed Services Committee.

Reports Assault by Two

Local police were notified at 1:24 a. m. today that Robert Leonard, 26, of 138 Newkirk Avenue, was treated in the Kingston Hospital emergency room for an eye injury suffered in a fight on central Broadway. It was reported that two men had assaulted him. Officers George Barringer and Leon Fitzgerald investigated.

Road Landing Costs Pilot $25

A 28-year-old New Jersey man took off from the Dutchess County Airport late Thursday on a flight to Long Island, but low ceiling forced him to circle around in the air until his gasoline supply was nearly exhausted.

State Police said Barry Jones, of North Arlington, N. J., the pilot, made a forced landing with his light plane on Route 22 near Wingdale. He taxied the plane to a parking lot at the L. and M. Restaurant and notified authorities.

A state trooper investigated and charged Jones with landing on a public highway. Jones pleaded guilty later before Justice of the Peace David L. Callahan, Town of Dover, and paid a $25 fine.

Jones sought permission of the State Department of Public Works to tow the aircraft to a nearby field for a takeoff.

Gaunt Home Is Badly Damaged by Murray St. Fire

A two-story frame and asphalt house at 47 Murray Street owned by Charles Gaunt was badly damaged by fire Thursday night.

A flooded oil stove was listed as the cause of the blaze, which started in a second-floor bedroom and went upward to the ceiling and attic. A first floor area and play pen also became involved when fire went through a floor register.

The bedroom in which it started and contents were badly damaged and a second upstairs bedroom became involved. Sections of ceiling in both rooms were removed. Smoke, heat and water damage were reported in both upper and lower areas.

Two 2½-inch pump streams were used.

Expect Approval From Rome on English in Mass

WASHINGTON (AP)—American prelates of the Roman Catholic Church have drawn up detailed recommendations for greater use of English in Masses. Prompt approval from Rome is expected.

About 200 archbishops and bishops and four of the five American cardinals met Thursday in a secret session at Catholic University to approve the texts and the extent of English in the Mass, sacraments and the breviary.

Final approval of the new translations was requested of the Ecumenical Council's commission for the liturgy. "When this is forthcoming," said the Most Rev. John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, "they will be put into effect in the United States as soon as possible."

The speculation is that the most likely date for the revised texts to be inaugurated is the first Sunday in Advent, Nov. 29, which is the beginning of the liturgical year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will outline current American attitudes toward the 15-year-old North Atlantic Treaty Organization at a special White House ceremony late today.

The importance attached to Johnson's address by administration officials apparently was indicated by the fact that television and radio networks were invited to make live broadcasts of the event in the East Room of the executive mansion.

The address is scheduled for 5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

The ceremony comes on the eve of the 15th anniversary of the treaty-signing that created NATO.

Moses Wins Point

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Moses, head of the New York World's Fair, has won court permission to erect a screen to hide a 10-foot high neon advertising sign of a grocery chain.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. has a plant adjacent to the fair grounds in Queens. The huge red neon sign atop the plant reads "Jane Parker A&P Baked Goods." Moses said fairgoers should not be "a captive audience sentenced to watch its tawdry message."

Any screening device put up by Moses, the company said, amounted to a spite fence."

CORE Pickets Due Out Again Today at Uptown Apartment

A delegation of the Kingston unit of CORE was expected to picket for a second day an apartment house at Main and Green Streets this afternoon, because of an alleged refusal to rent to one of their race.

Mrs. Leonard Van Dyke, wife of Alderman Van Dyke of the Sixth Ward, and Mrs. Bertha DeWitt of 18 Ann Street, are leaders of CORE in this city.

Pickets numbering eight at times, including two or three girls, walked in front of the Bryant Apartment House for about an hour and a half Thursday afternoon, until chill winds forced the end of picketing.

Two placards carried by pickets yesterday read — CORE — Protest against discrimination and housing, and Refused to Rent to Negroes — CORE

When the picketing started yesterday afternoon, two detectives watched from a police car parked near the intersection.

After the detectives left the area, two uniformed officers appeared in a police car and informed the leaders of the group that they must "keep moving" and not congregate on the sidewalks. The group leaders were told that charges might be lodged if the "keep moving" order was violated.

One of the group remarked that Mrs. Peabody (Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, 72-year-old mother of Governor Endicott Peabody, of Massachusetts) was arrested in St. Augustine, Fla., on charges of participating in a racial demonstration, and that picketing here would continue.

The picketing yesterday afternoon, caused a minimum amount of attention from passersby, and a reporter at the scene noted that there was no disorder during the 90-minute march of the pickets.

Lawyers Welcome Foster's Return

Justice Sydney F. Foster was welcomed back to Ulster County today when he presided at a regular special term of Supreme Court, after an absence of many years during which he served on the Appellate Division and the Court of Appeals.

The occasion was observed by the Ulster County Bar Association which held a brief service of welcome prior to the calendar call.

Bruhn of Kingston spoke on behalf of the judiciary of the county. There were many members of the Ulster County Bar Association present to welcome Judge Foster.

After the short talks by the local attorneys and Justice Bruhn, Justice Foster replied, thanking the members for their expression of welcome. He recalled his activities on the higher courts since leaving the trial bench and said that second to continuing in appellate work, was the return to the trial bench.

Also, the 1,900 shares of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. common stock were fully insured.

The stock certificates, which were in a mail sack, were stolen Thursday during the loading of the liner Queen Elizabeth. The locked mail sack—slashed open—was found in a men's room on the pier.

The certificates were being sent by registered mail from an office of the First Boston Corp. here to a bank in Zurich, Switzerland.

Crusaders Start 3rd Canvass Day For Cancer Drive

Volunteer workers in each community in the county today started the third day of Ulster County's phase of the American Cancer Society's 1964 fund-raising crusade, and committee leaders renewed their appeal for public support.

Kingston Town Workers

Canvassers assisting Mrs. Ellen Beecher, chairman of the Town of Kingston unit, are, Mrs. Ann Cummings, Mrs. Shirley Quick, Mrs. Jean Whispell, Mrs. O'Keefe, Mrs. Inga Holsair, Mrs. Sally Seaver, Mrs. Jean Dolan, Mrs. Margaret Ferguson and Mrs. Jeannie Malone.

It was inadvertently reported Thursday that this group comprised the Town of Ulster unit of cancer drive workers. Thaddeus Musialkiewicz is chairman of the Town of Ulster committee, which will be announced.

Other town chairmen are expected to submit their list of volunteer workers soon to Mrs. Paul J. Wendrow, executive secretary of the Ulster County Cancer Society.

Lawrence A. Quilty, chairman of the Ulster County Crusade committee, in an appeal to the public for contributions said, "Each of us must do his share to combat the disease of cancer which will eventually strike 48,000,000 Americans now living—unless the trend is reversed."

Not Only Fund Appeal

The chairman said that Crusade volunteers will not only ring doorbells to collect funds, but will leave at each home a life-saving leaflet which tells how to protect your family from cancer. "This free educational material," Quilty said, "stresses the value of annual checkups and the importance of knowing cancer's seven danger signals."

"Our volunteers will urge every adult in every household in Ulster County to get a health checkup yearly, and they will also ask for a contribution to help the American Cancer Society continue its program of research, education and service to cancer patients."

MacArthur Still

his constitution and his will to live."

His chances are not considered good, but the decline in kidney and heart function reported Thursday morning stabilized by afternoon.

Retains Consciousness

The 84-year-old general has survived three major operations two of them emergencies, in 32 days at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

His blood pressure and pulse, previously reported as indicating a loss of heart efficiency, were last reported within normal limits "considering his age and sedation."

During his waking hours, the general retains consciousness although he is under sedation.

Doctors Thursday pressed into operation a technique which could temporarily take over part of the kidney functions.

The technique, called peritoneal dialysis, is aimed at drawing off the poisonous waste products building up in the general's blood that ordinarily would be filtered out by the kidneys.

The hope is that the kidneys will begin functioning again, for the flushing action of the artificial technique is efficient only as a temporary aid. There is always the danger after perhaps two days of use that infection might enter into the peritoneum.

To help stem possible infection that could spread rapidly in the blood-rich abdominal area, doctors used antibiotics along with the fluid chemicals of the artificial kidney process.

In the Senate Thursday, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., interrupted the civil rights debate with an appeal for consideration of a resolution by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., to confer six-star rank on the general.

Symington's resolution, introduced last December, has the support of 27 other senators. Still, it appears blocked in the Armed Services Committee.

Reports Assault by Two

Local police were notified at 1:24 a. m. today that Robert Leonard, 26, of 138 Newkirk Avenue, was treated in the Kingston Hospital emergency room for an eye injury suffered in a fight on central Broadway. It was reported that two men had assaulted him. Officers George Barringer and Leon Fitzgerald investigated.

NSC Summoned

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson summoned congressional leaders of both parties to meet this afternoon with the National Security Council to discuss various important developments in world affairs."

In announcing the session, White House press secretary George Reedy said he knew of no previous occasion on which members of Congress have met with the top-level Security Council.

The meeting was set for 2 p.m. EST.

Road Landing Costs Pilot $25

A 28-year-old New Jersey man took off from the Dutchess County Airport late Thursday on a flight to Long Island, but low ceiling forced him to circle around in the air until his gasoline supply was nearly exhausted.

State Police said Barry Jones, of North Arlington, N. J., the pilot, made a forced landing with his light plane on Route 22 near Wingdale. He taxied the plane to a parking lot at the L. and M. Restaurant and notified authorities.

A state trooper investigated and charged Jones with landing on a public highway. Jones pleaded guilty later before Justice of the Peace David L. Callahan, Town of Dover, and paid a $25 fine.

Jones sought permission of the State Department of Public Works to tow the aircraft to a nearby field for a takeoff.

Gaunt Home Is Badly Damaged by Murray St. Fire

A two-story frame and asphalt house at 47 Murray Street owned by Charles Gaunt was badly damaged by fire Thursday night.

A flooded oil stove was listed as the cause of the blaze, which started in a second-floor bedroom and went upward to the ceiling and attic. A first floor area and play pen also became involved when fire went through a floor register.

The bedroom in which it started and contents were badly damaged and a second upstairs bedroom became involved. Sections of ceiling in both rooms were removed. Smoke, heat and water damage were reported in both upper and lower areas.

Two 2½-inch pump streams were used.

Expect Approval From Rome on English in Mass

WASHINGTON (AP)—American prelates of the Roman Catholic Church have drawn up detailed recommendations for greater use of English in Masses. Prompt approval from Rome is expected.

About 200 archbishops and bishops and four of the five American cardinals met Thursday in a secret session at Catholic University to approve the texts and the extent of English in the Mass, sacraments and the breviary.

Final approval of the new translations was requested of the Ecumenical Council's commission for the liturgy. "When this is forthcoming," said the Most Rev. John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, "they will be put into effect in the United States as soon as possible."

The speculation is that the most likely date for the revised texts to be inaugurated is the first Sunday in Advent, Nov. 29, which is the beginning of the liturgical year.

President Talking Of NATO on TV At 5 P. M. Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will outline current American attitudes toward the 15-year-old North Atlantic Treaty Organization at a special White House ceremony late today.

The importance attached to Johnson's address by administration officials apparently was indicated by the fact that television and radio networks were invited to make live broadcasts of the event in the East Room of the executive mansion.

The address is scheduled for 5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

The ceremony comes on the eve of the 15th anniversary of the treaty-signing that created NATO.

Moses Wins Point

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Moses, head of the New York World's Fair, has won court permission to erect a screen to hide a 10-foot high neon advertising sign of a grocery chain.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. has a plant adjacent to the fair grounds in Queens. The huge red neon sign atop the plant reads "Jane Parker A&P Baked Goods." Moses said fairgoers should not be "a captive audience sentenced to watch its tawdry message."

Any screening device put up by Moses, the company said, amounted to a spite fence."

CORE Pickets Due Out Again Today at Uptown Apartment

A delegation of the Kingston unit of CORE was expected to picket for a second day an apartment house at Main and Green Streets this afternoon, because of an alleged refusal to rent to one of their race.

Mrs. Leonard Van Dyke, wife of Alderman Van Dyke of the Sixth Ward, and Mrs. Bertha DeWitt of 18 Ann Street, are leaders of CORE in this city.

Pickets numbering eight at times, including two or three girls, walked in front of the Bryant Apartment House for about an hour and a half Thursday afternoon, until chill winds forced the end of picketing.

Two placards carried by pickets yesterday read — CORE — Protest against discrimination and housing, and Refused to Rent to Negroes — CORE

When the picketing started yesterday afternoon, two detectives watched from a police car parked near the intersection.

After the detectives left the area, two uniformed officers appeared in a police car and informed the leaders of the group that they must "keep moving" and not congregate on the sidewalks. The group leaders were told that charges might be lodged if the "keep moving" order was violated.

One of the group remarked that Mrs. Peabody (Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, 72-year-old mother of Governor Endicott Peabody, of Massachusetts) was arrested in St. Augustine, Fla., on charges of participating in a racial demonstration, and that picketing here would continue.

The picketing yesterday afternoon, caused a minimum amount of attention from passersby, and a reporter at the scene noted that there was no disorder during the 90-minute march of the pickets.

Bruhn of Kingston spoke on behalf of the judiciary of the county. There were many members of the Ulster County Bar Association present to welcome Judge Foster.

After the short talks by the local attorneys and Justice Bruhn, Justice Foster replied, thanking the members for their expression of welcome. Pleased With Goulart's Ouster

Johnson Acts Swiftly To Recognize Mazzilli

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has sent his "warmest good wishes" to the new president of Brazil and described as constitutional his ascent to power.

Johnson accepted without question the legitimacy of Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli's installation as head of the Brazilian government although a military coup ousted his predecessor, Joao Goulart.

Better Ties Seen

The Johnson message had the effect of clearly establishing U.S. recognition of the new regime less than 24 hours after Mazzilli took office.

With the ouster of the Goulart government, U.S. officials see an opportunity for improved relations with the South American country. There was no mention in the brief presidential message of Goulart, who was deposed by the military because of his leftist leanings.

"The American people have watched with anxiety the political and economic difficulties through which your great nation has been passing and have admired the resolute will of the Brazilian community to resolve these difficulties within the framework of constitutional democracy and without civil strife," Johnson told Mazzilli, who moved up from the presidency of the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies.

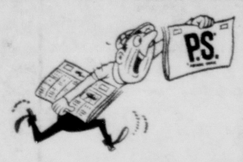

The congratulatory tone of the message was in line with earlier unofficial word that Washington was pleased with Goulart's ouster.

In his note Johnson said, "The relations of friendship and cooperation between our two governments and people are a great historical legacy for us both and a precious asset in the interest of peace and prosperity and liberty in this hemisphere and in the whole world.

"I look forward to the continued strengthening of those relations and to our intensified cooperation in the interests of economic progress and social justice for all and of hemispheric and world peace."

South America's biggest country faces enormous problems of reorganization and reform, and Washington experts say many difficulties lie ahead for the new regime.

The Johnson administration is reported ready to assist with these problems in any way it can. The United States has put hundreds of millions of dollars into Brazil through loans and grants in recent years. But what actually can be done now will depend on how quickly the country settles down after the political revolution and what assistance it seeks for new programs of action.

Javits' Nephew Named Contact in Osterman Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Eric M. Javits, 32-year-old nephew of U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., has been named in court as a contact man in an alleged bribery involving owners of a liquor store and ousted Judge Melvin H. Osterman.

Osterman is now on trial in State Supreme Court here.

The prosecution said Thursday that Eric M. Javits put the owners of a liquor store in touch with Melvyn Thaler, a lawyer whom the prosecution called a front man for Osterman.

Thaler, who was law clerk to Osterman as judge, has been granted immunity from prosecution and is scheduled to testify against Osterman, formerly a Republican district leader in Manhattan.

The trial of Osterman will be resumed Monday.

Value of

terms of enabling the town's future development to occur in the best interests of the entire community. The future pattern of development of the Town of Esopus is being determined now. The big question is whether 10 years from now you will be happy with the decisions you are now making."

In other phases of his talk, Raymond commented on (1) industrial development; (2) business district problems; (3) "small town" identification, and (4) operation of an actual "planning program" as it could be carried out in a "town like Esopus."

He said not all properties in the Town of Esopus were" suitable" for industial development, and that "If all land suitable for industry were to be developed for other uses or chopped up into small parcels, new industrial plants would probably by-pass Port Ewen and seek sites in other towns whose accessibility is being made competitive by the new highways."

To plan for an improved business district, Raymond said, traffic patterns and parking areas "must be carefully laid out in advance, and sometimes purchased in advance, while the needed land is still vacant and cheap. If your community will not engage now in thinking about its future, it will repeat all the errors which are spending so much money and effort to correct in the larger communities throughout the nation."

When it comes to planning, the speaker said, "the small town has a decided advantage over the larger city by reason of the fact that it contains large, relatively open areas with low population density. In the smaller town, planning can be much more effective since the planning process can still properly guide the town's pattern of development, whereas in most of the more urbanized towns and cities the development pattern has long been established and the nature of the planning process must, of necessity, be merely corrective."

In addition, he said, the federal government now encourages the smaller towns to plan and the government's interest is that "it's cheaper in the long run for Uncle Sam to help pay the relatively small cost of advance planning than to wait, and then pay the much higher cost of rebuilding communities."

Raymond said the recent establishment of the Ulster County Planning Board should result in a program which would enable most communities to benefit from the higher rate of federal support of parkland acquisition.

Raymond outlined details of a local "comprehensive plan," which would entail factual studies and analyses, a "prescription" for land use and development and subsequent regulations for zoning, traffic control and rights of way. He also discussed the affect that Kingston's "Broadway East" and "Uptown Business District" Urban Renewal projects would have in the Rondout-Port Ewen areas.

Charles Montafia succeeded Warren Dunham as president of the Port Ewen Businessmen's Association, P. Joseph Beichert, Port Ewen businessman, was master of ceremonies. Zale Liese and Jack Spinneweber were cochairmen of the banquet.

Poorly Designed: Webb

NEW YORK (AP) — Space chief James E. Webb has told the chairmen of the Senate and House Space committees that Ranger 6, which crash-landed on the moon Feb. 2, was poorly designed and inadequately tested before launching, the New York Herald Tribune said today.

Webb, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, listed major faults of Ranger 6 in a letter to Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., the newspaper said in a Washington dispatch by Stuart H. Loory.

YoungManRaised By Hoffa Indicted For Bribe Offer

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —A young man raised by James R. Hoffa has been indicted on charges of offering a $25,000 bribe to a member of the jury which convicted the Teamsters Union president of jury tampering.

Charles L. O'Brien, 29, business agent for a Detroit Teamster local, is accused of offering the money March 9 to Callie Key, a Negro widow, if she would swear Hoffa did not receive a fair trial.

O'Brien posted $15,000 bond and was released pending arraignment.

As a child, O'Brien was taken into Hoffa's home after his father, a Kansas City truck driver, was killed. Hoffa recently said O'Brien is "a boy who I have raised since he was a baby." O'Brien, his wife and their two children live in Hoffa's Detroit home.

The alleged bribe offer took place five days after Hoffa was convicted here and three days before he was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000.

O'Brien has been in Chattanooga since the trial's end seeking affidavits in an effort to win a new trial for Hoffa. The Teamsters leader and three others were convicted of trying to tamper with the jury which heard Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville. That case ended in a mistrial.

Town Board Sets Hearings on Park, Light Districts

A public hearing on the proposal to establish a recreation park district at Barclay Heights has been scheduled for Thursday, April 30 at 8 p. m. in the Town Hall.

The hearing was scheduled by Saugerties Town Board at its Thursday night meeting held in the Town Hall, following the presentation of a petition of residents within the proposed park district by Attorney Michael Catalinotto.

The proposed district embraces approximately 650 residences, 15 business locations with a total assessed valuation of $1.3 million. More than 50 per cent of the assessed valuation must be represented on the petition.

The park site, a project of Saugerties Jaycees, is situated east of Route 9W at the end of Birchwood Drive South. If approved the estimated cost to the park district taxpayers would be about $1.56 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

A public hearing was also scheduled for a proposed light district in the Garden Circle housing development on Tuesday, April 14 at 8 p. m. in the Town Hall.

The total assessed valuation of the property involved is $52,525 and cost to light district taxpayers would be approximately $5.44 per $1,000 on assessed valuation. The project if approved would provide seven 2,500 lumen lights at a cost of $41 per light per year. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. will install the lights.

The board advised a representative of what was described as an auto junkyard at Mt. Marion on the former radio station property, to clear the property. The business is reportedly in violation of the town's junkyard ordinance.

A $200 grant was voted towards the encampment of the North-South Skirmish Association to be held in Saugerties this summer.

Saugerties Central School District was given permission to use four voting machines and two booths for school board elections to be held May 6.

ment, as Stalin had tried to do to Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia. Instead, Suslov proposed a meeting of the world's Communist parties "to discuss the basic problems of our time and to hold the broadest possible exchange of opinions in the interest of surmounting the difficulties that have arisen in the Communist movement."

The blast came while Khrushchev was visiting Hungary. The Soviet premier indicated public annoyance with his Chinese critics on Wednesday by saying Peking wanted to spread world revolution on an empty stomach.

"Isn't it better to have good goulash?" Khrushchev asked applauding Budapest factory workers.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pushed further into new high ground early this afternoon despite a scare which upset the coppers. Trading was active.

Gains of most key stocks were fractional. A few wider moves either way were made by assorted stocks.

Coppers took sharp losses on news that a leftist candidate for president in Chile had promised to nationalize the Chilean properties of Anaconda and Kennecott if he is elected next September.

All the coppers, including those with no holdings in Chile, reacted initially to the stock, some recovering later.

Cigarette stocks continued to push higher as a group. Airlines encountered some profit taking on their recent big gains. Big Three motors were all ahead moderately. Steels, oils, rails, utilities and rubbers were on the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.2 at 303.9 with industrials up 1.7, rails up 1.1 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.15 at 822.02.

Both averages topped historic closing peaks made Thursday.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Vehicle Hits Deer

While driving a dump truck east on County Route 81, about a half mile west of Route 26, Town of Coxsackie, at 7:45 a. m. Thursday, Alfred C. Irving, 46, of Climax, escaped injury as the vehicle hit a deer. Leeds State Police said the deer was killed, and it was taken away by the truck driver. The truck was owned by Matter Construction Co. Would Bar House Members Seeking Return After 70

WASHINGTON (AP)—A first-term congressman who thinks there are too many old men running things in the House wants members barred from seeking re-election after 70.

"A lot of these old men are in their dotage," said Rep. Everett G. Burkhalter, D-Calif., Thursday. "They're living in the last century."

Burkhalter, at 67, is no pink-cheeked freshman. He had planned to cap a 20-year career in California public life with about three terms in Congress, but has become so discouraged at bucking the rigid seniority system he is retiring after this session.

"I could see I wasn't going to get any place," he told an interviewer. "Nobody listens to what you have to say until you've been here 10 or 12 years. These old men have got everything so tied down you can't do anything."

Burkhalter said he never realized how few people ran Congress until he moved in as a freshman in 1962.

"There are only about 40 out of the 435 members who call the shots," he said. "They're the committee chairmen and the ranking members and they're all around 70 or 80."

Before he leaves he plans to introduce a bill that would lengthen the term of representatives from two years to four, limit them to four terms and bar them from seeking election after reaching 70.

Kingston Group Will Observe Boys Club Week

Members of the Kingston Boys' Club this week joined well over 600,000 deserving members of 635 Boys' Clubs throughout the country in plans to celebrate National Boys' Club Week, April 5-11.

John Holochuck, executive director of the club, commented on some of the aims and accomplishments. Emphasizing that the Boys' Club tries to provide "the right answer for every boy," he also stressed the urgency of current youth problems.

"Today," he said, "when too many people try to solve problems simply by avoiding them, we feel our positive program for building juvenile decency is doubly important. Admittedly, kids today are subject to a faster pace and greater pressures, but, basically they're much the same as boys of earlier generations. They have the same needs, the same energy and the same ability to adjust to their surroundings."

He explained that the Boys' Club conducts a wide variety of programs and projects to "offer every boy a good start." To combat high school drop-outs and youth unemployment, the club has a program called "Operation Lift-Up." For older club members there are "Keystone Clubs," through which boys are encouraged to conduct community service campaigns.

There are also a complete series of physical fitness, arts and crafts, woodworking, hobby and similar programs, all under professional supervision. Much of the program involves group or team programs, but there is also ample provision for individual activities.

"All we really try to do," said Holochuck "is apply some of the lessons Boys Clubs have learned during more than a century of working with boys. We feel that, if we pay attention to the things that count and give every boy a chance to measure up, he will grow into a healthy, responsible young man."

Democrats Call

tioned the ultimate result of Rockefeller's battle for the liquor bills.

"What is the great moral principle for which he will fight so strongly?" they asked. "Is it to make New York a wide open state for cheap liquor, easy to get for teen-agers?"

Neighboring states have urged New York unsuccessfully to raise its legal drinking age from 18 to 21 to discourage drinking frays by their teen-agers.

Action on Other Bills

The governor's office meanwhile announced Rockefeller's action on several more of the bills he signed Sunday before going to the West Coast to resume his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination.

One of the measures transfers from the Family Court to local health officers the responsibility for administering the state's program of medical care for handicapped children.

Under the old system, authorizations for medical care had to be approved by a Family Court judge. The new law would permit local health officers to give the necessary approval.

Rockefeller's Stand

Rockefeller said in a memorandum that the change would simplify administration, eliminate unnecessary paper work and "insure quicker and better care for thousands of afflicted children."

At the same time, the governor vetoed a bill that would have permitted surrogates to continue handling adoptions indefinitely. The Family Court is to acquire exclusive jurisdiction over adoptions Aug. 1.

Rockefeller pointed out that the changeover was part of the court-reorganization plan enacted two years ago.

Some Insurance Shares Like Investment Trust

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I have $100,000 in common stocks. About one-third of my holdings are in insurance companies — Home, Great American, and Hanover. You never comment on this type of investment. Would you give me your opinion?" A. M.

A) I'm surprised to recall that I rarely receive questions on fire and casualty insurance shares.

The stocks you own are good issues in their class. Home writes all types of insurance, including fire and casualty and a relatively small amount of life coverage. Great America and Hanover write only fire and casualty insurance.

Fire and casualty stocks sell on a yield rather than a growth basis, but the return is good and your issues are worth holding.

Inability to raise rates sufficiently on fire and casualty policies has resulted in some large operating deficits in recent years. With your stocks, these have been more than offset by investment income. Indeed, the large portfolios owned by your companies make them in effect investment trusts.

Q) "I hope you can spare the time to help a little two bit'er like myself. We originally invested $114 in California-Western States Life, which is now worth $1,700. We get little current income and don't need it, but will in three years when I have to retire. Do you think I should hold this stock, or sell and re-invest in something paying higher dividends?" F. R.

A) I like sparing the time to help what you call a little two bit'er.

You have, in my opinion, a sound investment but the current yield, as you say, is negligible.

I am very much in favor of life insurance stocks, but only when they can be held for a long period of time. This is not true in your case, and I believe you should take advantage of the present fairly high price level.

If I were you, I would sell and put the proceeds into $1,000 series H savings bonds and the balance into a savings account.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Pleased With Goulart's Ouster

Johnson Acts Swiftly To Recognize Mazzilli

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has sent his "warmest good wishes" to the new president of Brazil and described as constitutional his ascent to power.

Johnson accepted without question the legitimacy of Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli's installation as head of the Brazilian government although a military coup ousted his predecessor, Joao Goulart.

Better Ties Seen

The Johnson message had the effect of clearly establishing U.S. recognition of the new regime less than 24 hours after Mazzilli took office.

With the ouster of the Goulart government, U.S. officials see an opportunity for improved relations with the South American country. There was no mention in the brief presidential message of Goulart, who was deposed by the military because of his leftist leanings.

"The American people have watched with anxiety the political and economic difficulties through which your great nation has been passing and have admired the resolute will of the Brazilian community to resolve these difficulties within the framework of constitutional democracy and without civil strife," Johnson told Mazzilli, who moved up from the presidency of the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies.

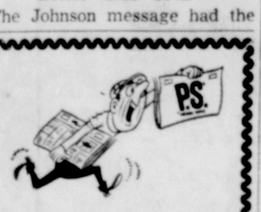

The congratulatory tone of the message was in line with earlier unofficial word that Washington was pleased with Goulart's ouster.

In his note Johnson said, "The relations of friendship and cooperation between our two governments and people are a great historical legacy for us both and a precious asset in the interest of peace and prosperity and liberty in this hemisphere and in the whole world.

"I look forward to the continued strengthening of those relations and to our intensified cooperation in the interests of economic progress and social justice for all and of hemispheric and world peace."

South America's biggest country faces enormous problems of reorganization and reform, and Washington experts say many difficulties lie ahead for the new regime.

The Johnson administration is reported ready to assist with these problems in any way it can. The United States has put hundreds of millions of dollars into Brazil through loans and grants in recent years. But what actually can be done now will depend on how quickly the country settles down after the political revolution and what assistance it seeks for new programs of action.

The boy was taken to the Benedictine Hospital in a Doctors' ambulance for treatment of face and knee abrasions. Officers Lewis Keator and Gerald Tierney investigated.

Javits' Nephew Named Contact in Osterman Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Eric M. Javits, 32-year-old nephew of U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., has been named in court as a contact man in an alleged bribery involving owners of a liquor store and ousted Judge Melvin H. Osterman.

Osterman is now on trial in State Supreme Court here.

The prosecution said Thursday that Eric M. Javits put the owners of a liquor store in touch with Melvyn Thaler, a lawyer whom the prosecution called a front man for Osterman.

Thaler, who was law clerk to Osterman as judge, has been granted immunity from prosecution and is scheduled to testify against Osterman, formerly a Republican district leader in Manhattan.

The trial of Osterman will be resumed Monday.

Value of

terms of enabling the town's future development to occur in the best interests of the entire community. The future pattern of development of the Town of Esopus is being determined now. The big question is whether 10 years from now you will be happy with the decisions you are now making."

In other phases of his talk, Raymond commented on (1) industrial development; (2) business district problems; (3) "small town" identification, and (4) operation of an actual "planning program" as it could be carried out in a "town like Esopus."

He said not all properties in the Town of Esopus were" suitable" for industial development, and that "If all land suitable for industry were to be developed for other uses or chopped up into small parcels, new industrial plants would probably by-pass Port Ewen and seek sites in other towns whose accessibility is being made competitive by the new highways."

To plan for an improved business district, Raymond said, traffic patterns and parking areas "must be carefully laid out in advance, and sometimes purchased in advance, while the needed land is still vacant and cheap. If your community will not engage now in thinking about its future, it will repeat all the errors which are spending so much money and effort to correct in the larger communities throughout the nation."

When it comes to planning, the speaker said, "the small town has a decided advantage over the larger city by reason of the fact that it contains large, relatively open areas with low population density. In the smaller town, planning can be much more effective since the planning process can still properly guide the town's pattern of development, whereas in most of the more urbanized towns and cities the development pattern has long been established and the nature of the planning process must, of necessity, be merely corrective."

In addition, he said, the federal government now encourages the smaller towns to plan and the government's interest is that "it's cheaper in the long run for Uncle Sam to help pay the relatively small cost of advance planning than to wait, and then pay the much higher cost of rebuilding communities."

Raymond said the recent establishment of the Ulster County Planning Board should result in a program which would enable most communities to benefit from the higher rate of federal support of parkland acquisition.

Raymond outlined details of a local "comprehensive plan," which would entail factual studies and analyses, a "prescription" for land use and development and subsequent regulations for zoning, traffic control and rights of way. He also discussed the affect that Kingston's "Broadway East" and "Uptown Business District" Urban Renewal projects would have in the Rondout-Port Ewen areas.

Charles Montafia succeeded Warren Dunham as president of the Port Ewen Businessmen's Association, P. Joseph Beichert, Port Ewen businessman, was master of ceremonies. Zale Liese and Jack Spinneweber were cochairmen of the banquet.

Poorly Designed: Webb

NEW YORK (AP) — Space chief James E. Webb has told the chairmen of the Senate and House Space committees that Ranger 6, which crash-landed on the moon Feb. 2, was poorly designed and inadequately tested before launching, the New York Herald Tribune said today.

Webb, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, listed major faults of Ranger 6 in a letter to Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., the newspaper said in a Washington dispatch by Stuart H. Loory.

YoungManRaised By Hoffa Indicted For Bribe Offer

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —A young man raised by James R. Hoffa has been indicted on charges of offering a $25,000 bribe to a member of the jury which convicted the Teamsters Union president of jury tampering.

Charles L. O'Brien, 29, business agent for a Detroit Teamster local, is accused of offering the money March 9 to Callie Key, a Negro widow, if she would swear Hoffa did not receive a fair trial.

O'Brien posted $15,000 bond and was released pending arraignment.

As a child, O'Brien was taken into Hoffa's home after his father, a Kansas City truck driver, was killed. Hoffa recently said O'Brien is "a boy who I have raised since he was a baby." O'Brien, his wife and their two children live in Hoffa's Detroit home.

The alleged bribe offer took place five days after Hoffa was convicted here and three days before he was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000.

O'Brien has been in Chattanooga since the trial's end seeking affidavits in an effort to win a new trial for Hoffa. The Teamsters leader and three others were convicted of trying to tamper with the jury which heard Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville. That case ended in a mistrial.

Town Board Sets Hearings on Park, Light Districts

A public hearing on the proposal to establish a recreation park district at Barclay Heights has been scheduled for Thursday, April 30 at 8 p. m. in the Town Hall.

The hearing was scheduled by Saugerties Town Board at its Thursday night meeting held in the Town Hall, following the presentation of a petition of residents within the proposed park district by Attorney Michael Catalinotto.

The proposed district embraces approximately 650 residences, 15 business locations with a total assessed valuation of $1.3 million. More than 50 per cent of the assessed valuation must be represented on the petition.

The park site, a project of Saugerties Jaycees, is situated east of Route 9W at the end of Birchwood Drive South. If approved the estimated cost to the park district taxpayers would be about $1.56 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

A public hearing was also scheduled for a proposed light district in the Garden Circle housing development on Tuesday, April 14 at 8 p. m. in the Town Hall.

The total assessed valuation of the property involved is $52,525 and cost to light district taxpayers would be approximately $5.44 per $1,000 on assessed valuation. The project if approved would provide seven 2,500 lumen lights at a cost of $41 per light per year. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. will install the lights.

The board advised a representative of what was described as an auto junkyard at Mt. Marion on the former radio station property, to clear the property. The business is reportedly in violation of the town's junkyard ordinance.

A $200 grant was voted towards the encampment of the North-South Skirmish Association to be held in Saugerties this summer.

Saugerties Central School District was given permission to use four voting machines and two booths for school board elections to be held May 6.

ment, as Stalin had tried to do to Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia. Instead, Suslov proposed a meeting of the world's Communist parties "to discuss the basic problems of our time and to hold the broadest possible exchange of opinions in the interest of surmounting the difficulties that have arisen in the Communist movement."

The blast came while Khrushchev was visiting Hungary. The Soviet premier indicated public annoyance with his Chinese critics on Wednesday by saying Peking wanted to spread world revolution on an empty stomach.

"Isn't it better to have good goulash?" Khrushchev asked applauding Budapest factory workers.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pushed further into new high ground early this afternoon despite a scare which upset the coppers. Trading was active.

Gains of most key stocks were fractional. A few wider moves either way were made by assorted stocks.

Coppers took sharp losses on news that a leftist candidate for president in Chile had promised to nationalize the Chilean properties of Anaconda and Kennecott if he is elected next September.

All the coppers, including those with no holdings in Chile, reacted initially to the stock, some recovering later.

Cigarette stocks continued to push higher as a group. Airlines encountered some profit taking on their recent big gains. Big Three motors were all ahead moderately. Steels, oils, rails, utilities and rubbers were on the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.2 at 303.9 with industrials up 1.7, rails up 1.1 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.15 at 822.02.

Both averages topped historic closing peaks made Thursday.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Irving, 46, of Climax, escaped injury as the vehicle hit a deer. Leeds State Police said the deer was killed, and it was taken away by the truck driver. The truck was owned by Matter Construction Co. Would Bar House Members Seeking Return After 70

WASHINGTON (AP)—A first-term congressman who thinks there are too many old men running things in the House wants members barred from seeking re-election after 70.

"A lot of these old men are in their dotage," said Rep. Everett G. Burkhalter, D-Calif., Thursday. "They're living in the last century."

Burkhalter, at 67, is no pink-cheeked freshman. He had planned to cap a 20-year career in California public life with about three terms in Congress, but has become so discouraged at bucking the rigid seniority system he is retiring after this session.

"I could see I wasn't going to get any place," he told an interviewer. "Nobody listens to what you have to say until you've been here 10 or 12 years. These old men have got everything so tied down you can't do anything."

Burkhalter said he never realized how few people ran Congress until he moved in as a freshman in 1962.

"There are only about 40 out of the 435 members who call the shots," he said. "They're the committee chairmen and the ranking members and they're all around 70 or 80."

Before he leaves he plans to introduce a bill that would lengthen the term of representatives from two years to four, limit them to four terms and bar them from seeking election after reaching 70.

Kingston Group Will Observe Boys Club Week

Members of the Kingston Boys' Club this week joined well over 600,000 deserving members of 635 Boys' Clubs throughout the country in plans to celebrate National Boys' Club Week, April 5-11.

John Holochuck, executive director of the club, commented on some of the aims and accomplishments. Emphasizing that the Boys' Club tries to provide "the right answer for every boy," he also stressed the urgency of current youth problems.

"Today," he said, "when too many people try to solve problems simply by avoiding them, we feel our positive program for building juvenile decency is doubly important. Admittedly, kids today are subject to a faster pace and greater pressures, but, basically they're much the same as boys of earlier generations. They have the same needs, the same energy and the same ability to adjust to their surroundings."

He explained that the Boys' Club conducts a wide variety of programs and projects to "offer every boy a good start." To combat high school drop-outs and youth unemployment, the club has a program called "Operation Lift-Up." For older club members there are "Keystone Clubs," through which boys are encouraged to conduct community service campaigns.

There are also a complete series of physical fitness, arts and crafts, woodworking, hobby and similar programs, all under professional supervision. Much of the program involves group or team programs, but there is also ample provision for individual activities.

"All we really try to do," said Holochuck "is apply some of the lessons Boys Clubs have learned during more than a century of working with boys. We feel that, if we pay attention to the things that count and give every boy a chance to measure up, he will grow into a healthy, responsible young man."

Democrats Call

tioned the ultimate result of Rockefeller's battle for the liquor bills.

"What is the great moral principle for which he will fight so strongly?" they asked. "Is it to make New York a wide open state for cheap liquor, easy to get for teen-agers?"

Neighboring states have urged New York unsuccessfully to raise its legal drinking age from 18 to 21 to discourage drinking frays by their teen-agers.

Action on Other Bills

The governor's office meanwhile announced Rockefeller's action on several more of the bills he signed Sunday before going to the West Coast to resume his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination.

One of the measures transfers from the Family Court to local health officers the responsibility for administering the state's program of medical care for handicapped children.

Under the old system, authorizations for medical care had to be approved by a Family Court judge. The new law would permit local health officers to give the necessary approval.

Rockefeller's Stand

Rockefeller said in a memorandum that the change would simplify administration, eliminate unnecessary paper work and "insure quicker and better care for thousands of afflicted children."

At the same time, the governor vetoed a bill that would have permitted surrogates to continue handling adoptions indefinitely. The Family Court is to acquire exclusive jurisdiction over adoptions Aug. 1.

Rockefeller pointed out that the changeover was part of the court-reorganization plan enacted two years ago.

Some Insurance Shares Like Investment Trust

Q) "I have $100,000 in common stocks. About one-third of my holdings are in insurance companies — Home, Great American, and Hanover. You never comment on this type of investment. Would you give me your opinion?" A. M.

A) I'm surprised to recall that I rarely receive questions on fire and casualty insurance shares.

The stocks you own are good issues in their class. Home writes all types of insurance, including fire and casualty and a relatively small amount of life coverage. Great America and Hanover write only fire and casualty insurance.

Fire and casualty stocks sell on a yield rather than a growth basis, but the return is good and your issues are worth holding.

Inability to raise rates sufficiently on fire and casualty policies has resulted in some large operating deficits in recent years. With your stocks, these have been more than offset by investment income. Indeed, the large portfolios owned by your companies make them in effect investment trusts.

Q) "I hope you can spare the time to help a little two bit'er like myself. We originally invested $114 in California-Western States Life, which is now worth $1,700. We get little current income and don't need it, but will in three years when I have to retire. Do you think I should hold this stock, or sell and re-invest in something paying higher dividends?" F. R.

A) I like sparing the time to help what you call a little two bit'er.

You have, in my opinion, a sound investment but the current yield, as you say, is negligible.

I am very much in favor of life insurance stocks, but only when they can be held for a long period of time. This is not true in your case, and I believe you should take advantage of the present fairly high price level.

If I were you, I would sell and put the proceeds into $1,000 series H savings bonds and the balance into a savings account.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

'65 Yearbook Staff Selected by Students

NEW PALTZ — The members of the junior class of the New Paltz High School has selected the editorial board of the 1965 Huguenot. The group will be responsible for the publication of the school annual. The selection was made by the members of the class, with the ability and availability for the exacting work the main criteria for the choice.

The following are the members of the board: Lynn Petersen, Christopher Lyon, Laura Buchanan, Carl Jacobson, Victoria Burkhart, Beth Carvey, Bonnie Thoben, Barbara Baumgartner, Wendy Carlsen, Alfred Tenaglia, Barbara Tague, Betsy White, Katherine Riche, Albert Bickmore and Sharon Roth. Upon the completion of one month's work during the next school year, the board will select from its membership the editor-in-chief and assistant editor.

The early selection of the editorial board was made in response to the yearbook seminar that will be conducted by the Taylor Publishing Company May 9 at the State University College in New Paltz. The members of the board will have the opportunity of attending the seminar where they will hear qualified speakers on the many problems of yearbook publications and where they will see the best of yearbooks published by the Taylor Company. Harry Streifer is faculty advisor.

Garden Club Names Officers for Year

At the recent meeting of the New Paltz Garden Club at the New Paltz Savings Bank with Herman Glanz, president of the bank as host, the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. George Bogert; first vice president, Mrs. Alvin Beatty; recording secretary, Mrs. Fred Bunt.

The program, Home Is Where the Heart Is, was given by Miss Mavis Taylor. She gave an informative and humorous talk on her experiences with house plants. Mrs. George Bishop exhibited some new plants and begonias.

Mrs. Bogert presented the club members with a new gavel made by her son.

Constructs Audio-Book

Edward Ronk, president of the New Paltz Central School Audio-Visual Club has constructed an audio-book. The equipment used was an empty cigar box, surplus army earphones, jacks, soldering iron and vise.

A classroom teacher makes his own recording of a story through the use of a tape recorder. Each story has an appropriate filmstrip to be shown along with the tape. The students not only hear the teacher's voice but also see filmstrips that visualize the story being dramatized by the teacher. The filmstrip is synchronized with the teacher's voice. The Audio-Book permits the individual classroom teacher to give challenging material to his advanced students and also material at a lower level to those students not as advanced. This gives the teacher an opportunity to give individual help to one section of the class while another group of seven students are working and taking notes from the material presented to them from the Audio-Book. The voice of the pictures can only be heard and seen by those students working with the apparatus. Robert Ducette, social studies teacher, is advisor to the AV group.

Chest Agency Responds to Local Needs

The monthly activity report of the local Salavation Army indicated a continuing demand for the basic needs of people within the community.

Family welfare requests listed 10 food orders; 814 garments; 111 pairs of shoes; 65 dishes and cooking utensils. The Army-Canteen served over 200 cups of coffee to firemen at the scene of the Immanuel Lutheran Church fire.

Over night lodging for transients presents a serious problem, since the local headquarters is not equipped to provide for more than one or two individuals per night. Major Jacob Hohn said that "As many as three deserving persons have been turned away in one night, simply because we do not have the necessary space." In spite of such limited facilities, meals and overnight lodgings were provided for 13 persons.

Special Easter services were conducted by the corps officers, with guest speakers and additional musical programs. Aside from this, 25 church and institutional services were held, and 36 youth meetings with an attendance of 435.

Oscar V. Newkirk, chairman of the Advisory Board, reported with gratitude the fine public response to a recent plea for men's shoes. He also noted that a used piano is badly needed so that the children's music program may be continued.

Mazzilli Needs Farm Reforms To Lead Brazil Successfully

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has used unusual language in sending fast greetings to Brazil's new president, Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli.

In his message Johnson expressed admiration for the way Brazilians settled their difficulties "within the framework of constitutional democracy and without civil strife."

Yet, the new president's ascension to office was the result of a military coup—not a constitutional process—in which the army threw out the elected president, Joao Goulart, who then fled the country.

It was after the army got rid of Goulart that the Brazilian Congress named Mazzilli, president of the Chamber of Deputies, the new president.

The process of choosing Mazzilli could be considered constitutional since the constitution provides when there is no president or vice president the Congress will choose the chief executive.

Favorable American reaction had been expected since last Monday night when a high U.S. State Department official said there was increasing danger of a Communist takeover in Brazil.

The Brazilian army went into action Tuesday night.

Favored Communists

The Associated Press in stories from Brazil has bluntly called Goulart's regime a left-leaning, Communist - influenced government. The Johnson administration wants no more Communist takeovers in the Americas.

And Goulart had let Communists move into high positions.

Last month U.S. diplomats stationed in Latin America were called here for a three-day strategy session on Johnson administration policies in the hemisphere.

After the meeting one source told this story of what happened:

Among other issues the diplomats discussed how far the United States should go in opposing certain dictatorships and military governments.

Some of the diplomats expressed belief the United States should modify its policy of disapproving some of the military and other strongly conservative governments in Latin America.

(Under President John F. Kennedy this government expressed displeasure with some undemocratic regimes by calling its diplomats home and by cutting off economic and military assistance.)

Contention of Diplomats

The visiting diplomats, the same unidentifiable source said, contended that U.S. pressure had little effect on the undemocratic regimes and that it would be better for Washington to keep contact with anyone in power and try to use its influence to alter conditions.

Whether the Johnson administration will recognize extreme reactionary regimes, even if they take over illegally, remains to be seen. The group in control now in Brazil is conservative.

It's a nation where 8 per cent of the landowners hold 75 per cent of the cultivated land although more than 60 per cent of its more than 75 million people gain a living—often sparse—from farming.

Little Done About Farms

More than 60 plans for farm reforms have been made in the past 13 years but little has been done about them. Yet under Goulart in the past year inflation amounted to 81 per cent.

There has been crisis after crisis in the economy. Whether Mazzilli can do any better remains to be seen. But so long as the army and the wealthy conservatives stay together a coup by leftists is unlikely.

But how long revolution can be avoided — without wide reforms to give more people a better share of the living—is a question that will haunt any regime which tries to stand pat and ignore the problem.

The billowing emission from an erupting volcano is not smoke but steam. The vapor's dark color is caused by volcanic ash.

APPLAUDING HER SON'S PERFORMANCE

Q: The music school to which my son goes gave a recital recently. He played a very difficult concerto on the piano and received quite an ovation from the audience. I was very proud and applauded right along with them. My husband, however, did not applaud and said it was not proper to applaud a member of one's own family. I would like your opinion.

A: If you didn't make yourself conspicuous by applauding louder or longer than the others in the audience, there was certainly nothing wrong in applauding your son's playing.

Expressing One's Thanks for Presents

Q: My girl friend thinks a thank-you note has to be sent for every present a person receives. I think it's a nice thing to do but does not make one a social outcast if one doesn't. On just what occasions should thank-you notes be written?

A: I hope your comment applies only to the word "note" and not to the word "thank." If you say "thank you" when you receive a gift, or you call the giver on the telephone, no note is necessary. But not to say thank you at all for a present would be unforgivably rude.

A Lost Fraternity Pin

Q: My boy friend gave me his fraternity pin to wear. After returning home from a date I discovered that the pin was gone. I was unable to find it. What should I do about it? Am I obliged to replace it?

A: Tell him frankly that you have lost his fraternity pin and that if he will order a new one you will gladly pay for it.

MRS. JOHN RICHARD PARETE

Barbara Rose Tosi Weds John R. Parete At Our Lady of LaSalette on March 29

Miss Barbara Rose Tosi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter S. Tosi of Boiceville, exchanged marriage vows with John Richard Parete, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Parete of Stone Ridge. The double ring ceremony took place on Sunday, March 29 at 2 p. m. in Our Lady of LaSalette, Boiceville. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. John Gorman, pastor of St. Francis de Sales in Phoenicia.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Schmitt provided traditional wedding music.

White gladioli and Easter lilies decorated the church for the occasion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk organza posed over bridal taffeta designed with a scooped neckline, long fitted sleeves and a fitted bodice. The bell skirt was accented with a chapel length train. A four tiered veil of wide silk illusion was shirred to a stylized cap of white flowers. The bride carried a white mother-of-pearl prayer book with cascading white roses.

Sandra Bonesio of Boiceville was maid of honor for her cousin. She wore a floor length bouquet taffeta gown in sheath style. It was styled with a circlet neckline, molded bodice, empire style, abbreviated sleeves and a back panel of taffeta which was floor length. She carried a fireside baskets of mums, daises, carnations in yellow and aqua.

Mary Parete of Stone Ridge, sister of the bridegroom, Carol Tosi of the Bronx, cousin of the bride, and Judith Troglio of Jackson Heights, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendant except in shades of maize with gold trim. They carried fireside baskets of mums, daisies and carnations tipped in yellow and aqua.

Donald Parete of Stone Ridge was best man for his brother. Ushering were John McGrath of Poughkeepsie; Gerald McDonough of Kingston; Peter Tosi of Boiceville, brother of the bride.

Approximately 200 guests were received at a reception given in The Tropical, Port Ewen. Afwards the couple left on a wedding trip to Florida. The bride wore a three piece navy blue and white knit suit with navy blue and white accessories.

When Mr. and Mrs. Parete return, they will make their home in Palisades Park, N. J.

New Paltz College Community Orchestra Schedules Concert for Tuesday, April 7

The College Community Orchestra of the State University College, New Paltz, will present its mid-season concert on Tuesday evening, April 7 in the Main Auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

Under the direction of Dr. O. Lincoln Igou, Professor of Humanities, the program will be devoted to compositions written during the 19th and 20th centuries, including "Symphonic Impressions" based on Meredith Willson's recent Broadway success, "The Music Man."

Dr. Igou, explained that the music has been selected with a particular view to audience appeal. "Our programs are always built with regard for the audience, of course, as well as for the interests of the members of the orchestra itself," said Dr. Igou, "but this concert should prove unusually enjoyable for all." He pointed out that music which has been written in relatively recent times naturally finds more general acceptance among listeners than does a composition which was written two or three hundred years ago. In the second place, he said, the music for four national groups will be represented on Tuesday evening's program.

In addition to "The Music Man," Faure, a Frenchman, will be heard in a "Pelleas et Melisande" suite, and German music will be represented through the medium of Weber's ever popular "Invitation to the Dance," a delightful waltz. The major number will be Russian in background: Borodin's "Symphony No. 2 in B Minor." This dramatic work is quite typical of the nineteenth century school of Russian composers of which Tschaikowsky is the best-known representative.

The full symphony orchestra will be represented in the Tuesday program. Membership in the organization is made up of both students at the State University College and of enthusiastic musicians of the mid-Hudson area who come from such nearby areas as Woodstock, Saugerties, Kingston, Newburgh, Liberty, Poughkeepsie, Wappingers Falls, and other localities.

On the following Tuesday, April 14, the group begins rehearsals for a program to be presented in mid-May.

Fair St. Reformed To Host Hope Choir Concert on Sunday

The Hope College Chapel Choir of Holland, Mich., which will be heard Sunday, 8 p. m. in the sanctuary of the Fair Street Reformed Church, 209 Fair Street, made its debut on the campus in 1929 when it was organized by the late Professor W. Curtis Snow. The original choir was made up of 45 voices. It has grown continuously and this year numbers 66 voices. The chapel choir has assisted with the daily chapel services on the Hope College campus through the years.

In 1940, Dr. Robert W. Cavanaugh was appointed to direct the choir. Under his leadership the Hope College Chapel Choir has taken its place among the finest college choirs of the nation. The musical excellence of the choir is shown by the fact that on March 29 of this year, it participated for the third time in the Easter dawn service at Radio City Music Hall. The choir is coming to Kingston this Sunday as part of its seventh Eastern tour.

The program which the choir will present in Kingston will consist entirely of sacred compositions and has been in preparation since last September. The variety of composers, styles and periods will make the concert appeal to young and old, and to persons of all musical tastes.

The Chapel Choir of Hope College, however, is more than a great musical organization. It provides the opportunity for college students from all over the country to join voices in singing some of the greatest sacred music ever composed.

It gives the members the chance to see the country from coast-to-coast, and to become acquainted with the people of the Reformed Church in a personal way. The performance of sacred music has become a tradition of the Chapel Choir and concert-goers from all over the Reformed Church and beyond have come to eagerly anticipate these inspiring musical experiences.

The Fair Street Reformed Church invites the public to hear this outstanding musical organization.

APPLAUDING HER SON'S PERFORMANCE

Q: The music school to which my son goes gave a recital recently. He played a very difficult concerto on the piano and received quite an ovation from the audience. I was very proud and applauded right along with them. My husband, however, did not applaud and said it was not proper to applaud a member of one's own family. I would like your opinion.

A: If you didn't make yourself conspicuous by applauding louder or longer than the others in the audience, there was certainly nothing wrong in applauding your son's playing.

Expressing One's Thanks for Presents

Q: My girl friend thinks a thank-you note has to be sent for every present a person receives. I think it's a nice thing to do but does not make one a social outcast if one doesn't. On just what occasions should thank-you notes be written?

A: I hope your comment applies only to the word "note" and not to the word "thank." If you say "thank you" when you receive a gift, or you call the giver on the telephone, no note is necessary. But not to say thank you at all for a present would be unforgivably rude.

A Lost Fraternity Pin

Q: My boy friend gave me his fraternity pin to wear. After returning home from a date I discovered that the pin was gone. I was unable to find it. What should I do about it? Am I obliged to replace it?

A: Tell him frankly that you have lost his fraternity pin and that if he will order a new one you will gladly pay for it.

Barbara Rose Tosi Weds John R. Parete At Our Lady of LaSalette on March 29

Miss Barbara Rose Tosi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter S. Tosi of Boiceville, exchanged marriage vows with John Richard Parete, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Parete of Stone Ridge. The double ring ceremony took place on Sunday, March 29 at 2 p. m. in Our Lady of LaSalette, Boiceville. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. John Gorman, pastor of St. Francis de Sales in Phoenicia.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Schmitt provided traditional wedding music.

White gladioli and Easter lilies decorated the church for the occasion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk organza posed over bridal taffeta designed with a scooped neckline, long fitted sleeves and a fitted bodice. The bell skirt was accented with a chapel length train. A four tiered veil of wide silk illusion was shirred to a stylized cap of white flowers. The bride carried a white mother-of-pearl prayer book with cascading white roses.

Sandra Bonesio of Boiceville was maid of honor for her cousin. She wore a floor length bouquet taffeta gown in sheath style. It was styled with a circlet neckline, molded bodice, empire style, abbreviated sleeves and a back panel of taffeta which was floor length. She carried a fireside baskets of mums, daises, carnations in yellow and aqua.

Mary Parete of Stone Ridge, sister of the bridegroom, Carol Tosi of the Bronx, cousin of the bride, and Judith Troglio of Jackson Heights, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendant except in shades of maize with gold trim. They carried fireside baskets of mums, daisies and carnations tipped in yellow and aqua.

Donald Parete of Stone Ridge was best man for his brother. Ushering were John McGrath of Poughkeepsie; Gerald McDonough of Kingston; Peter Tosi of Boiceville, brother of the bride.

Approximately 200 guests were received at a reception given in The Tropical, Port Ewen. Afwards the couple left on a wedding trip to Florida. The bride wore a three piece navy blue and white knit suit with navy blue and white accessories.

When Mr. and Mrs. Parete return, they will make their home in Palisades Park, N. J.

Elizabeth Anne Lamb, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lamb of Rosendale, took first place in an oratorical contest last night sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

Miss Lamb, who was judged first place winner on the local level on March 16, represented the Kingston Council of Knights of Columbus in the district competition held in Highland Falls. Her topic was "The Ecumenical Movement."

The youthful speaker is now eligible to compete in the state competition which will take place at the K of C convention on May 22 at the Hotel Commodore in New York. As a district winner, she will be presented with a $200 U. S. Savings Bond at the convention.

In the state contest in New York, Miss Lamb will be competing with nine other contestants. Scholarship awards for the winners will be $2,000 for first place, $1,400 for second place and $1,000 for third.

On March 6, Miss Lamb took third place in a New York State CYO oratorical contest and first place in the local competition.

A senior at Academy of St. Ursula, she has been accepted by the College of Mount St. Vincent where she will major in English.

Oscar VandenDooren Is New Leader Commerce Group

Oscar A. VandenDooren, assistant secretary-treasurer of Rotron Manufacturing Company, has been elected president of the Woodstock Township Chamber of Commerce.

He succeeds Alvin Moscowitz, who assumed office last November when former president William E. West resigned in order to campaign for town office.

Other officers named at the annual meeting of the Chamber's Board of Directors were: Harry Alpern, vice president; Gordon Anderson, re-elected treasurer and Richard O. Langham, re-elected secretary.

Alpern is owner of The Little Shop in Woodstock. Anderson owns Anderson's Hardware and Langham operates the Special Office Services.

VandenDooren became a resident of Woodstock in 1961 and was active in the formation of the Woodstock chamber. He has served on the membership committee, the official chamber brochure committee and the Information Center committee. He also assisted in setting up the constitution and by-laws of the organization.

VandenDooren, who is a Certified Public Accountant, received his B.S. degree from Bradley University in Business Administration and took a refresher course at Loyola University.

During the war he served with the 95th Infantry Division as Chief Warrant Officer. He resides with his wife, Marjorie, and three children, two boys and a girl, on the southern end of Maverick Road. The eldest son is a senior in Onteora and the other children are in kindergarten and second grade.

In addition to the line officers, other members making up the Chamber Board of Directors are: Alvin Moscowitz, William E. West, Nelson Shultis, KiKi Godwin and Irving Kalish.

Local Trustees Reaffirm Stand On Bond Issue

Three Woodstock members of the Onteora Board of Education — David Carlson, John Ebbs and Ann Larys — have submitted the following letter dealing with the forthcoming high school construction bond issue in the Onteora district:

"School bond issues are matters of great community concern. Your Board of Education and the Onteora Central School administration have not taken this high school building proposition lightly. The research and preparation was extensive and thorough before finalization of the plans were established which would sustain the educational standards this community wants for its children. Careful scrutiny of the entire program was made by the board to make all possible cost savings before release of the proposition in the form of a referendum. We have no reservations about the soundness and necessity of this bond issue at this time.

"Population increase in our district is the fundamental cause for the needed additional space. Unless the referendum is passed now for required facilities we face serious crowding at the high school in the Fall of 1965 and almost certain double sessions in the year 1966. Such conditions would jeopardize the opportunities of our youth to get the essential basic training that will give them a fair chance to survive in this increasingly competitive, technological society.

"Spending monies now for this positive approach to the educational needs far outweighs the costs in supporting under-educated and unemployed youth in the future. We urge your support by registering today (April 3) between 2 and 8 p. m. at the Woodstock school and voting yes on April 8."

Khruschev Is Selling Castro on Slow Terror

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

NEW YORK — (NEA)—According to Allen Dulles, the non-Communist nations have no policy to meet the challenge of Red subversion in the underdeveloped countries.

This is a disturbing admission by the former chief of the Central Intelligence Agency. Communism has been a daily threat to western society for close to 50 years. Yet it is tragically true, as Dulles asserted in a recent speech that the Free World the CIA included, has found no effective antidote to Red terrorism and subversion.

Latin America is the latest case in point. President Johnson, in his effort to chart a new course for the Western Hemisphere, is trying to revitalize the Alliance for Progress. Yet the alliance, it is clear, will remain a dead letter as long as Latin America is in the grip of Fidel Castro's terror.

Specialists on communism, in fact, have noted the emergence of a new and subtler Red strategy in most countries below the Rio Grande since Castro's recent visit to Russia.

Premier Khrushchev seems to have shelved, for the present at least, Castro's plan to subvert established governments and promote Red regimes patterned on Cuba's dictatorship. Instead of frontal attacks, Moscow's new policy concentrates on limited acts of terrorism designed to keep Latin America in a permanent state of political and economic chaos.

This is especially evident in Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Panama and Venezuela.

Launches New Drive

According to reports at the United Nations, Fidel Castro, since his return from Russia, has launched a new drive to recruit young Latin Americans for his school of terrorism. Dubbed the "Academy of Terror" by the recruits, the school is located at Minas del Frio, a village in the Sierra Maestra mountains. It is from these mountains that Cuba's dictator launched his own successful revolution.

About 10,000 young men and women from various parts of the Western Hemisphere are already reported to be training at Minas del Frio. Courses include instruction in the use of light weapons, the manufacture of home weapons and how to commit acts of terrorism and sabotage singly or in small groups.

Academy of Terror

Some of the recruits for the academy of terror reach Cuba by air from Mexico City. But the majority are believed to be transported in Russian and Cuban ships or in small boats from nearby Central America.

Graduates of the academy, before they return to their native countries, are supplied with money, propaganda material and small arms. They also receive quantities of arms shipped through commercial airlines, in the baggage of Cuban diplomats or in small boats which cross from Cuba at night to the Yucatan Peninsula of Mexico and then down the shoreline of Central America.

A regular route in contraband arms is also known to run from Brazil through Bolivia and into Peru.

Go-Slow Policy

Latest Red strategy in Latin America, in the view of specialists on communism, is a victory for Premier Khrushchev's go-slow policy over Red China's revolutionary brinkmanship. Its immediate aim is to make shambles of President Johnson's efforts to stimulate economic development and social progress in Latin America.

It costs the Russians $1 million a day to keep Fidel Castro in power. Plagued by their own economic and political troubles they are obviously not interested at present in encouraging Red revolutions which might jeopardize their trade with the West and bring them into open conflict with the United States.

Premier Khrushchev aims to achieve through a permanent terror which breeds fear, economic instability and chaos what Mao Tse-tung seeks to gain through "direct revolutionary action."

Lamb Producers Urged to Keep Complete Records

Lamb producers especially were reminded today of the importance of keeping complete records to support their applications for payment under the national wool program. The same caution, of course, applies to wool growers.

Joseph Sauer, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Ulster County Committee, emphasized that a lamb producer will be eligible to receive a payment on resale of the lambs still unshorn or on the sale of wool removed from such lambs if his program application either shows the number of head and liveweight of unshorn lambs purchased or contains a statement that he purchased "none."

A complete report on purchases of unshorn lambs is necessary, the chairman declared, regardless of whether the lambs were bought for replacement or for subsequent sale, and regardless of whether or not the seller was furnished with a sales document enabling him to apply for payment on the sale of the unshorn lambs. Likewise, the shorn wool application calls for figures on the number and liveweight of the lambs purchased even if any of the lambs are later sheared instead of being sold as unshorn lambs.

Sauer explained that the lamb payments are made under the wool program to encourage the normal marketing of lambs with the wool on and to prevent unusual shearing of lambs. The payments are determined on the basis of the shorn wool incentive payment, the average weight of wool per hundred pounds of lamb, and the value of lamb wool in relation to shorn wool.

Lamb payments are made only on lambs which a producer has owned for 30 days or more, and the amount of payment is based on weight gain of the lambs during the seller's ownership. A complete report on the number and liveweight of any unshorn lambs purchased is needed, therefore, in order to determine the necessary deductions from producers' payments equal to the amount of payment due the owner on the liveweight of unshorn lambs sold.

Brothers Join Marines

Richard Alexander and Michael Alan Seale, sons of Mrs. Alice Seale of Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine joined the U. S. Marines. Both were citizens of Britain where they resided with their mother and father on the Island of Barbados in the British West Indies. They came to the United States a month ago and are now serving in the Armed Forces of this country in which they are to become citizens.

NEW YORK (AP)—The food industry may be called on the carpet again to tell why the prices in the stores seem so high when compared to the prices on the farm.

President Johnson has asked Congress to make such a study. And most housewives will watch with interest.

Notes Difference

They note government figures showing it takes $10.60 now to buy food they could get for $10 in 1957-59, or for $10.50 just a year ago. At the same time farmers, and especially cattlemen, complain of declining prices at the source of supply.

The President wants to know if "the benefits of advanced technology are being fairly distributed among farmers, processors, distributors, retailers and consumers."

The food industry has been on the carpet before. It admits the wide spread between the price of wheat and a loaf of bread, a steer and a steak.

But this time, as in the past, industry spokesmen are likely to stress the rising costs all along the way to the store from the farm or ranch.

Carting is Higher

They will point to higher transportation charges from the farm to the food processing plants, and from the mills and packing houses to the supermarkets and corner groceries. The industry also will say it pays more for rent and labor all along the route. And it could add that the customer or competition — keeps demanding more expensive processing and packaging and precooking or freezing.

The food industry is sure to emphasize that its margin of profits on sales is less than for most other industries and leaves little room for price slashing.

Figures on the relation of profits to sales in 1963 as compiled by the First National City Bank of New York show that for 2,280 manufacturing companies the average was 5.7 per cent. But 28 meat packing firms averaged only 0.7 per cent, 18 baking companies 3 per cent, 11 dairy products firms 2.7 per cent, and 92 other food products processors 4.2 per cent.

The bank's breakdown on profit margins in 1963 shows 59 food chain companies averaging 1.2 per cent net income on sales volume.

But both housewive and cattleman will be interested in Department of Agriculture figures showing that between 1947 and 1964 the prices the farmer got for his beef cattle went down 13.8 per cent while the housewife was seeing beef prices in the stores rise 26 per cent.

Khruschev Is Selling Castro on Slow Terror

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

NEW YORK — (NEA)—According to Allen Dulles, the non-Communist nations have no policy to meet the challenge of Red subversion in the underdeveloped countries.

This is a disturbing admission by the former chief of the Central Intelligence Agency. Communism has been a daily threat to western society for close to 50 years. Yet it is tragically true, as Dulles asserted in a recent speech that the Free World the CIA included, has found no effective antidote to Red terrorism and subversion.

Latin America is the latest case in point. President Johnson, in his effort to chart a new course for the Western Hemisphere, is trying to revitalize the Alliance for Progress. Yet the alliance, it is clear, will remain a dead letter as long as Latin America is in the grip of Fidel Castro's terror.

Specialists on communism, in fact, have noted the emergence of a new and subtler Red strategy in most countries below the Rio Grande since Castro's recent visit to Russia.

Premier Khrushchev seems to have shelved, for the present at least, Castro's plan to subvert established governments and promote Red regimes patterned on Cuba's dictatorship. Instead of frontal attacks, Moscow's new policy concentrates on limited acts of terrorism designed to keep Latin America in a permanent state of political and economic chaos.

This is especially evident in Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Panama and Venezuela.

Launches New Drive

According to reports at the United Nations, Fidel Castro, since his return from Russia, has launched a new drive to recruit young Latin Americans for his school of terrorism. Dubbed the "Academy of Terror" by the recruits, the school is located at Minas del Frio, a village in the Sierra Maestra mountains. It is from these mountains that Cuba's dictator launched his own successful revolution.

About 10,000 young men and women from various parts of the Western Hemisphere are already reported to be training at Minas del Frio. Courses include instruction in the use of light weapons, the manufacture of home weapons and how to commit acts of terrorism and sabotage singly or in small groups.

Academy of Terror

Some of the recruits for the academy of terror reach Cuba by air from Mexico City. But the majority are believed to be transported in Russian and Cuban ships or in small boats from nearby Central America.

Graduates of the academy, before they return to their native countries, are supplied with money, propaganda material and small arms. They also receive quantities of arms shipped through commercial airlines, in the baggage of Cuban diplomats or in small boats which cross from Cuba at night to the Yucatan Peninsula of Mexico and then down the shoreline of Central America.

A regular route in contraband arms is also known to run from Brazil through Bolivia and into Peru.

Go-Slow Policy

Latest Red strategy in Latin America, in the view of specialists on communism, is a victory for Premier Khrushchev's go-slow policy over Red China's revolutionary brinkmanship. Its immediate aim is to make shambles of President Johnson's efforts to stimulate economic development and social progress in Latin America.

It costs the Russians $1 million a day to keep Fidel Castro in power. Plagued by their own economic and political troubles they are obviously not interested at present in encouraging Red revolutions which might jeopardize their trade with the West and bring them into open conflict with the United States.

Premier Khrushchev aims to achieve through a permanent terror which breeds fear, economic instability and chaos what Mao Tse-tung seeks to gain through "direct revolutionary action."

Lamb Producers Urged to Keep Complete Records

Lamb producers especially were reminded today of the importance of keeping complete records to support their applications for payment under the national wool program. The same caution, of course, applies to wool growers.

Joseph Sauer, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Ulster County Committee, emphasized that a lamb producer will be eligible to receive a payment on resale of the lambs still unshorn or on the sale of wool removed from such lambs if his program application either shows the number of head and liveweight of unshorn lambs purchased or contains a statement that he purchased "none."

A complete report on purchases of unshorn lambs is necessary, the chairman declared, regardless of whether the lambs were bought for replacement or for subsequent sale, and regardless of whether or not the seller was furnished with a sales document enabling him to apply for payment on the sale of the unshorn lambs. Likewise, the shorn wool application calls for figures on the number and liveweight of the lambs purchased even if any of the lambs are later sheared instead of being sold as unshorn lambs.

Sauer explained that the lamb payments are made under the wool program to encourage the normal marketing of lambs with the wool on and to prevent unusual shearing of lambs. The payments are determined on the basis of the shorn wool incentive payment, the average weight of wool per hundred pounds of lamb, and the value of lamb wool in relation to shorn wool.

Lamb payments are made only on lambs which a producer has owned for 30 days or more, and the amount of payment is based on weight gain of the lambs during the seller's ownership. A complete report on the number and liveweight of any unshorn lambs purchased is needed, therefore, in order to determine the necessary deductions from producers' payments equal to the amount of payment due the owner on the liveweight of unshorn lambs sold.

Boy Scout Troop 28 Drum and Bugle Cor ps of Ellenville will be among eight corps to compete here on Saturday.

List Background on Two Corps in Saturday Concert

Troop 12 Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps today announced information on two more corps to appear at the "Preview of Corps Sounds" at Kingston High School Auditorium, Saturday at 8 p. m.

Included among the eight corps which will be presenting their favorite selections will be the "Pacers" Drum and Bugle Corps from Poughkeepsie, 1962-63 Hudson Valley Junior Drum and Bugle Corps champions, and the Troop 28 Boy Scouts of America Drum and Bugle Corps, this areas newest Scout corps, from Ellenville.

Those interested in obtaining tickets for the show, being presented by the "Indians," as part of its Silver Anniversary Celebration, may purchase th Rossi's Music Store, North Front Street, from members corps, or by contacting Hugo Schlatter, ticket chairman, 156 Hurley Avenue.

The Pacers Drum and Bugle Corps was organized in 1938, as the Polish American Citizens Club Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps, and participated in many parades locally. In 1960, the corps underwent a modernization movement. The fife section was disbanded, a color guard was formed, the membership increased, all new uniforms and instruments were purchased, and to keep pace with the modern trend the corps members decided to adopt the nickname of the "pacers."

To assist in the efforts to rebuild an up-to-date corps, they enlisted the aid of James Strubel of Kingston, well-known in drum corps circles. Struble arranges the music, instructs the bugle and color guard sections, and directs the drilling. Clarence Killmer of Poughkeepsie is the drum instructor.

The "Pacers" are the Hudson Valley Association Drum and Bugle Corps Junior Champions, having won this title in 1962 and 1963. They are the Columbia County Champions for 1963, and the Estelle and Alfonso Olympic Champions for the years 1962 and 1963.

In September 1963, the corps entered its first marching and maneuvering competition finishing 17th at the first World Open Competition at Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, N. J.

This year the corps will feature a 13-man drum line, an all-girl color guard consisting of 14 members, and a 32-man horn line.

Drum major is Miss Donna Jones and Miss Janet Rexhouse is color guard captain. Musical selections include "Everything Coming Up Roses, Blue Velvet, Americans, We, Exodus and Where or When."

The corps is supervised by a committee of six men consisting of Strubel, Killmer, Ted Kozlowski, John Stech, Ray Secor, and Business Manager Stan Kozloski.

Troop 28 Drum & Bugle Corps was organized in January 1963 through the combined efforts of Harrison Krom, Raymond Morgan and Raymond Stickles Sr.

Through their efforts, instruments were bought and Robert Constant and Faber Jennings became the musical directors of the corps. Charles Craft served as business manager of the corps until September 1963.

The corps first appeared in Ellenville for a dedication ceremony of the Little League Softball Field. Shortly after this, the corps played in the Memorial Day Parade, being the lead unit.

One of the largest parades that the corps has participated in, was the 75th Anniversary Parade of Middletown on June 16, 1963. The corps has also played for the Flag Day Ceremony in Ellenville at the request of the Elks Club, and several other ceremonies for the various youth organizations of the area.

Troop 28 Drum & Bugle Corps wear the Official Boy Scout Uniform with white leggings and their own red neckerchiefs.

Constant is also a musical director with Jennings, Stickles Sr., and Clarence Krom. Drill master is Ernest Zakrzweski.

Wharton Reports Tests for 1965 Academy Posts

A preliminary examination for candidates interested in 1965 designation to the United States Air Force, Merchant Marine, Military and Naval Academies, will be conducted in July by the U.S. Civil Service Commission, it was announced today by Congressman J. Ernest Wharton.

The 28th Congressional District has been allotted one appointment at each of the USAF, Military and Naval Academies, and 10 names will be submitted to compete for approximately 25 vacancies assigned to New York State at the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point.

Until recently, Congressman Wharton noted, no West Point vacancy had been anticipated for the class to be admitted in July 1965. "However, a change in the authorized strength for that location now makes it possible for interested applicants in our five counties to enter the competition."

Candidates must have attained the age of seventeen years and must not have reached the age of 21 as of July 1, 1965; and, be bona-fide residents of the counties of Columbia, Ulster, Dutchess, Greene or Schoharie.

Application forms may be obtained by writing Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, Room 1009, House Office Building, Washington, 25, D. C. Completed applications must be on file no later than June 1, 1964.

Masons Schedule Father And Child Fete for April 6

Rondout Lodge No. 343, F&AM will hold its annual father-child night in the Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue, Monday, 7:45 p. m.

Robert B. Greene, Master of Rondout Lodge, announced that a fine program is being planned under the direction of Jack Shienvold. Fred L. Van Deusen, well-known throughout the Kingston area for his feats of magic will perform.

A puppet show, under the direction of Mrs. Ann McNelis and Mrs. Milded G. DeWitt and starring Kingston High School students will be presented as the finale. Two original plays entitled The Bewitched Witch and The Treasure, written by one of the students, Miss Roseann O'Reilly, will be enacted. Students taking part in the production are Barbara Maynard, Michele Roach, Laurie DeGroff, Roseann O'Reilly, George Philip and Paul Kenik. The puppets were made by the high school art classes and the stage was made by the shop classes.

As usual, a large number of awards will be distributed to the children.

The evening will be concluded by refreshments served in the dining room by the refreshment committee headed by Brother Leon Milikofsky.

Rondout Lodge extends an invitation to all of its members to bring their children to the program.

The earliest settlers on Colorado's Mesa Verde probably arrived shortly after the time of Christ and by 500 or 600 A.D. they were building comfortable pit houses.

Boy Scout Troop 28 Drum and Bugle Corps of Ellenville will be among eight corps to compete here on Saturday.

List Background on Two Corps in Saturday Concert

Troop 12 Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps today announced information on two more corps to appear at the "Preview of Corps Sounds" at Kingston High School Auditorium, Saturday at 8 p. m.

Included among the eight corps which will be presenting their favorite selections will be the "Pacers" Drum and Bugle Corps from Poughkeepsie, 1962-63 Hudson Valley Junior Drum and Bugle Corps champions, and the Troop 28 Boy Scouts of America Drum and Bugle Corps, this areas newest Scout corps, from Ellenville.

Those interested in obtaining tickets for the show, being presented by the "Indians," as part of its Silver Anniversary celebration, may purchase them at Rossi's Music Store, North Front Street, from members of the corps, or by contacting Hugo Schlatter, ticket chairman, 156 Hurley Avenue.

The Pacers Drum and Bugle Corps was organized in 1938, as the Polish American Citizens Club Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps, and participated in many parades locally. In 1960, the corps underwent a modernization movement. The fife section was disbanded, a color guard was formed, the membership increased, all new uniforms and instruments were purchased, and to keep pace with the modern trend the corps members decided to adopt the nickname of the "pacers."

To assist in the efforts to rebuild an up-to-date corps, they enlisted the aid of James Strubel of Kingston, well-known in drum corps circles. Struble arranges the music, instructs the bugle and color guard sections, and directs the drilling. Clarence Killmer of Poughkeepsie is the drum instructor.

The "Pacers" are the Hudson Valley Association Drum and Bugle Corps Junior Champions, having won this title in 1962 and 1963. They are the Columbia County Champions for 1963, and the Estelle and Alfonso Olympic Champions for the years 1962 and 1963.

In September 1963, the corps entered its first marching and maneuvering competition finishing 17th at the first World Open Competition at Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, N. J.

This year the corps will feature a 13-man drum line, an all-girl color guard consisting of 14 members, and a 32-man horn line.

Drum major is Miss Donna Jones and Miss Janet Rexhouse is color guard captain. Musical selections include "Everything Coming Up Roses, Blue Velvet, Americans, We, Exodus and Where or When."

The corps is supervised by a committee of six men consisting of Strubel, Killmer, Ted Kozlowski, John Stech, Ray Secor, and Business Manager Stan Kozloski.

Troop 28 Drum & Bugle Corps was organized in January 1963 through the combined efforts of Harrison Krom, Raymond Morgan and Raymond Stickles Sr.

Through their efforts, instruments were bought and Robert Constant and Faber Jennings became the musical directors of the corps. Charles Craft served as business manager of the corps until September 1963.

The corps first appeared in Ellenville for a dedication ceremony of the Little League Softball Field. Shortly after this, the corps played in the Memorial Day Parade, being the lead unit.

One of the largest parades that the corps has participated in, was the 75th Anniversary Parade of Middletown on June 16, 1963. The corps has also played for the Flag Day Ceremony in Ellenville at the request of the Elks Club, and several other ceremonies for the various youth organizations of the area.

Troop 28 Drum & Bugle Corps wear the Official Boy Scout Uniform with white leggings and their own red neckerchiefs.

Constant is also a musical director with Jennings, Stickles Sr., and Clarence Krom. Drill master is Ernest Zakrzweski.

Wharton Reports Tests for 1965 Academy Posts

A preliminary examination for candidates interested in 1965 designation to the United States Air Force, Merchant Marine, Military and Naval Academies, will be conducted in July by the U.S. Civil Service Commission, it was announced today by Congressman J. Ernest Wharton.

The 28th Congressional District has been allotted one appointment at each of the USAF, Military and Naval Academies, and 10 names will be submitted to compete for approximately 25 vacancies assigned to New York State at the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point.

Until recently, Congressman Wharton noted, no West Point vacancy had been anticipated for the class to be admitted in July 1965. "However, a change in the authorized strength for that location now makes it possible for interested applicants in our five counties to enter the competition."

Candidates must have attained the age of seventeen years and must not have reached the age of 21 as of July 1, 1965; and, be bona-fide residents of the counties of Columbia, Ulster, Dutchess, Greene or Schoharie.

Application forms may be obtained by writing Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, Room 1009, House Office Building, Washington, 25, D. C. Completed applications must be on file no later than June 1, 1964.

Set for June 21

Hudson River Marathon Race Sponsored by Castleton Club

The famous Hudson River Marathon, initiated in 1928 and revived successfully as a pleasure boat racing sport last season after an 11-year lapse, will be held again this year on Sunday, June 21, 1964.

Sponsored by the Castleton Boat Club, the marathon will be run under the sanction and rules of the American Power Boat Association. It has the full approval and support of the New York State Conservation Department's Division of Motor Boats.

James J. O'Brien, director of the division, said New York State supports the marathon as it did last year to show that pleasure boat racing is fun and can be done safely.

Mr. O'Brien said sheriffs' patrols in conjunction with the U. S. Coast Guard and the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will assist the Castleton Club by patrolling the 144-mile race route from Albany to New York City.

For Standard Craft

The marathon will be limited to standard production pleasure craft and motors under the new APBA rules for pleasure craft racing.

Eight classes are scheduled, with single or dual outboard motors permitted. Minimum boat length will be 13 to 15 feet, depending on class, with a crew of two required. There will be cash, trophy and merchandise awards for every class.

Since, under the new APBA rules, virtually every family outboard boat of standard construction can qualify, the race is again expected to draw an extremely large entry field. For additional information, interested parties should write to: Russell Van De Wal, P. O. Box 14, Castleton, N. Y.

Joe Torre Is Very Angry, But Effective

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee officials don't mind if Joe Torre remains angry with them the entire season. They wouldn't even mind trying the same tactics next season — if the final results this year are as profitable as the beginning.

For Torre, however, a repeat performance by the Braves' management wouldn't be profitable. That's what made him angry this year. He arrived at camp about three weeks late following a long contract hassle with President John McHale.

Now after only two weeks, the 23-year-old catcher-first baseman is batting .500. His two-run homer in the 11th inning powered the Braves to a 7-5 triumph over Pittsburgh Thursday, their 13th in 16 exhibition games. The winning blow was Torre's fourth hit of the day.

Compromised on Salary

Torre, whose brother, Frank, also played for the Braves, accepted less money than he wanted after deciding "I wasn't going to let one man spoil my career." He referred to McHale.

The Brooklyn native reportedly signed for about $25,000. McHale said he had asked for a 100 per cent increase over his 1963 salary of $17,500.

In his third year with Milwaukee, Torre batted .293, the best average among catchers in the major leagues.

Houston's Jim Wynn also came through in an extra-inning effort, smashing a 12th-inning grand-slam home run which gave the Colts an 8-4 victory against the New York Mets. Wynn also had a two-run homer in the eighth that tied the game.

Six One-Run Games

Six of the other seven exhibition contests were decided by one run. Only Cincinnati's 8-3 triumph over Detroit was not a close game.

St. Louis handed Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers a 2-1 setback while Minnesota rallied in the eighth for a 2-1 victory against the New York Yankees. Philadelphia nipped Kansas City in still another 2-1 game on John Herrnstein's ninth-inning single.

Dick Dietz' single in the ninth carried San Francisco over Cleveland 4-3, three walks by rookie Wally Bunker in the ninth paved the way for the Chicago White Sox' 8-7 triumph against Baltimore and the Los Angeles Angels squeezed by the Chicago Cubs 6-5, giving Ken McBride his fourth decision.

Texas Relays Commence Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Relays—first of the major outdoor track and field carnivals — opened today with everybody expected to try real hard because it is a step toward the Olympic Games.

Two Olympians were in the field, seeking a return to the big show, and one top new prospect was among the athletes seeing first action. He was massive Randy Matson, the Texas A&M freshman, who has been throwing the 16-pound shot almost 63 feet—with a strained hand.

Matson appeared in the junior college - college freshman division.

High hurdlers Billy Hardin of Louisiana State and Ed Renfrew of Arkansas, who have equaled the Texas Relays record of 13.9, will be among the first to see action.

Also, the Grambling 440-yard relay team, expected to hammer hard at the world's record of 40.0, will be seen in the college class. Grambling already has a 40.3.

Anthony Watson of Oklahoma, who broad-jumped in the last Olympics, is an entry.

Twenty finals will be run off tonight and among them will be an open 440-yard dash in which Earl Young will participate with a view toward a return to the Olympics. Young, the ex-Abilene Christian College star, was sixth in the 400 meters and ran on the winning 1,600-meter relay team in the 1960 Games.

Northern Dancer Is 4-5 Favorite In Florida Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Canadian - owned Northern Dancer and 24 other 3-year-old thoroughbreds are slated to present their Kentucky Derby credentials for consideration Saturday in four rich races topped by the $100,000-added Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park.

In addition to the 1 1-18 miles of the Florida Derby for which Northern Dancer is the 4-5 choice, the preps for the May 2 running of the blue ribbon event at Churchill Downs includes the one mile of the $50,000-added Gotham at Aqueduct, the 1⅛ miles of the $25,000-added Arkansas Derby at Oaklawn Park and the one mile of the Trial at Golden Gate Fields.

Other 3-year-olds also are slated to go in the four stakes but it is the Kentucky Derby candidates that figure to be in the spotlight. The Florida Derby and Gotham each look for nine entries with eight in each pointing for the big Kentucky race. Five of the probable Arkansas Derby starters and four of the likely California Derby Trial field are Kentucky Derby eligibles. Each expect to draw 14 starters.

Northern Dancer, second only to Hill Rise as the Kentucky Derby future book choice, will be ridden by Bill Shoemaker in quest of his second straight Florida Derby triumph. The 33-year-old Shoe won last year with Candy Spots.

The Dancer, never worse than third in 12 starts and winner of nine races, will pack 122 pounds along with four other stakes winners—Roman Brother, The Scoundrel, Dandy K. and Ky. Pioneer. All the others carry 118.

Roman Brother, leading money-winning 2-year-old of 1963, is the 4-1 second choice under Manuel Ycaza. Dandy K., winner of the Fountain of Youth last week, is 6-1 and The Scoundrel and Ky. Pioneer, 8-1. The Scoundrel comes from Rex Ellsworth stable, which sent out Candy Spots. Ky. Pioneer is Calumet's chief hope for an eighth Kentucky Derby victory.

With nine starters, the Florida Derby will gross $117,500 with $78,500 going to the winner.

The Gotham has no horse that can match the reputation of Northern Dancer. But it can go a long way toward finalizing the Eastern representation at Churchill Downs May 2 with the 1⅛ miles of the Wood Memorial on April 18 the final factor.

The probable field includes such top-flight performers as Chieftain, Determined Man, Mr. Brick, Bupers, National and Traffic. It'll be worth $57,800 with nine starters. The winner will earn $37,570.

Kentucky Derby candidates head the California Derby Trial field. They are Nearco Blue, Wil Rad, Real Good Deal and Count Charles. Their final test will come in the California Derby April 18.

The Arkansas Derby has attracted five of the lesser lights of the Kentucky Derby's 138 nominations in Big Felly, Count Tario, Floral Shop, Geology and Prince Davelle.

Roth, Saari Win Swimming Races

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) —Californians Dick Roth and Roy Saari owned records today, but Sarri faced a tought test in a "dream race" in his bid to win three titles again at the AAU indoor swimming meet here.

Roth, a 16-year-old Santa Clara high school junior, sliced more than three seconds off the American 400-yard medley record set by Saari last year. Saari bested his chief rival, Roth's Santa Clara teammate Don Schollander, to win his specialty, the 1,650-yard freestyle, in 16:49.3, an American record.

Saari, 19-year-old Southern California sophomore, has won three titles in each of the last two AAU indoor meets. But today he faced two of the country's best short-distance freestyle swimmers, fellow California Schollander and Steve Clark in the 200-yard race.

Roth beat Germany's Gerhardt Hetz, the world record holder, in the 400-meter medley, by four yards in 4:13.2.

Hetz, at 4:15.8, and Indiana's Ted Stickles, at 4:16.3, also bettered Saari's old mark of 4:16.6.

Elwood Osterhoudt Makes Cortland Nine

Elwood (Woody) Osterhoudt, son of Elwood Osterhoudt of Cottekill, has been selected for the 1964 varsity baseball squad at State University College at Cortland.

The team will play a total of 16 games, including six home games and ten on the road. Osterhoudt, a sophomore, is majoring in physical education.

Did Royals Just Quit In Series?

BOSTON (AP)—"We just laid down," said frustrated Cincinnati Coach Jack McMahon. "If we get this kind of performance, I don't expect we'll win again. The Celtics will sweep us in four."

McMahon held his post-mortem outside the wake-like Royals' dressing room Thursday night after Boston defeated his team 101-90 and took a commanding 2-0 lead in the Eastern Division playoff final.

The best-of-seven National Basketball Association series now moves to Cincinnati Sunday and Tuesday nights. No team in NBA playoff annals ever has been down 0-2 in a seven-game set and pulled it out.

St. Louis, which entered the Western Division final as the underdog, takes a one-game edge into Friday night's second contest at San Francisco.

"The Celtics were aggressive," McMahon said. "We wouldn't even go after a loose ball. I'm disgusted with this team. On switches when a Boston player got by, my boys would say 'oops,' shrug and then figure it wasn't their responsibility any more.

"Look, we're the highest-scoring team in the league and we've got 87 and 90 points in the playoffs. Are they tired? How the devil can they be tired?

"I said Jerry Lucas was 30 per cent with that back condition. Heck, he's not even 10 per cent. He looks like he's afraid to bounce the ball. He must be in pain. He keeps telling me he can play, but he can't.

"Jack Twyman had a good shooting game with 27 points but he gave up that many on defense. Oscar Robertson got 30. He'll get that many if he just gets the ball.

"I think that K.C. Jones of the Celtics is your star. He hustled, he worked the ball in and gave Boston a great game."

"K. C. Jones was great, the whole show," echoed Lucas. "I never before played a game in my life when I didn't score at least one basket."

Lucas was held to three free throws and seven rebounds.

"They played a good ball game, we played a better one," commented Boston Coach Red Auerbach. "We certainly aren't overconfident by any stretch of the imagination."

Tommy Heinsohn got 31 points and Sam Jones 25 to pace Boston scoring.

Sarazen Makes His Last Stand

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Never having seen a Masters tournament en toto, we're finally getting around to it. And Augusta is an enchanting community during Masters Week.

There is added personal interest in the 1964 Masters. Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown and long time friend of Kingston area golf, will be making his last stand. He says he will no longer play in major competition after this year's Masters.

Sarazen's farewell appearance in the Masters will end an incredible span of nearly 50 years in competitive golf. The doughty Little Roman won every tournament for which he was eligible, the PGA three times, the United States Open, British Open twice and PGA Seniors twice. He lost a third Open in a playoff with amateur Lawson Little. He is in golf's Hall of Fame and was 62 on February 27.

The man in the knickers has long outlasted contemporaries of that Golden Era of golf that included Bobby Jones, host at Augusta, Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen, Long Jim Barnes, Bobby Cruickshank and others. He is still one of America's best known golf personalities. Fans see him weekly as commentator on the television show "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf."

Sarazen plays the courses at which the series is filmed, generally in the company of the home professional. Gene generally beats his host and by the time the home pro goes before the cameras he would be happy to take on Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

Customers Always Write, This Time About Bridge

The reaction to all-star bridge selections we announced a few days ago was quick in some quarters. "How could you miss Dr. and Mrs. Harry McNamara in your list of best man and wife bridge players?," querried one reader. Another correspondent wanted to know: how come Dr. John and Ronnie Olivet were not mentioned. "Also," wrote the first reader, "I'd like to nominate Joe Hannigan as the best new player in the area. If you'd like to throw in a few onions with the orchids sometime, I have a few candidates for the most obnoxious, the slowest, and the most unethical, which I am more than ready to share with the readers." No, thanks, dear reader, not just now.

NEA's Sports Division Makes Couple Changes

Newspaper Enterprise Association, known to the trade as NEA, has made a couple changes in personnel that will be reflected in sprightlier syndicated sports features for this newspaper.

Harry Grayson, one of the great personalities and reporters of sports whose Scoreboard has been a regular feature, has taken a new assignment as Sports-Reporter-at-Large. His close collaborator for the past dozen years, Murray Olderman, who writes the "Between You and Me" column is the new NEA sports editor.

Grayson, who is in Florida on the first leg of his assignment, will do three more columns per week, Olderman an additional three. Harry's acquaintance with sports figures is probably unexceeded. Freed from departmental routine, he will mine these sources for exclusives. He is also widely known and in demand as a speaker and on numerous occasions in the past he titillated Kingston audiences with his hard hitting and caustic comments on the national sports scenes.

This is a brilliant tandem — Grayson and Olderman — and we look forward with pleasure to the new NEA format.

Hudson River Marathon Race Sponsored by Castleton Club

The famous Hudson River Marathon, initiated in 1928 and revived successfully as a pleasure boat racing sport last season after an 11-year lapse, will be held again this year on Sunday, June 21, 1964.

Sponsored by the Castleton Boat Club, the marathon will be run under the sanction and rules of the American Power Boat Association. It has the full approval and support of the New York State Conservation Department's Division of Motor Boats.

James J. O'Brien, director of the division, said New York State supports the marathon as it did last year to show that pleasure boat racing is fun and can be done safely.

Mr. O'Brien said sheriffs' patrols in conjunction with the U. S. Coast Guard and the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will assist the Castleton Club by patrolling the 144-mile race route from Albany to New York City.

For Standard Craft

The marathon will be limited to standard production pleasure craft and motors under the new APBA rules for pleasure craft racing.

Eight classes are scheduled, with single or dual outboard motors permitted. Minimum boat length will be 13 to 15 feet, depending on class, with a crew of two required. There will be cash, trophy and merchandise awards for every class.

Since, under the new APBA rules, virtually every family outboard boat of standard construction can qualify, the race is again expected to draw an extremely large entry field. For additional information, interested parties should write to: Russell Van De Wal, P. O. Box 14, Castleton, N. Y.

Joe Torre Is Very Angry, But Effective

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee officials don't mind if Joe Torre remains angry with them the entire season. They wouldn't even mind trying the same tactics next season — if the final results this year are as profitable as the beginning.

For Torre, however, a repeat performance by the Braves' management wouldn't be profitable. That's what made him angry this year. He arrived at camp about three weeks late following a long contract hassle with President John McHale.

Now after only two weeks, the 23-year-old catcher-first baseman is batting .500. His two-run homer in the 11th inning powered the Braves to a 7-5 triumph over Pittsburgh Thursday, their 13th in 16 exhibition games. The winning blow was Torre's fourth hit of the day.

Compromised on Salary

Torre, whose brother, Frank, also played for the Braves, accepted less money than he wanted after deciding "I wasn't going to let one man spoil my career." He referred to McHale.

The Brooklyn native reportedly signed for about $25,000. McHale said he had asked for a 100 per cent increase over his 1963 salary of $17,500.

In his third year with Milwaukee, Torre batted .293, the best average among catchers in the major leagues.

Houston's Jim Wynn also came through in an extra-inning effort, smashing a 12th-inning grand-slam home run which gave the Colts an 8-4 victory against the New York Mets. Wynn also had a two-run homer in the eighth that tied the game.

Six One-Run Games

Six of the other seven exhibition contests were decided by one run. Only Cincinnati's 8-3 triumph over Detroit was not a close game.

St. Louis handed Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers a 2-1 setback while Minnesota rallied in the eighth for a 2-1 victory against the New York Yankees. Philadelphia nipped Kansas City in still another 2-1 game on John Herrnstein's ninth-inning single.

Dick Dietz' single in the ninth carried San Francisco over Cleveland 4-3, three walks by rookie Wally Bunker in the ninth paved the way for the Chicago White Sox' 8-7 triumph against Baltimore and the Los Angeles Angels squeezed by the Chicago Cubs 6-5, giving Ken McBride his fourth decision.

Texas Relays Commence Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Relays—first of the major outdoor track and field carnivals — opened today with everybody expected to try real hard because it is a step toward the Olympic Games.

Two Olympians were in the field, seeking a return to the big show, and one top new prospect was among the athletes seeing first action. He was massive Randy Matson, the Texas A&M freshman, who has been throwing the 16-pound shot almost 63 feet—with a strained hand.

High hurdlers Billy Hardin of Louisiana State and Ed Renfrew of Arkansas, who have equaled the Texas Relays record of 13.9, will be among the first to see action.

Also, the Grambling 440-yard relay team, expected to hammer hard at the world's record of 40.0, will be seen in the college class. Grambling already has a 40.3.

Anthony Watson of Oklahoma, who broad-jumped in the last Olympics, is an entry.

Twenty finals will be run off tonight and among them will be an open 440-yard dash in which Earl Young will participate with a view toward a return to the Olympics. Young, the ex-Abilene Christian College star, was sixth in the 400 meters and ran on the winning 1,600-meter relay team in the 1960 Games.

Northern Dancer Is 4-5 Favorite In Florida Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Canadian - owned Northern Dancer and 24 other 3-year-old thoroughbreds are slated to present their Kentucky Derby credentials for consideration Saturday in four rich races topped by the $100,000-added Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park.

In addition to the 1 1-18 miles of the Florida Derby for which Northern Dancer is the 4-5 choice, the preps for the May 2 running of the blue ribbon event at Churchill Downs includes the one mile of the $50,000-added Gotham at Aqueduct, the 1⅛ miles of the $25,000-added Arkansas Derby at Oaklawn Park and the one mile of the Trial at Golden Gate Fields.

Other 3-year-olds also are slated to go in the four stakes but it is the Kentucky Derby candidates that figure to be in the spotlight. The Florida Derby and Gotham each look for nine entries with eight in each pointing for the big Kentucky race. Five of the probable Arkansas Derby starters and four of the likely California Derby Trial field are Kentucky Derby eligibles. Each expect to draw 14 starters.

Northern Dancer, second only to Hill Rise as the Kentucky Derby future book choice, will be ridden by Bill Shoemaker in quest of his second straight Florida Derby triumph. The 33-year-old Shoe won last year with Candy Spots.

The Dancer, never worse than third in 12 starts and winner of nine races, will pack 122 pounds along with four other stakes winners—Roman Brother, The Scoundrel, Dandy K. and Ky. Pioneer. All the others carry 118.

Roman Brother, leading money-winning 2-year-old of 1963, is the 4-1 second choice under Manuel Ycaza. Dandy K., winner of the Fountain of Youth last week, is 6-1 and The Scoundrel and Ky. Pioneer, 8-1. The Scoundrel comes from Rex Ellsworth stable, which sent out Candy Spots. Ky. Pioneer is Calumet's chief hope for an eighth Kentucky Derby victory.

With nine starters, the Florida Derby will gross $117,500 with $78,500 going to the winner.

The Gotham has no horse that can match the reputation of Northern Dancer. But it can go a long way toward finalizing the Eastern representation at Churchill Downs May 2 with the 1⅛ miles of the Wood Memorial on April 18 the final factor.

The probable field includes such top-flight performers as Chieftain, Determined Man, Mr. Brick, Bupers, National and Traffic. It'll be worth $57,800 with nine starters. The winner will earn $37,570.

Kentucky Derby candidates head the California Derby Trial field. They are Nearco Blue, Wil Rad, Real Good Deal and Count Charles. Their final test will come in the California Derby April 18.

The Arkansas Derby has attracted five of the lesser lights of the Kentucky Derby's 138 nominations in Big Felly, Count Tario, Floral Shop, Geology and Prince Davelle.

Roth, Saari Win Swimming Races

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) —Californians Dick Roth and Roy Saari owned records today, but Saari faced a tought test in a "dream race" in his bid to win three titles again at the AAU indoor swimming meet here.

Roth, a 16-year-old Santa Clara high school junior, sliced more than three seconds off the American 400-yard medley record set by Saari last year. Saari bested his chief rival, Roth's Santa Clara teammate Don Schollander, to win his specialty, the 1,650-yard freestyle, in 16:49.3, an American record.

Saari, 19-year-old Southern California sophomore, has won three titles in each of the last two AAU indoor meets. But today he faced two of the country's best short-distance freestyle swimmers, fellow California Schollander and Steve Clark in the 200-yard race.

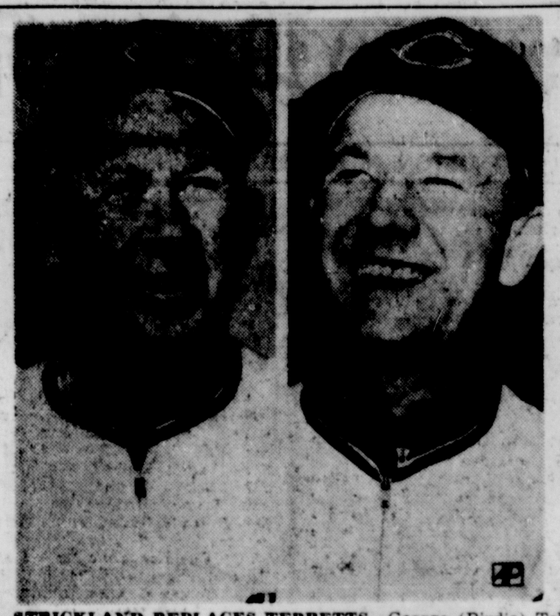

Roth beat Germany's Gerhardt Hetz, the world record holder, in the 400-meter medley, by four yards in 4:13.2.

Hetz, at 4:15.8, and Indiana's Ted Stickles, at 4:16.3, also bettered Saari's old mark of 4:16.6.

Elwood Osterhoudt Makes Cortland Nine

Elwood (Woody) Osterhoudt, son of Elwood Osterhoudt of Cottekill, has been selected for the 1964 varsity baseball squad at State University College at Cortland.

The team will play a total of 16 games, including six home games and ten on the road. Osterhoudt, a sophomore, is majoring in physical education.

Did Royals Just Quit In Series?

BOSTON (AP)—"We just laid down," said frustrated Cincinnati Coach Jack McMahon. "If we get this kind of performance, I don't expect we'll win again. The Celtics will sweep us in four."

McMahon held his post-mortem outside the wake-like Royals' dressing room Thursday night after Boston defeated his team 101-90 and took a commanding 2-0 lead in the Eastern Division playoff final.

The best-of-seven National Basketball Association series now moves to Cincinnati Sunday and Tuesday nights. No team in NBA playoff annals ever has been down 0-2 in a seven-game set and pulled it out.

St. Louis, which entered the Western Division final as the underdog, takes a one-game edge into Friday night's second contest at San Francisco.

"The Celtics were aggressive," McMahon said. "We wouldn't even go after a loose ball. I'm disgusted with this team. On switches when a Boston player got by, my boys would say 'oops,' shrug and then figure it wasn't their responsibility any more.

"Look, we're the highest-scoring team in the league and we've got 87 and 90 points in the playoffs. Are they tired? How the devil can they be tired?

"I said Jerry Lucas was 30 per cent with that back condition. Heck, he's not even 10 per cent. He looks like he's afraid to bounce the ball. He must be in pain. He keeps telling me he can play, but he can't.

"Jack Twyman had a good shooting game with 27 points but he gave up that many on defense. Oscar Robertson got 30. He'll get that many if he just gets the ball.

"I think that K.C. Jones of the Celtics is your star. He hustled, he worked the ball in and gave Boston a great game.

"K. C. Jones was great, the whole show," echoed Lucas. "I never before played a game in my life when I didn't score at least one basket."

Lucas was held to three free throws and seven rebounds.

"They played a good ball game, we played a better one," commented Boston Coach Red Auerbach. "We certainly aren't overconfident by any stretch of the imagination."

Tommy Heinsohn got 31 points and Sam Jones 25 to pace Boston scoring.

Sarazen Makes His Last Stand

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

We're taking a short break from this corner for a pilgrimage to the golf shrine in Augusta, Georgia.

Never having seen a Masters tournament en toto, we're finally getting around to it. And Augusta is an enchanting community during Masters Week.

There is added personal interest in the 1964 Masters. Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown and long time friend of Kingston area golf, will be making his last stand. He says he will no longer play in major competition after this year's Masters.

Sarazen's farewell appearance in the Masters will end an incredible span of nearly 50 years in competitive golf. The doughty Little Roman won every tournament for which he was eligible, the PGA three times, the United States Open, British Open twice and PGA Seniors twice. He lost a third Open in a playoff with amateur Lawson Little. He is in golf's Hall of Fame and was 62 on February 27.

The man in the knickers has long outlasted contemporaries of that Golden Era of golf that included Bobby Jones, host at Augusta, Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen, Long Jim Barnes, Bobby Cruickshank and others. He is still one of America's best known golf personalities. Fans see him weekly as commentator on the television show "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf."

Sarazen plays the courses at which the series is filmed, generally in the company of the home professional. Gene generally beats his host and by the time the home pro goes before the cameras he would be happy to take on Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

Customers Always Write, This Time About Bridge

The reaction to all-star bridge selections we announced a few days ago was quick in some quarters. "How could you miss Dr. and Mrs. Harry McNamara in your list of best man and wife bridge players?," querried one reader. Another correspondent wanted to know: how come Dr. John and Ronnie Olivet were not mentioned. "Also," wrote the first reader, "I'd like to nominate Joe Hannigan as the best new player in the area. If you'd like to throw in a few onions with the orchids sometime, I have a few candidates for the most obnoxious, the slowest, and the most unethical, which I am more than ready to share with the readers." No, thanks, dear reader, not just now.

NEA's Sports Division Makes Couple Changes

Newspaper Enterprise Association, known to the trade as NEA, has made a couple changes in personnel that will be reflected in sprightlier syndicated sports features for this newspaper.

Harry Grayson, one of the great personalities and reporters of sports whose Scoreboard has been a regular feature, has taken a new assignment as Sports-Reporter-at-Large. His close collaborator for the past dozen years, Murray Olderman, who writes the "Between You and Me" column is the new NEA sports editor.

Grayson, who is in Florida on the first leg of his assignment, will do three more columns per week, Olderman an additional three. Harry's acquaintance with sports figures is probably unexceeded. Freed from departmental routine, he will mine these sources for exclusives. He is also widely known and in demand as a speaker and on numerous occasions in the past he titillated Kingston audiences with his hard hitting and caustic comments on the national sports scenes.

This is a brilliant tandem — Grayson and Olderman — and we look forward with pleasure to the new NEA format.

Fires Eight Birdies

Snead's Seven-Under 64 Leads Greenboro By 3

51-Year-Old Ace Seeks 8th Tournament Win

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus hadn't been born back in 1938 when Sam Snead won the inaugural Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament for the first of his seven victories in Greensboro.

Young Jack, now a powerful 24-year-old, had a good look at 51-year-old Sam Thursday as the PGA senior champion shot eight birdies and grabbed a three-stroke first - round lead with a superb seven-under-par 64.

Nicklaus, sharpening his game for next week's defense of the Masters championship, had this to say of the old master after he had posted a 70 to trail Sam by six shots:

"Sam is amazing. He has enough nerve to play shots the way they should be played. Some men at his age play what you might call 'skinny' golf. But he keeps hitting the ball close to the pin. He is amazing."

Threat in Masters

When Nicklaus won the Masters last spring, Snead was only two strokes off the pace in a third-place tie. He has won the classic three times, the last in 1954.

Although he has curtailed his tournament play sharply in recent years, the old slammer from the Virginia hills has been amazingly sharp in his few appearances.

He has taken away more than $27,000 from Greensboro, where his record includes seven victories and eight seconds or thirds.

His 64 Thursday was good for a $400 bonus check, awarded daily for the low round.

Sam had one three-putt green for his only bogey and had four birdies on each side of the 7,000-yard Sedgefield Country Club course, with par of 36-35.

Starting today's play, Australian Bill Dunk and George Bayer were in second place at 67, one shot in front of U.S. Open champion Julius Boros.

Six men shared fifth place at 69, among them British Open champ Bob Charles and Gene Littler.

Joining Nicklaus at 70 were six men, including Arnold Palmer. Still without a victory this year, Palmer started the first three holes three over par, then unleashed seven birdies.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — First-round leaders in the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament:

Sam Snead	33-31—64
Billy Dunk	35-32—67
George Bayer	34-33—67
Julius Boros	34-34—68
Sonny Ridenhour	36-33—69

HT Golf Tourney Delayed One Day

The $10,000 Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund Golf Tournament originally scheduled for the North Redoubt Club, Garrison-on-Hudson, Monday, July 6th, 1964, has been delayed one day to Tuesday, July 7th, in order to accomodate another worth-while organization, JOB, Inc. (Just One Break), a non-profit placement agency for disabled personnel. Their tournament will be played at the Concord Country Club, Concordville, Delaware County, Pa., which is only 20 miles from the Whitemarsh Golf Club scene of the $125,000 Open Golf Tournament Sunday, July 5th.

Additional professionals who have agreed to play include Tommy Aaron, George Bayer, Bob Watson, Gene Sarazen, Jacky Cupit. Among new amateurs are James P. Fairchild, O. Rundle Gilbert and two positions to be filled by Ladies Home Journal guests to be decided at a gold tournament sponsored by them at the North Redoubt Club Tuesday, June 16.

Tavo Crest Winner In Roosevelt Trot

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP) — Tavo Crest found racing room between horses in the closing strides to gain a nose victory over Great Pleasure in the $7,500 Invitational Trot at Roosevelt Raceway Thursday night.

Frank Darish drove the 6-year-old gelding, owned by Anthony Tavolacci of Yonkers, N. Y., to his first win of the season in five starts. Tavo Crest covered the mile on a sloppy track in 2:09 4-5, returning $21.90. Favored Ilo Kid finished third.

DRAT!—That's probably the least Joe Campbell is saying after missing a putt on the golf tour.

Navigation Law Confab Slated In Syracuse

New York's fourth annual Navigation Law Enforcement Officer Training School aimed at helping police personnel prepare for the coming boating season, will be held May 12-14 in Syracuse, the Conservation Department announced today.

Purpose of the three-day training session is to stress interpretation and execution of the State's navigation law and encourage standardized enforcement procedures on New York State waterways.

Since the start of the new state-wide enforcement program in 1960 boating deaths have been reduced by more than 20 per cent.

Officers from Sheriff's Departments, police agencies, the New York State Police and United States Coast Guard are expected to attend. Last year a total of 42 enforcement officers representing 25 government agencies were certified at the school.

Report Tebbetts As Satisfactory

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts was reported "in satisfactory condition and doing well" early today, but doctors still wouldn't make any predictions as to when the Cleveland Indians manager would return to action.

The attending physician at St. Mary's Hospital, where Tebbetts was taken Wednesday night after a heart attack, said tests indicate there has been "some tissue damage." The doctor said no one can make positive statements about a coronary for four or five days.

Leafs See Movie, Top Montreal, 5-3 To Knot Cup Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Manager - Coach George (Punch) Imlach, the Toronto Maple Leaf major domo who has guided his charges to two straight National Hockey League Stanley Cup titles, may have found the key to another championship in a movie theater of all places.

Imlach, a devotee of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, took his Leafs to the movies after they had dropped the third game of their playoff series to Montreal Tuesday. The picture was "One Man's Way," the life story of Dr. Peale, author of "The Power of Positive Thinking."

The Leafs, who had been shut out four times during the regular season by Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge and again in the opening game of the playoffs, came out breathing fire Thursday night. Frank Mahovlich ignited the explosion with two goals and three assists for a 5-3 Toronto victory tying the series at two games apiece.

Dr. Peale, a peace-loving man might not have approved of the Toronto tactics with two full-fledged brawls marring play, but Imlach couldn't argue with the results.

Major Montreal casualties were Jean Beliveau, limping with possibly torn ligaments in his knee and Henri Richard with a wide cut over his right eye.

While the Leafs were snapping something of a jinx against Hodge, Chicago's Black Hawks were doing much the same against the Detroit Red Wings in the other Cup semifinal series. Chicago edged Detroit 3-2 in sudden-death overtime.

Chicago had lost 13 straight games on Detroit Olympia ice and were trailing 2-1 in the third period when Pierre Pilote beat substitute goalie Roger Crozier to send the game into overtime.

The series is now tied 2-2.

2,500 Will Seek to Qualify In 64th USGA Open Tourney

Seventy-seven golf courses in 39 states will be involved in May and early June in determining the field for the first U. S. Open Championship in the nation's capital in 43 years.

The Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C., is the site of the 64th USGA Open Championship, June 18-20. The last time Washington played host to the Open was in 1921, when James M. (Jim) Barnes won by a whopping nine strokes at the Columbia Country Club.

The 150 players who reach Congressional will be determined once more by two 36-hole stroke play qualifying competitions and by two exempt lists. The first list of exemptions excuses certain players from all qualifying. The second exempts others only from the first qualifying stage, Local Qualifying.

It is anticipated that close to 2,500 golfers will enter for the Championship, now held by Julius Boros. The record is 2,474 entries in 1962; last year there were 2,392. Entries must arrive by 5 p. m. on May 6 at USGA headquarters, 40 East 38th Street, New York, N. Y. 10016.

69 Local Trials

There will be 59 Local Qualifying competitions, on Monday, May 25 and Tuesday, May 26, in the first stage of the two-part qualifications. About 20 per cent of the total entries, excluding exempt players, will go on to 13 Sectional Qualifying Championships on Monday, June 8 and Tuesday, June 9. These survivors, along with those totally exempt, will make up the field of 150 for the Championship proper at Congressional.

Approximately $97,800 total prize money will be awarded in the Championship, including $7,800 in the 13 Sectional Championships, where each low scoring professional receives $300, each second place professional $200 and each third place professional $100. The winner's share for the Championship proper has been increased by $1,000 to $17,000. Any professional who starts in the Championship and does not return a score for 72 holes will receive $150. Every amateur who returns a 72-hole score receives a gold medal.

'Moose' Skowron Eyes Opener

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Bill Skowron, out of the Washington Senators line-up for the second time in spring training due to an injury, expects to be available for the season's opener April 13 against the Los Angeles Angels.

Skowron, hitting .591 and leading the Senators in home runs with four, will miss more than a week with a sprained heel. He was out a few days ago due to a recurrence of a back injury.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus hadn't been born back in 1938 when Sam Snead won the inaugural Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament for the first of his seven victories in Greensboro.

Young Jack, now a powerful 24-year-old, had a good look at 51-year-old Sam Thursday as the PGA senior champion shot eight birdies and grabbed a three-stroke first - round lead with a superb seven-under-par 64.

Nicklaus was to get another good look at Sam today. They were paired together for the first two rounds of the 72-hole tournament.

Nicklaus, sharpening his game for next week's defense of the Masters championship, had this to say of the old master after he had posted a 70 to trail Sam by six shots:

"Sam is amazing. He has enough nerve to play shots the way they should be played. Some men at his age play what you might call 'skinny' golf. But he keeps hitting the ball close to the pin. He is amazing."

Threat in Masters

When Nicklaus won the Masters last spring, Snead was only two strokes off the pace in a third-place tie. He has won the classic three times, the last in 1954.

Although he has curtailed his tournament play sharply in recent years, the old slammer from the Virginia hills has been amazingly sharp in his few appearances.

He has taken away more than $27,000 from Greensboro, where his record includes seven victories and eight seconds or thirds.

His 64 Thursday was good for a $400 bonus check, awarded daily for the low round.

Sam had one three-putt green for his only bogey and had four birdies on each side of the 7,000-yard Sedgefield Country Club course, with par of 36-35.

Starting today's play, Australian Bill Dunk and George Bayer were in second place at 67, one shot in front of U.S. Open champion Julius Boros.

Six men shared fifth place at 69, among them British Open champ Bob Charles and Gene Littler.

Joining Nicklaus at 70 were six men, including Arnold Palmer. Still without a victory this year, Palmer started the first three holes three over par, then unleashed seven birdies.

HT Golf Tourney Delayed One Day

The $10,000 Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund Golf Tournament originally scheduled for the North Redoubt Club, Garrison-on-Hudson, Monday, July 6th, 1964, has been delayed one day to Tuesday, July 7th, in order to accomodate another worth-while organization, JOB, Inc. (Just One Break), a non-profit placement agency for disabled personnel. Their tournament will be played at the Concord Country Club, Concordville, Delaware County, Pa., which is only 20 miles from the Whitemarsh Golf Club scene of the $125,000 Open Golf Tournament Sunday, July 5th.

Additional professionals who have agreed to play include Tommy Aaron, George Bayer, Bob Watson, Gene Sarazen, Jacky Cupit. Among new amateurs are James P. Fairchild, O. Rundle Gilbert and two positions to be filled by Ladies Home Journal guests to be decided at a gold tournament sponsored by them at the North Redoubt Club Tuesday, June 16.

Tavo Crest Winner In Roosevelt Trot

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP) — Tavo Crest found racing room between horses in the closing strides to gain a nose victory over Great Pleasure in the $7,500 Invitational Trot at Roosevelt Raceway Thursday night.

Frank Darish drove the 6-year-old gelding, owned by Anthony Tavolacci of Yonkers, N. Y., to his first win of the season in five starts. Tavo Crest covered the mile on a sloppy track in 2:09 4-5, returning $21.90. Favored Ilo Kid finished third.

DRAT!—That's probably the least Joe Campbell is saying after missing a putt on the golf tour.

Navigation Law Confab Slated In Syracuse

New York's fourth annual Navigation Law Enforcement Officer Training School aimed at helping police personnel prepare for the coming boating season, will be held May 12-14 in Syracuse, the Conservation Department announced today.

Purpose of the three-day training session is to stress interpretation and execution of the State's navigation law and encourage standardized enforcement procedures on New York State waterways.

Since the start of the new state-wide enforcement program in 1960 boating deaths have been reduced by more than 20 per cent.

Officers from Sheriff's Departments, police agencies, the New York State Police and United States Coast Guard are expected to attend. Last year a total of 42 enforcement officers representing 25 government agencies were certified at the school.

Report Tebbetts As Satisfactory

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts was reported "in satisfactory condition and doing well" early today, but doctors still wouldn't make any predictions as to when the Cleveland Indians manager would return to action.

The attending physician at St. Mary's Hospital, where Tebbetts was taken Wednesday night after a heart attack, said tests indicate there has been "some tissue damage." The doctor said no one can make positive statements about a coronary for four or five days.

Leafs See Movie, Top Montreal, 5-3 To Knot Cup Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Manager - Coach George (Punch) Imlach, the Toronto Maple Leaf major domo who has guided his charges to two straight National Hockey League Stanley Cup titles, may have found the key to another championship in a movie theater of all places.

Imlach, a devotee of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, took his Leafs to the movies after they had dropped the third game of their playoff series to Montreal Tuesday. The picture was "One Man's Way," the life story of Dr. Peale, author of "The Power of Positive Thinking."

The Leafs, who had been shut out four times during the regular season by Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge and again in the opening game of the playoffs, came out breathing fire Thursday night. Frank Mahovlich ignited the explosion with two goals and three assists for a 5-3 Toronto victory tying the series at two games apiece.

Dr. Peale, a peace-loving man might not have approved of the Toronto tactics with two full-fledged brawls marring play, but Imlach couldn't argue with the results.

Major Montreal casualties were Jean Beliveau, limping with possibly torn ligaments in his knee and Henri Richard with a wide cut over his right eye.

While the Leafs were snapping something of a jinx against Hodge, Chicago's Black Hawks were doing much the same against the Detroit Red Wings in the other Cup semifinal series. Chicago edged Detroit 3-2 in sudden-death overtime.

Chicago had lost 13 straight games on Detroit Olympia ice and were trailing 2-1 in the third period when Pierre Pilote beat substitute goalie Roger Crozier to send the game into overtime.

The series is now tied 2-2.

2,500 Will Seek to Qualify In 64th USGA Open Tourney

Seventy-seven golf courses in 39 states will be involved in May and early June in determining the field for the first U. S. Open Championship in the nation's capital in 43 years.

The Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C., is the site of the 64th USGA Open Championship, June 18-20. The last time Washington played host to the Open was in 1921, when James M. (Jim) Barnes won by a whopping nine strokes at the Columbia Country Club.

The 150 players who reach Congressional will be determined once more by two 36-hole stroke play qualifying competitions and by two exempt lists. The first list of exemptions excuses certain players from all qualifying. The second exempts others only from the first qualifying stage, Local Qualifying.

It is anticipated that close to 2,500 golfers will enter for the Championship, now held by Julius Boros. The record is 2,474 entries in 1962; last year there were 2,392. Entries must arrive by 5 p. m. on May 6 at USGA headquarters, 40 East 38th Street, New York, N. Y. 10016.

69 Local Trials

There will be 59 Local Qualifying competitions, on Monday, May 25 and Tuesday, May 26, in the first stage of the two-part qualifications. About 20 per cent of the total entries, excluding exempt players, will go on to 13 Sectional Qualifying Championships on Monday, June 8 and Tuesday, June 9. These survivors, along with those totally exempt, will make up the field of 150 for the Championship proper at Congressional.

Approximately $97,800 total prize money will be awarded in the Championship, including $7,800 in the 13 Sectional Championships, where each low scoring professional receives $300, each second place professional $200 and each third place professional $100. The winner's share for the Championship proper has been increased by $1,000 to $17,000. Any professional who starts in the Championship and does not return a score for 72 holes will receive $150. Every amateur who returns a 72-hole score receives a gold medal.

'Moose' Skowron Eyes Opener

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Bill Skowron, out of the Washington Senators line-up for the second time in spring training due to an injury, expects to be available for the season's opener April 13 against the Los Angeles Angels.

Skowron, hitting .591 and leading the Senators in home runs with four, will miss more than a week with a sprained heel. He was out a few days ago due to a recurrence of a back injury.

Claude Osteen will make his next-to-last outing before pitching the opener against the Angels when he starts against the Chicago White Sox here Friday.

Democrats in Family Fight

Wisconsin Primary Could Touch Johnson Prestige

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The nation's second presidential primary, the Wisconsin test next Tuesday, finds Democrats in a family fight and Republicans in a position to help decide the winner.

The Democratic clash could reach out to touch the programs and prestige of President Johnson, even though he is not personally entered in the race and has not directly joined the campaign.

The President is represented by favorite-son candidate Gov. John W. Reynolds, who is being challenged by Alabama's segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace.

After a cautious start marked by reserved or hostile receptions, Wallace has increased the tempo of his drive and has been enthusiastically received in three of his latest stops.

This was followed by an announcement from Washington Thursday night that Postmaster General John Gronouski, a former Wisconsin tax commissioner, would join the campaign against Wallace with the approval of Johnson.

Wisconsin Republican reaction will be reflected in the vote totals.

State GOP leaders won the agreement of eight of the party's presidential figures to skip the primary, in favor of an uncommitted national convention delegate slate headed by favorite son, Rep. John W. Byrnes.

Wisconsin voters are free to vote in either the Democratic or Republican races. Democrats are fearful that Republicans, with no contest of their own, will vote in the Democratic race. It has been the other way around in other years.

Wallace has said his campaign—centered on opposition to the pending civil rights bill—was "going good."

"Everybody's against me but the people," he said.

His string of warm receptions began Wednesday night when he took his campaign into a Polish-American neighborhood in Milwaukee and was greeted by a turnaway crowd. He was accorded warm receptions by the Milwaukee Civic Club and the Madison Exchange Club Thursday.

Reynolds has claimed Wallace has "lied" about the impact of the civil rights bill.

State Republican leaders have urged party members not to cross over into the Democratic scrap. Byrnes and unchallenged governor candidate Warren Knowles have been among those attacking Wallace's views.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is Hollywood Boulevard—

Passersby in the gentle spring rain hurried along without a glance toward the stately white building that sits back from the street a block from Grauman's Chinese Theater. That was not unusual, for the Garden Court apartments have long been overlooked in modern Hollywood.

But it was a landmark when it opened on Christmas night of 1919.

"I remember that night," says the present owner, Erwin Karz. "I was just a kid then, but I had my own stripped-down model T Ford. When I saw the Klieg lights in the sky, I hurried over to see the excitement.

Classical Facade

"It was quite a sight. All the stars were going inside, and the champagne was flowing, even though prohibition had started. The parties went on every night until after New Year's."

The 40-year-old glories can still be seen, though sometimes dimly. The facade of the garden court is classical, with scrollwork, Corinthian columns and 24 half-naked Adonises who appear to be supporting the top three of the five stories.

The lobby is filled with oriental rugs, overstuffed furniture and handsome mahogany tables and is usually peopled by longtime tenants. One of them is Stella Turk, whose son wrote "I'll Get By," "Mean to Me" and other songs.

Always Return

"This is a lovely, homey place," said Mrs. Turk, who has lived in the same apartment 24 years. "Anybody who leaves always comes back."

Mae Murray is now a tenant, as she has been off and on since the Garden Court opened. Una Merkel and Sidney Blackmer always stay there when they're in town. Anita Stewart had an apartment for 32 years.

The Garden Court fell into disrepair during a succession of owners. Most of its grand furnishings were lost or looted, including the grand pianos which were in each of the 72 apartments. The new owner is in the process of restoring its former elegance. He has resisted offers to tear it down.

Racial Tension Eases, Lawyer Plans CR Appeal

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) —Racial tensions appeared to ease today while a civil rights lawyer prepared to appeal a federal judge's refusal to take jurisdiction in the state's cases against demonstrators.

The lack of arrests Thursday and the departure today of a prominent demonstrator apparently marked a temporary halt to demonstrations.

Police arrested 285 persons between last Saturday and Wednesday, mostly for violations of the state's trespass laws.

Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, 72 mother of Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, was scheduled to fly back to Boston today. She spent two days in jail on trespass charges and put up a $450 bond for her release.

The lull started Thursday when lawyers, Mrs. Peabody and other witnesses went to Jacksonville in an effort to have the federal court take jurisdiction in the state's cases against the jailed demonstrators.

U.S. District Judge Bryan Simpson refused to take jurisdiction, saying regular county courts could handle the cases.

Defense May Use 'Arch' Analysis

Declarer is not given a monopoly on the use of the word "Arch." The defenders should also Analyze the lead, Review the bidding, Count winners and losers, and finally decide How they may beat the contract.

West opened the five of hearts. East played the eight and South won with the ace.

A diamond lead to dummy's nine was won by East's king and East promptly shifted to the 10 of spades. Eventually the defense cashed three spade tricks and two diamonds to set the contract.

East had analyzed the lead and the play of the ace and determined that South held ace-king-queen of hearts. Here is East's reasoning.

South must hold the king also. Otherwise my partner will have underled a queen-jack-ten sequence. Hence there is no future in the heart suit.

South's false-card of the ace had helped East find the winning defense. Of course, East would probably have found that spade shift if South had won with the queen or king, but the ace play had really been a dead give away.

Incidentally, South's jump to three no-trump had been a slight overbid. He did have 15 points but when nine points are concentrated in a three-card suit, your hand is weaker than its points indicate.

Shanahan Low Bidder on Two Ellenville Jobs

Low bid for Cntracts 1 and 2 of the Village of Ellenville sanitary sewer project was submitted recently by Shanahan Construction Co. of Ellenville.

The firm bid for clay pipe was $654,247 and $706,377.25 for A. C. pipe.

Village Manager John Weichsel noted the bid of the Shanahan company was considerably lower than the estimate of $800,000 which represents 75 per cent of the entire sewer project.

The next low bidder was the S. & S. Construction Co., of South Fallsburgh with $747,208.73 for both the clay and A. C. pipe.

Democrats in Family Fight

Wisconsin Primary Could Touch Johnson Prestige

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The nation's second presidential primary, the Wisconsin test next Tuesday, finds Democrats in a family fight and Republicans in a position to help decide the winner.

The Democratic clash could reach out to touch the programs and prestige of President Johnson, even though he is not personally entered in the race and has not directly joined the campaign.

The President is represented by favorite-son candidate Gov. John W. Reynolds, who is being challenged by Alabama's segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace.

After a cautious start marked by reserved or hostile receptions, Wallace has increased the tempo of his drive and has been enthusiastically received in three of his latest stops.

This was followed by an announcement from Washington Thursday night that Postmaster General John Gronouski, a former Wisconsin tax commissioner, would join the campaign against Wallace with the approval of Johnson.

Wisconsin Republican reaction will be reflected in the vote totals.

State GOP leaders won the agreement of eight of the party's presidential figures to skip the primary, in favor of an uncommitted national convention delegate slate headed by favorite son, Rep. John W. Byrnes.

Wisconsin voters are free to vote in either the Democratic or Republican races. Democrats are fearful that Republicans, with no contest of their own, will vote in the Democratic race. It has been the other way around in other years.

Wallace has said his campaign—centered on opposition to the pending civil rights bill—was "going good."

"Everybody's against me but the people," he said.

His string of warm receptions began Wednesday night when he took his campaign into a Polish-American neighborhood in Milwaukee and was greeted by a turnaway crowd. He was accorded warm receptions by the Milwaukee Civic Club and the Madison Exchange Club Thursday.

Reynolds has claimed Wallace has "lied" about the impact of the civil rights bill.

State Republican leaders have urged party members not to cross over into the Democratic scrap. Byrnes and unchallenged governor candidate Warren Knowles have been among those attacking Wallace's views.

Protests Relations

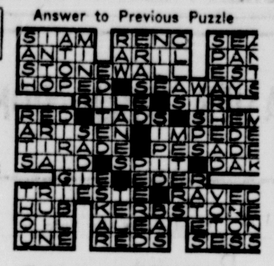

TOKYO (AP)—The pro-Communist Pathet Lao has protested the resumption of diplomatic relations between Laos and South Viet Nam and a reported agreement allowing Vietnamese troops to chase Communist Viet Cong guerrillas on Laotian territory, Peking's New China News agency said today.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is Hollywood Boulevard—

Passersby in the gentle spring rain hurried along without a glance toward the stately white building that sits back from the street a block from Grauman's Chinese Theater. That was not unusual, for the Garden Court apartments have long been overlooked in modern Hollywood.

But it was a landmark when it opened on Christmas night of 1919.

"I remember that night," says the present owner, Erwin Karz. "I was just a kid then, but I had my own stripped-down model T Ford. When I saw the Klieg lights in the sky, I hurried over to see the excitement.

Classical Facade

"It was quite a sight. All the stars were going inside, and the champagne was flowing, even though prohibition had started. The parties went on every night until after New Year's."

The 40-year-old glories can still be seen, though sometimes dimly. The facade of the garden court is classical, with scrollwork, Corinthian columns and 24 half-naked Adonises who appear to be supporting the top three of the five stories.

The lobby is filled with oriental rugs, overstuffed furniture and handsome mahogany tables and is usually peopled by longtime tenants. One of them is Stella Turk, whose son wrote "I'll Get By," "Mean to Me" and other songs.

Always Return

"This is a lovely, homey place," said Mrs. Turk, who has lived in the same apartment 24 years. "Anybody who leaves always comes back."

Mae Murray is now a tenant, as she has been off and on since the Garden Court opened. Una Merkel and Sidney Blackmer always stay there when they're in town. Anita Stewart had an apartment for 32 years.

The Garden Court fell into disrepair during a succession of owners. Most of its grand furnishings were lost or looted, including the grand pianos which were in each of the 72 apartments. The new owner is in the process of restoring its former elegance. He has resisted offers to tear it down.

Wide Areas Get Rain, Snow, Hail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stormy weather struck wide areas across the northern half of the nation today from New England to the Rockies.

Tornadic winds struck the metropolitan St. Louis area, with rain and hail, and swept eastward into Illinois. One person was reported missing and more than 40 others suffered minor injuries in the violent spring storm.

Thunderstorms broke out during the night in Indiana and Ohio and rain splashed across the East Coast from southern New England into northern areas.

Snow in Wyoming

In the West, snow, with strong northerly winds, fell along the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies. Five inches of snow fell in a six-hour period in Lander, Wyo. The stormy weather covered areas in Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Cold weather continued in parts of the northern Midwest and in the snowstorm belt with temperatures in the teens and 20s. One of the low marks was 14 at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Firemen Are Kept Busy on 26 Calls Through County

Ulster County Mutual Aid as well as volunteer firemen were kept on the jump Thursday when a total of 26 calls were received for brush, grass and other fires throughout the county.

Firemen were called to numerous places to quench grass and brush fires and in instances to extinguish fire in buildings which had caught fire. A high wind throughout the day was responsible for the spread of fires.

At 2:45 p. m. Saxton firemen were summoned to extinguish a fire in an unoccupied frame house next to the firehouse. Centerville firemen under Captain Granville (Scotty) Myer as well as Cedar Grove firemen also responded.

The fire, believed to have spread from an adjacent grass fire, started in the shingle roof of a house of Arthur Simmons of Saugerties and before the fire had been extinguished there was considerable damage to the attic from fire, smoke and water.

Called to Motel

In Ellenville firemen were called to the Duval Motel for a mattress fire at 3:29 a. m. Thursday and at 7:23 a. m. to Briggs Highway where a fire damaged chicken coops on the Rothkopf premises. Woodbourne firemen were summoned to assist.

Centerville responded to a call for a brush fire at Blue Mountain where a storage garage on the Giannone property was threatened.

Other Fires

Shortly after 10 a. m. Gardiner firemen were called to the Ivan Ostrander premises where a grass fire got out of control and destroyed a 20 by 20 chicken coop. A large unused cow barn, approximately 50 by 100 feet was threatened but firemen from Gardiner Companies 1 and 2 were able to save the barn. Firemen were under direction of Captain John Grey.

Plattekill firemen were called twice for brush fires. Spring Lake also had two calls as did Ulster Hose Company No. 5, Town of Ulster. Highland firemen were called out three times. Other calls were to Tabasco, Connelly, Marlboro, Walker Valley, Shokan and Tillson.

While Ulster County Mutual Aid reported 26 fire calls for the day, Dutchess County also ran up a total of 24 grass and brush fires.

Rain late Thursday and during the night wet down the area but with clearing weather today the threat of grass and brush fires returned.

Ulster GOP Club Gives Unanimous Backing to Bush

State Sen. E. Ogden Bush of Delancey was given the unanimous endorsement for reelection to his senatorial post at a recent meeting of Town of Ulster Republican Club. A resolution for the club to go on record as wholeheartedly supporting the candidacies of Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, Senator E. Ogden Bush, and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson was adopted without opposition. The club, in supporting Senator Bush, stated that he has done a good job representing this district and his seniority in the New York State Senate is invaluable to the entire district. The resolution was introduced by Sherwood Davis, and seconded by Mrs. Abel Ellsworth.

Kingston Legion For Urban Renew

A letter to Mayor John J. Schwenk, signed by Adjutant C. M. King, noted that a resolution was adopted backing the program and said:

"As in the past, the American Legion is for progress in city, state and country; therefore, for any assistance the post can be in your endeavor, please feel free to call on us."

It takes a snowfall of about 10 inches to equal a rainfall of one inch.

And Leave the Driving to Us

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—In order to help motorists negotiate a three-way intersection in suburban Brighton, traffic engineers installed the following traffic aids:

Eight red-amber-green traffic lights
Ten walk-don't walk signs
Two stop signs
One yield sign
Three do-not-enter signs
One stop-here-on red sign
Two speed limit signs
One bus turn sign

Eight signs instructing pedestrians to push a button to change lights.

The 40 traffic aids replace four stop-and-go blinking lights.

Two Officers Are Out of Hospital

Two members of the local police force, who were under treatment for several days at Kingston Hospital, have returned home and were reported doing well today.

Sgt. Garvin Fisher, of 456 First Avenue, who suffered a back injury when he lifted a case of pistol range ammunition, returned home today. He expects to return to duty in about a week.

Detective William Slover of 317 Hasbrouck Avenue, who underwent a hernia operation, returned home Tuesday. He is to remain off duty for several weeks.

Assails Hudson Proposal for City Manager Rule

A proposal to abolish the office of mayor and operate the City of Hudson government on a city manager plan, was assailed Thursday by Alderman George Markay, who referred to the proposal as a concentration of power that leads to dictatorship.

Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler had made the proposal in a speech to the Common Council Wednesday night.

Alderman Markay rapped the proposals as "not economically feasible for the City of Hudson." He said, "It does not eliminate jobs, nor does it combine departments within the city government. It only creates another department head and staff which will cost the city a minimum of $15,000 a year to operate."

In addition to recommending that his own job be eliminated, Mayor Wheeler also had proposed that the Common Council be reduced to five members and a president, instead of the present 10-man council, a president and a mayor.

The general reaction of other aldermen in the city to Mayor Wheeler's proposal was "no comment" or we'll have to study it."

Writer in Saigon Wins Award for Daily Reporting

NEW YORK (AP)—Malcolm Browne, Associated Press correspondent in Saigon, South Viet Nam, was named winner of the Overseas Press Club award Thursday for the "best daily newspaper or wire service reporting from abroad during 1963."

The judges chose Browne's dispatches from Viet Nam for their "lucidity in content and compactness in style." They noted that "his stories seeem as alive now as when they were hot news."

Previously, Browne had won the Headliners' photo-journalism plaque for his picture and story of a Buddhist monk who burned himself to death. The same picture won the grand prize in the world press photo contest in The Hague.

Horst Faas of The Associated Press was awarded a citation in the "best still photographic reporting" category for his coverage of Viet Nam.

The Overseas Press Club awards will be made at the club's silver jubilee dinner at the Americana Hotel on April 7, when Secretary of State Dean Rusk will be the principal speaker.

Other winners, all in the area of foreign correspondence, are:

Firemen Are Kept Busy on 26 Calls Through County

Ulster County Mutual Aid as well as volunteer firemen were kept on the jump Thursday when a total of 26 calls were received for brush, grass and other fires throughout the county.

Firemen were called to numerous places to quench grass and brush fires and in instances to extinguish fire in buildings which had caught fire. A high wind throughout the day was responsibile for the spread of fires.

At 2:45 p. m. Saxton firemen were summoned to extinguish a fire in an unoccupied frame house next to the firehouse. Centerville firemen under Captain Granville (Scotty) Myer as well as Cedar Grove firemen also responded.

The fire, believed to have spread from an adjacent grass fire, started in the shingle roof of a house of Arthur Simmons of Saugerties and before the fire had been extinguished there was considerable damage to the attic from fire, smoke and water.

Called to Motel

In Ellenville firemen were called to the Duval Motel for a mattress fire at 3:29 a. m. Thursday and at 7:23 a. m. to Briggs Highway where a fire damaged chicken coops on the Rothkopf premises. Woodbourne firemen were summoned to assist.

Centerville responded to a call for a brush fire at Blue Mountain where a storage garage on the Giannone property was threatened.

Other Fires

Shortly after 10 a. m. Gardiner firemen were called to the Ivan Ostrander premises where a grass fire got out of control and destroyed a 20 by 20 chicken coop. A large unused cow barn, approximately 50 by 100 feet was threatened but firemen from Gardiner Companies 1 and 2 were able to save the barn. Firemen were under direction of Captain John Grey.

Plattekill firemen were called twice for brush fires. Spring Lake also had two calls as did Ulster Hose Company No. 5, Town of Ulster. Highland firemen were called out three times. Other calls were to Tabasco, Connelly, Marlboro, Walker Valley, Shokan and Tillson.

While Ulster County Mutual Aid reported 26 fire calls for the day, Dutchess County also ran up a total of 24 grass and brush fires.

Rain late Thursday and during the night wet down the area but with clearing weather today the threat of grass and brush fires returned.

Ulster GOP Club Gives Unanimous Backing to Bush

State Sen. E. Ogden Bush of Delancey was given the unanimous endorsement for reelection to his senatorial post at a recent meeting of Town of Ulster Republican Club. A resolution for the club to go on record as wholeheartedly supporting the candidacies of Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, Senator E. Ogden Bush, and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson was adopted without opposition. The club, in supporting Senator Bush, stated that he has done a good job representing this district and his seniority in the New York State Senate is invaluable to the entire district. The resolution was introduced by Sherwood Davis, and seconded by Mrs. Abel Ellsworth.

Kingston Post 150, American Legion recently went on record in support of the city's urban renewal program.

A letter to Mayor John J. Schwenk, signed by Adjutant C. M. King, noted that a resolution was adopted backing the program and said:

And Leave the Driving to Us

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—In order to help motorists negotiate a three-way intersection in suburban Brighton, traffic engineers installed the following traffic aids:

Eight red-amber-green traffic lights
Ten walk-don't walk signs
Two stop signs
One yield sign
Three do-not-enter signs
One stop-here-on red sign
Two speed limit signs
One bus turn sign

Eight signs instructing pedestrians to push a button to change lights.

Four sonic detectors that synchronize traffic lights in proportion to the flow of traffic.

Two Officers Are Out of Hospital

Two members of the local police force, who were under treatment for several days at Kingston Hospital, have returned home and were reported doing well today.

Sgt. Garvin Fisher, of 456 First Avenue, who suffered a back injury when he lifted a case of pistol range ammunition, returned home today. He expects to return to duty in about a week.

Detective William Slover of 317 Hasbrouck Avenue, who underwent a hernia operation, returned home Tuesday. He is to remain off duty for several weeks.

Assails Hudson Proposal for City Manager Rule

A proposal to abolish the office of mayor and operate the City of Hudson government on a city manager plan, was assailed Thursday by Alderman George Markay, who referred to the proposal as a concentration of power that leads to dictatorship.

Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler had made the proposal in a speech to the Common Council Wednesday night.

Alderman Markay rapped the proposals as "not economically feasible for the City of Hudson." He said, "It does not eliminate jobs, nor does it combine departments within the city government. It only creates another department head and staff which will cost the city a minimum of $15,000 a year to operate."

In addition to recommending that his own job be eliminated, Mayor Wheeler also had proposed that the Common Council be reduced to five members and a president, instead of the present 10-man council, a president and a mayor.

The general reaction of other aldermen in the city to Mayor Wheeler's proposal was "no comment" or we'll have to study it."
